MARTIN SOUNDS CALL FOR UNITY ON ALL FRONTS

Cites G.O.P. Pledge to Push War.

BY PARKE BROWN.

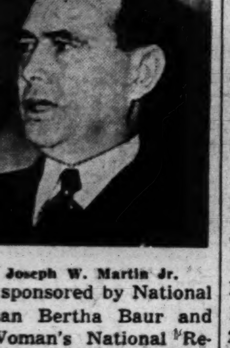
In pitching the key yesterday for the meeting of the Republican national committee, Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr. called for unity in both Americanism and Republicanism.



Joseph W. Martin Jr.

His speech, delivered at a La Salle hotel luncheon sponsored by National Committeewoman Bertha Baur and the Chicago Woman's National Republican club, occupied the attention of the more than 80 committee members to the disadvantage of a discussion of the war resolution to be adopted today, talk inspired chiefly by newspaper men and not participated in extensively by the men and women who will do the voting.

Several to Be Presented.

Martin and other leaders scoffed at reports that there might be a division over directness and completeness of that declaration. They said that several resolutions on this subject will be referred to a committee of seven or nine members to be appointed by the chairman and that no difficulty in deciding upon a resolution acceptable to the great majority will be encountered.

That was the opinion of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, preconvention candidate for President in 1940, in talking about resolutions which will be presented by David S. Ingalls, committeeman for that state. He said that any question whether the committee declaration will be for complete, wholehearted, aggressive support of the war would be "silly."

Taft discussed his own proposals, directing attention to what he considered the vital pledge of unqualified support of the President in the prosecution of the war to complete a final military and naval victory. A brief resolution drafted by Sen. Wayland Brooks of Illinois for introduction by Committeeman Werner W. Schroeder was not made public, but was said to consist chiefly of an almost identical pledge.

Names Committee Today.

Taft discussed his ideas only after Lemoyne Jones, secretary to Wendell L. Willkie, had given the press copies of a resolution written by the 1940 Presidential nominee which, unlike the Taft and Brooks resolutions, would bind the party to some form of internationalism after the war. Taft and others said they felt the committee would not go that far at this early point. Otherwise, the Willkie resolution was almost ignored and was regarded as an effort on Willkie's part to recapture the leadership he held temporarily in 1940.

Chairman Martin said he had not determined upon the personnel of the resolutions committee to be named this morning, but that all sections of the country will be represented on it. It was predicted he would name a group that would settle their little problem amicably and that its decision would be upheld on the floor without anything like friction.

Defends Constructive Criticism.

After words of praise for Gov. Dwight H. Green, who welcomed the visitors to "Republican soil that will stay Republican," for Sen. Brooks and the G. O. P. congressmen from Illinois, Chairman Martin struck as his text a declaration that there must be no partisan politics in the nation's war efforts. But he warned that there is a clearly defined effort by some administration leaders to end all criticism. He branded it as a part of a studied effort to render impotent or destroy the two party system.

"If and when the day ever comes," he said, "that all criticism, appraisal, evaluation, and suggestions can be suppressed and the biparty system of governmental operation liquidated, constitutional government in the United States of America will be at an end.

"We'll have lost everything we

Latest Blaze Unreported to City for Hour

New York, April 19 [Special]. — Fires have recently been a virtual "every day" occurrence aboard the stricken former French luxury liner, Normandie, which was taken over by the navy Dec. 12, Fire Commissioner Patrick J. Walsh charged today.

The commissioner made this announcement after an investigation of last night's destructive four hour blaze, the third to require help from city fire fighters since the navy began the task of converting the vessel into a naval auxiliary. The first fire, on Feb. 9, caused the ship to capsize at her Hudson river pier.

John J. Keeley, director of fire prevention measures on the vessel during salvage operations, said last night's fire was under way for 50 minutes before city firemen were notified. He differed sharply, however, with Walsh's assertion that there have been many other fires.

Denies Other Fires.

"There have been no fires on the Normandie, and if there were they would have been reported to the city fire department," Keeley, a former New York City fire department battalion chief who retired in 1933 after 27 years' service, said.

Walsh said that sparks and molten metal from the metal cutting operations of the salvagers had started numbers of small fires, but these had been extinguished by workmen standing by with ready hoses.

This method failed to work last night, he said, because the flames burrowed instantly beneath a steel wall into a cork refrigerator lining.

Sparks from welder's torches are believed to have started last night's fire as well as the ruinous fire of Feb. 9. An investigation of this blaze by the house naval affairs committee led to a finding that it was due to carelessness and a placing of responsibility with Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. Lack of precautions and conflict of authority and responsibility among naval bureaus were criticized by the committee.

Explosions Spread Fire.

Keeley declared members of his special 21 man fire brigade began fighting the fire at once last night, and believed they could handle it without outside help until an explosion spread the flames.

Walsh said there were three explosions and that their cause was not known but might have been due to an accumulation of gases.

Walsh indicated that gas from decomposing meat stored near where the fire started may have been responsible for the blasts. He said he had no criticism of the fire precautions taken aboard the ship and believed everything possible had been done.

Walsh said the Normandie is "mere tinderwood" and that fire hazards are rooted in the very nature of the highly difficult task of salvaging. He declared much of the material burned was slated for removal anyway and that damage was "very trifling."

U. S. SHIP LOSSES COST INSURANCE FIRMS 17 MILLION

Hartford, Conn., April 19 (AP).—The Hartford Courant said today that axis submarine assaults on American shipping had cost insurance companies writing marine lines a loss of 17 million dollars since Jan. 1. Claims made on sunken and damaged hulls totaled 48 million dollars as against 36 millions in premiums, the newspaper said. Lost cargo claims were listed at 25 million dollars, with 20 millions in premiums.

During the past 22 years the American companies built up marine insurance profits estimated at 20 million dollars and which have been wiped out.

POLICE RECALL A FAMOUS CASE

Chicago Heights Loss Like One on Books.

Ezzel Irons was a man of few words. For instance a more loquacious man might have said:

"Here we are, Patrolman Ezzel Irons and Frank Karas of the Chicago Heights police at 14th street and Wentworth avenue, with no squad car, same having vanished while we were having our 3:30 a. m. lunch."

But Ezzel Irons only said:

"It's gone!"

"Not on Sunday!"

"But how could it be gone?" asked Karas, the more talkative member of the squad. "We weren't in that restaurant 10 minutes. Anyway, it's Sunday morning. Nobody steals squad cars on Sunday. Nobody steals squad cars. Nobody used to, anyway. Let's telephone the station and have the captain send out a radio alarm:

"'Squad car lost. Return to Ezzel Irons and Frank Karas, patrolmen.'"

"Silly!" said Ezzel Irons.

Lost or Misplaced.

"Asking them to put it on the radio?" inquired Karas.

"Us," said Ezzel Irons. "We'll look silly."

But they telephoned anyway. Presently it was all over the state that they'd lost or misplaced their car.

The two policemen walked back to the station, where they received reports that the car had been seen here and there in other towns. An hour and a half later they went back to the restaurant for coffee.

Safe and Sound.

"Reminds me of an old case that never has been solved," said Ezzel Irons. "A celebrated case. Some girl. She didn't report the loss at all and they all came home. Wasn't cars, tho. I ought to remember that name."

"Sheep," said Karas curtly. "Bo Peep."

Washington, D. C., April 19 (AP).—A successful raid by a small mobile force of Americans and Filipinos on enemy outposts in northern Luzon was reported today by the war department, which said "large quantities" of military stores were destroyed and heavy casualties inflicted on the foe.

The fortress island of Corregidor continued, meanwhile, under heavy air and artillery bombardment, a communique said, and defending forces gave stubborn resistance to Japanese invaders of the islands of Cebu and Panay.

[The Berlin radio said Japanese forces on Panay were approaching the center of the island. One formation was said to have reached Pototan, 45 miles north of Iloilo. Tokio radio said Japanese naval units landed without opposition today at Santa Rosario on Guimaras Island, just to the south of Panay.]

Four Batteries Smashed.

At least four and possibly five enemy batteries have been silenced in the past few days by Corregidor gunners, Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainright reported, while effective anti-aircraft fire kept Japanese bombers at "extremely high altitudes."

The raid on northern Luzon was on the towns of San Nicolas, Natividad, and Tayug in Pangasinan province. The points are about 100 miles north of Manila and within a few miles of each other.

Officials here expressed belief the operations were carried out by the same force of raiders which late in February forced the Japanese to evacuate the valley of the nearby Abra river between the towns of Cervantes and Bangued.

"O, Say, Can You See——"

A colorful incident on Corregidor was described by the communique as follows:

"Our flag on Corregidor was a casualty for a few minutes yesterday. Normally the United States flag flies from a 100 foot pole at the highest point on the besieged island fortress. During an intense bombardment from an enemy battery in Bataan a shell fragment struck the pole and cut the halyard.

"Slowly the flag began its descent. However, before it reached the ground Capt. Brewster G. Gallup of Cornell, Cal.; Technical Sergt. Ezra R. Smith of Summer, Ill., and Honorio Punongbayen, Philippine Islands, rushed up and gathered the colors in their arms.

"Not content with saving their country's flag from touching the ground, the group of soldiers immediately set about repairing the pole and the severed halyard. Amid the bursting shells the repairs were completed and the flag was soon waving proudly and defiantly at the top of the island, proclaiming to friend and foe that Corregidor still stands.

"As soon as Gen. Wainwright learned of the incident he officially commended the trio for their gallant service to the colors."

MAP OF INDIAN OCEAN AND BAY OF BENGAL

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will appear a detailed map of the greater part of Asia and contiguous land and sea areas. Central features of this map are India and Ceylon, objectives of the Japanese in a campaign in which the Indian ocean and the Bay of Bengal are the strategic waters. The map shows routes to India and Ceylon and numerous other features of military importance.

GEN. MARSHALL, HOPKINS RETURN FROM ENGLAND

New York, April 19 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, returned by air today from England. He was accompanied by Harry Hopkins, Presidential adviser. Both had been in London for conferences with British war leaders.

Four persons accompanied the pair. Three were said to be high ranking British naval officers and the fourth a British civilian. Gen. Marshall left immediately for Washington. Hopkins was understood to have remained in New York.

Marshall and Hopkins flew to London about two weeks ago.

GERMAN BREAKS RATIONING RULES; SENTENCED TO DIE

BERNE, Switzerland, April 19.—It is reported from Berlin that Karl Sautmann, deputy mayor and hotel proprietor of Mayschoss in the Rhineland, has been sentenced to death for infractions of the rationing regulations regarding food and textiles. Anna Marten, whom he had appointed to the position of local rationing officer, was sent to a penitentiary for 15 years for complicity.

TAKE OFFENSIVE AGAINST JAPS, ALLIES ORDER

Commander Is Given Full Power.

BULLETIN.

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 20 (Monday).—(AP)—Allied planes made large scale assaults upon Japanese shipping yesterday at Rabaul, New Britain, and a direct hit was reported on one vessel. All allied aircraft returned safely to their bases despite heavier enemy fighter opposition than encountered recently.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 19.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now the united nations' commander in chief of all land, sea and air forces in the southwest Pacific, tonight was under instructions to prepare to take the offensive against the Japanese.

His headquarters announced that the United States, Australia, the United Kingdom and the Netherlands had agreed on the scope of his command and had conferred on him the title of "commander in chief of general headquarters of the southwest Pacific area." Heretofore, MacArthur has been described officially as supreme commander.

"Your directive, among other things, instructs you to prepare to take the offensive," said John Curtin, Australia's prime minister, in a congratulatory letter to the general.

New Zealand Included.

No mention was made of New Zealand in the official announcement and there was some confusion as to whether that island dominion, which is 1,200 miles across the Tasman sea from Australia, would come under MacArthur's command. This has been considered a military secret since New Zealand lies across one of the supply routes from the United States.

But Curtin said that New Zealand joined in the charter under which the general was assuming command.

Commanders Named.

The official announcement from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said:

"By agreement among the governments of Australia, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, and the United States, the southwest Pacific area has been constituted effective 2 p. m., Greenwich mean time, April 18.

"MacArthur formally assumes command by virtue of that authority. The following commands composed of the forces assigned to the southwest Pacific area by the respective governments have been created:

"Allied air forces, commander, Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett.

"Allied naval forces, commander, Vice Adm. Herbert F. Leary, U. S. N.

"United States forces in the Philippines, commander, Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright.

All But One U. S. Officers.

All the commanders, except Blamey, who is an Australian, are United States officers. MacArthur is expected to announce his staff soon.

Curtin said that from midnight April 18, Australia had assigned to the command of MacArthur all combat sections of the commonwealth's defense forces and that "all instructions issued by the commander in chief will be considered by Australian commanders as emanating from the Australian government."

The prime minister will confer with the general at allied headquarters tomorrow to arrange details of the transfer of the Australian troops to the new command.

"It is not in the public interest to

HERE'S SUMMARY OF NEWS FROM ALL BATTLE FRONTS

Latest war developments:

The heaviest German air assault of the year was delivered against the Russian army, according to Kuibyshev dispatches, which added that as many as 50 Nazi planes attacked single objectives such as railway stations, airdromes, and fortified positions. On the northern sector of the front the Reds made a breach in the Finnish lines north of Leningrad. Numerous Finnish counterattacks with tanks, motorized units, and heavy artillery were repulsed, Kuibyshev said. Berlin claimed its first victory on the Red front in weeks, saying four Red divisions had been trapped and destroyed in six days of battle in a sea of mud.

Raid Luzon Outposts.

In the Philippines the war department reported a successful raid on Jap outposts in northern Luzon in which large quantities of military stores were destroyed and heavy losses were inflicted. Fighting also is continuing at Corregidor and on the islands of Cebu and Panay. Corregidor gunners were said to have smashed four or five Jap batteries in recent attacks.

Withdraw in Burma.

A Chinese communique indicated a further withdrawal had taken place on the road to Mandalay, saying the Chinese were engaging the Japs at Ela, 10 miles north of the previous line of resistance. The Chinese, according to a New Delhi dispatch, have joined forces with the British 200 miles north of Rangoon.

In two axis air raids on Malta, reported in Valetta dispatches, three German planes were shot down and four more probably destroyed. Intense heat and sandstorms prevented fighting in Libya.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was given full command in the southwest Pacific and directed to take the offensive by the allies.

200,000 TRAINED TROOPS NOW IN ARMY OF POLAND

New York, April 19 [Special].—The Polish armed forces now number more than 200,000 seasoned fighting men, the Polish information center announced today on the basis of cables from the Polish government in London.

The agency said two fully equipped Polish divisions numbering 35,000 men are now in Great Britian, as well as an air force of 12,000. Polish fighter pilots have shot down 500 enemy planes since their arrival in Britain, it was said, and have made 1,955 raids on enemy objectives. There is also a Polish division in Africa, which distinguished itself at the siege of Tobruk, the information center said.

Word has come from Iran that three more Polish divisions, numbering 60,000 men, have crossed the Russo-Iranian frontier on their way to the middle east, and five more divisions with a strength of 75,000 are now being organized in Russia.

2 NEW ALARMS IN TOKIO; REVEAL BIG RAID LOSSES

Factories Destroyed by U. S. Bombs.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, April 20 (Monday)—(AP)—Reuters reported today in a dispatch from Chunking that the planes which raided Japan on Saturday had arrived safely at their destination. It said no details were yet available but that this information came from "well informed quarters" in the Chinese provisional capital.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Two new air raid alarms kept Japan on the alert for four hours yesterday in fear of a repetition of the widespread attacks of Saturday, in which the Japanese people for the first time felt the bitter effects of war in their homeland.

While radio dispatches, most of them relayed to Berlin, put together a picture of destruction which appeared to have been larger than at first reported and indicated that the Japanese people still were at a loss as to the origin of the attacking planes, successive new alarms sounded in central Japan, including Tokio.

The first of these was for two hours, from 2 to 4 a. m. [noon to 2 p. m. Saturday, Chicago time], and the second also for about two hours beginning at 1 p. m. [11 p. m. Saturday, Chicago time].

Reports Are Contradictory.

Berlin reports of the alarms were contradictory, one saying no enemy planes were sighted, no anti-aircraft fire heard and that apparently the alerts were sounded for precautionary purposes, while another broadcast said reconnaissance planes and fighters cruised over Tokio.

[A Berne dispatch said accounts passed by the Japanese censor told of between 60 and 80 bombers having participated in the raid on Tokio. One German language broadcast referred to "art treasure near the capital" which had been irreparably damaged. One of these was stated to have been the marble boat built for the empress early in this century on a lake near the summer palace.]

At least some Japanese factories were disclosed to have been destroyed in the 1,000 mile sweep along the Japanese seaboard in which planes, described by Tokio observers as American, scattered explosive and incendiary bombs on Tokio, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagoya—the capital, two chief ports and big aircraft production center—Saturday.

A Berlin broadcast said "the Japanese government has provided funds for the rebuilding of the factories, dwelling houses and one cinema which were burned down in the Tokio area." Reconstruction work by gangs of volunteers already was in progress, it was said.

Bases Still a Mystery.

"In most cases," the broadcast added, the incendiary bombs were put out quickly.

The bases from which the raiders struck continued to be a mystery. The newspaper Asahi said "MA 40" bombers were used. These ships, also referred to in a Berlin broadcast as "Martin bombers," were described by Asahi as a medium sized bombing plane carrying a crew of five with a maximum speed of 300 miles per hour.

"'MA 40" bombers are not listed in standard reference works. The Martin B26 medium bomber, in use by the United States army, is too large to be flown from a navy aircraft carrier. It is not reputed to have the range to strike from any known land bases near Japan and return. The one-way trip from the nearest islands in the Aleutians to Tokio is nearly 2,000 miles. The distance from the Philippines is about the same distance, while the distance from any probable bases in China is about 1,400 miles.

Eight Bombers Counted.

Maj. Yoshimitsu of the Japanese air force was quoted by Berlin as saying that the raiders "evidently started from a very remote base," and therefore were unable to carry more than one-half to one ton of explosives.

Asahi said three Martin bombers had approached Tokio from the north and five from the east at a height of 24,000 feet, altho a communique Saturday claimed nine raiding planes were shot down.

PETAIN PLEADS WITH FRANCE TO RALLY TO LAVAL

Marshal Says He's Still Boss of Nation.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, April 19.—In a brief broadcast Chief of State Marshal Petain tonight appealed to the French people to rally to the support of his new government, headed by Pierre Laval, who took over his functions as "chief of government" today.

Petain laid stress on the fact that Laval is exercising his office as chief of the government under Petain's authority.

The marshal compared his position in the recent crisis to that in which he found himself at Bordeaux in June, 1940, when he negotiated an armistice with the victorious German army.

Still Under Petain.

Laval, in taking office, declared that he was only exercising powers delegated to him by Petain.

"I have been greatly touched by the marshal's attitude toward me during the days of crisis," he said. "Many difficulties were smoothed over by him. I feel sure that my task will be facilitated by the clear understanding which the head of the state has of our present situation.

"Marshal Petain, when he confided to me the effective direction of our foreign and domestic policies, confronted me with fearful responsibilities. It is inexact to say that he 'gave up' his powers, as some press and radio commentators maladroitly conveyed the idea yesterday. If I am head of the government, it is by virtue of a delegation of powers that the marshal has trusted me with. But the authority of the marshal is indispensable to me for the accomplishment of my mission."

Petain made it clear that he remained boss of the nation, and also that Adm. Jean Darlan would be his successor.

Has Full Authority.

In a decree law it is established that Darlan, acting under direct order of Petain and not under the government, has full authority to decide on the use of the French air and naval fleets, and the army.

In his broadcast, Petain said: "I find myself with him [Laval] again to take up the national task and that of the European organization for which we have together laid the basis.

Laval's first call was on Marshal Petain, with whom he had a lengthy talk. Nothing was disclosed on this talk or on relations with America, the subject of all diplomatic conversation in Vichy tonight.

May Hint Stand on U. S.

Laval is expected to broadcast tomorrow evening and at that time he may give some clarification of the development in the relations between his government and the United States.

It was announced that Gen. Jean Francis Jennekeyn had been appointed secretary for aviation in the Laval cabinet, replacing Gen. Jean Marie Bergeret. This leaves all posts filled except that of secretary of state for industrial production, which appointment is expected tomorrow.

Laval will assemble his cabinet tomorrow for its first full meeting and later he will again take the ministers to the Pavilion Sevigne to present them formally to Marshal Petain.

Parents of Bataan Troops Boost War Prisoner Fund

Some 200 members of the American Bataan clan, an organization of west suburban parents of soldiers and marines that served in the Bataan peninsula campaign, met last night. Tickets for a travel film, "Remember Manila," to be shown April 29 in Proviso Township High school, were distributed and within an hour after the meeting 500 had been sold. The proceeds go to the YMCA and the Red Cross for aid to American prisoners in Japan.

FINNS TO GET HALF POUND OF MEAT A MONTH

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 19.—It is officially announced in Helsingfors that monthly rations of meat will be further reduced after May 1. The Finns will be allowed just above one-half pound of meat per month per person.

The announcement adds that if the grain promised by Germany reaches the market in time it may be possible to increase bread rations, and it is also hoped that distribution of coffee substitutes will become more regular.

The daily Finnish average rations for bread or flour are one-half pound; fats, one-third of an ounce; sugar, one ounce; coffee substitute, one-third of an ounce; meat, one-third of an ounce.

JAPS SEIZE MORE ISLANDS IN DUTCH INDIES, THEY SAY

TOKIO, April 19 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—The occupation of several islands southwest of Sumatra and east of Java in the Netherlands East Indies was claimed by war correspondents today. Japanese troops landed on the small Island of Siberoet, southwest of Sumatra in the Indian ocean, and occupied Gunongsitoli on the larger island of Nias as well as Sioban on tiny Sipora Island, both in the same area.

East of Java, Domei news agency said Japanese troops were beginning a methodical occupation of all islands of major importance. An emissary of the sultan of Soembawa, largest of the Sunda archipelago east of Bali, was said to have called on Japanese authorities in Java and asked for the dispatch of troops "for restoration of law and order."

This dispatch said the sultan of 1,000,000 people hoisted the Japanese flag on his palace upon the first report of Japanese landings in Java, but Netherlands officials took it down and shots were exchanged between Dutch troops and the guards of the sultan. The Dutch were imprisoned, Domei said.

Hi ho, Mom! This is TELLING! he hid the Mrs. Snyder's in the COAL bin

He looked intent; ordered a pound of my nut caramels. Said he'd eat them ALL! was going to hide them in the coal bin; said he didn't know the meaning of generous, today; said he wasn't going to give you a bite; said he intended to be sick, gloriously . . . and hate himself at leisure . . . all THAT, after ALL the trouble WE go through to keep it CLEAN. Go look for it, Mom!

WHIPPED CREAM CARAMELS in these grand flavors: vanilla, licorice and chocolate . . . each made plain, nut-filled, or with layers of marshmallow. A delicious hoard like that needs hiding from some folks.

You bet, there's a difference!

An out of town customer unconsciously wrote this ad for us. He said:

"I go into the Waldorf and order a steak. A week later I go into a lunch room a few blocks away, and again I order a steak. The specifications are the same . . but the steaks are different.

"There's just as much difference between your WALTER MORTON clothes and other ready to wear clothes . . though the difference in price isn't nearly so noticeable."

You, too, will find that just as culinary artistry imparts extra flavor to a steak . . so the care and expertness with which we fit clothes means extra satisfaction in the way they'll look and feel . . on you.

AMERICANS OF 4 DIVERSE ORIGINS PLEDGE LOYALTY

Stage Patriotic Meetings, Folkway Programs.

Chicago's melting pot characteristics were in prominence yesterday at gatherings of Americans of Danish, Greek, Polish, and Chinese background where patriotic sentiments mixed with expressions of native folkways.

The Danish-American Athletic club celebrated its 20th anniversary in the Logan Square Masonic temple at 2451 North Kedzie boulevard with gymnastics and singing. Nearly 1,000 attended, among them as a guest of honor Raymond Baumann, Danish consul general.

Outlines Club's Purposes.

"Our club today has to fill a dual purpose," said Anker W. Jensen, its president. "Not only do we try to keep our traditional physical and educational culture alive in the minds and hearts of members, but we must also do what we can to prepare them for service to their country."

Chicagoans of Greek extraction thronged the meeting of the Order of Amazons of Pindus of America in the Hotel Sherman. Proceeds of the dance will be used to buy war bonds. Service men were guests. Demetrius Benetatos, the Greek consul general, urged complete support of this country's war effort in behalf of America and the affiliated nations.

Polish wedding customs were shown on the stage at the Northwestern university settlement at 1400 Augusta boulevard. It was the fourth annual presentation by the Neighborhood guild of the settlement.

Stage Mock House Warming.

A colorful folk dress was exhibited here in the mock "Poprawiny"—a house warming given by parents of the bride, in which the village priest and organist take part.

Whoever expected a riotous demonstration of joy by the Chinese at news ofthe air raids of Japanese cities—and some did expect it—have forgotten the impassive manner in which the Chinese have received tragic tidings. There was a quiet party at 2216 Wentworth avenue where Gerald Moye, the unofficial mayor of Chinatown, used the good news to raise fresh funds for Chinese relief. He emphasized that there were no fireworks and that it should not be considered a "celebration."

Report Allies, Japs to Swap Noncombatant Prisoners

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 19.—Repatriation of allied and Japanese noncombatant prisoners will soon take place, according to information reaching THE TRIBUNE tonight. Passengers will travel on a number of British, American, and Japanese ships, which will cross the Indian ocean, bound for Lourenco Marques, in Portuguese East Africa, where the exchange will be effected. The ships, it is understood, will sail with lights ablaze at night and conspicuously marked, so that they will be immune from attack.

Two Sons of Pennsylvania Democratic Chief Killed

Portersville, Pa., April 19 (AP).—Brennan Lawrence, 16 years old, and David L. Lawrence Jr., 13, sons of the national Democratic committeeman from Pennsylvania, were killed tonight in an automobile accident. Five other Pittsburgh youths who were in the car were hurt. State Motor Policeman A. L. Knudson said the Lawrence car, in which the boys had gone riding, overturned.

Merchant Vessel Rammed and Sunk by Another Ship

Boston, Mass., April 20 [Monday]—(AP).—First naval district headquarters announced early today that a medium sized merchant vessel was rammed and sunk by another merchant vessel last night near the east end of the Cape Cod canal. "The entire crew of the lost ship is safe," the announcement said. "The vessel went down in 50 feet of water."

PRAY FOR HITLER, GOEBBELS ASKS GERMAN PEOPLE

BERLIN, April 19 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels at a party meeting on the eve of Adolf Hitler's 53d birthday, compared the fuehrer tonight to Frederick the Great who at a critical stage of the seven years war had to pass thru hard trials. Goebbels called on the German people to pray for "our Hitler" so that "he may increase and multiply his works," and to pray to have their "hearts and souls filled with steadfastness and strength."

The press was filled today with tributes to Hitler.

Policeman Fires 3 Shots; Recovers Somebody's Tire

When Sergt. Bernard L. Jones, aboard a street car at Grand avenue near Hermitage avenue, saw two men rolling an auto tire and wheel along the street he ordered the motorman to stop. When he shouted to the men to halt, they ran. After three futile shots, he gave up and rolled the tire and wheel to the Racine avenue police station. Then he went on to work at the Maxwell station.

CALL TOKIO RAID SIGNAL FOR VAST U. S. OFFENSIVE

'Incessant Pounding' of Japan Expected.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—The American air raid on Tokio and other Japanese cities, still officially unconfirmed, is regarded in administration circles as only a curtain raiser for the offensive the United States will endeavor to wage from now on against its oriental enemy.

The program is understood to call for an incessant pounding of Japanese home naval bases, military installations of all kinds, plane and arms factories and port facilities by long range bombers in preparation for a showdown of strength between the American and Japanese navies.

The air attack on Japan is expected to impel the enemy to call back many planes and warships from the Burma front and the southwest Pacific, thus relieving the pressure on the British in the Bay of Bengal and minimizing the danger to Australia.

Need Large Naval Force.

Unless it becomes possible to launch American planes from Chinese and Siberian bases it will be necessary to employ considerable naval forces to maintain and protect a sustained bombing of Japan. Our Alaskan base is too far away from Japan for effective bombing. The brunt of the operations must be borne by aircraft carriers launching bombers at a distance of not more than 500 miles. The carriers require a large protective force of warships.

The theory behind the new offensive is that the quickest way to victory is to strike the Japanese empire at its nerve center, destroy its means of making war and cut communications with its forces in the southwest Pacific and Burma. The question is how soon the United States will be able to muster the strength in the western Pacific that will be needed to overcome the enemy.

Navy Is Dispersed.

America's navy was seriously crippled at Pearl Harbor and the Battle of Java and a considerable portion of it is dispersed on many battle fronts of this global war. The United States has lost up to date 31 warships of all types, Japan 88, Great Britain 373, Italy about 70, Germany about 50, Russia upwards of 50. In naval strength the ratio of the united nations to the axis is now about 3 to 2 in aircraft carriers, about 7 to 4 in battleships.

Of aircraft carriers, essential to the long range bombing of Japan under existing circumstances, the United States had six at the beginning of the war and was building 13. Also a score or more of merchant ships are being converted into auxiliary carriers. Japan had eight carriers before the war, acknowledged two under construction and was building an unknown number in secret.

Aircraft carriers have become as important as battleships by virtue of the development of air power, the fast ones being regarded as even more important than the heaviest battleships.

Expansion Gains Favor.

Rumors that the Japanese were building 45,000 ton battleships caused the United States to go in for such giants. There is increasing sentiment in congress in favor of expanding the aircraft carrier and contracting the battleship building program.

Dispersion of a considerable part of our one ocean navy for service in the seven seas has reduced the capacity to cope with the submarine menace off our shores. As a result, since the beginning of the war, 136 tankers and other merchantmen have been sunk at our very doors with great loss of life and property.

The President's view that Australia is a strategically vital area is not shared by some of our most competent army and navy strategists. To establish and maintain our land, sea and air forces in Australia our navy is guarding a convoy line between 7,000 and 8,000 miles long.

Must Patrol Coast, Too.

It is guarding supply routes to Alaska and Hawaii, the West Indies, Iceland and Northern Ireland and the 3,000 mile Atlantic convoy route. What naval units can be spared are trying to patrol the nearly 3,500 miles of our coasts but with little success in scotching the submarines preying in our waters.

The United States now has armed forces stationed in more than 30 places overseas, including Iceland, Greenland, Newfoundland, Bermuda, Northern Ireland, England, Puerto Rico, Panama, Trinidad, Jamaica, British Guiana, Surinam [Dutch Guiana], Antigua, Virgin Islands, Guantonamo, St. Lucia, Alaska, and the Aleutian Islands, Hawaii, Midway, various other Pacific islands, New Zealand and Australia, Java, China, Burma, India, Eritrea, Egypt, Iran, and various African points.

O'HARE ARRIVES IN WASHINGTON AT NAVY'S ORDER

Washington, D. C., April 19 (AP).—The navy's No. 1 air hero, Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare, arrived in Washington today knowing only that the navy department had ordered him here.

Accompanied by his wife, the former Chicago flyer who shot down six Japanese planes in the Pacific, arrived by commercial plane from Phoenix, Ariz. Lieut. Comm. Harold B. Miller, who greeted O'Hare at the airport, told reporters O'Hare had not been told why he was summoned to the capital.

Enters Army

Lieut. Ronald Reagan leaving Hollywood home to enter army. His wife, Jane Wyman, and daughter are with him.

Hollywood, Cal., April 19 [Special].—Ronald Reagan, just given star ranking by his Hollywood studio, husband of Actress Jane Wyman and father of a year old daughter, Maureen Elizabeth, left a brand new home in Beverly Hills tonight for active duty as a lieutenant of cavalry with the army.

Reagan, under contract to Warner Brothers since the start of his film career, received his reserve commission at Fort Des Moines, Ia., five years ago, and has since kept active in army affairs.

He departed for San Francisco, to report at Fort Mason

He was married to Jane Wyman in January, 1940, and their daughter was born a year later. Reagan just completed a co-starring rôle with Errol Flynn.

He is a native of Illinois, a graduate of Eureka college, and was a sports commentator over the radio before joining the films.

NAPERVILLE, ILL., FLYER ESCAPES DEATH IN CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, April 19.—Pvt. First Class Glenn A. Petersen of Naperville, Ill., escaped death a week ago today when the army observation plane in which he was flying as gunner clipped a tree top and crashed out of control in dense jungleland during the recently concluded Canal Zone army maneuvers. The plane was simulating the bombing of ground troops when it crashed.

Petersen's flying companions, Second Lieut. Willard N. Hendrickson and First Lieut. Charles H. Bryant Jr., were killed instantly. Petersen, who suffered leg injuries, is convalescing in an army hospital.

The Chicagoland soldier is the son of A. E. Petersen of 211 North Wright street, Naperville. Army authorities notified Mrs. Janet Bryant of Des Moines, Ia., wife of Lieut. Bryant, and Mrs. Ole Hendrickson of Millboro, S. D., of the deaths of the two officers.

SWEEPS SIDEWALK; ROBBED OF $65.

Max Meyer, a pharmacist, went to the sidewalk in front of the Lifschultz drug store at 2600 Division street yesterday to sweep up the broken glass after a Negro customer had dropped a bottle. While he was sweeping another Negro entered the store and took $65 from the money drawer.

TWO NEW ALARMS IN TOKIO; REVEAL BIG RAID DAMAGE

Factories, Dwellings and a Cinema Destroyed.

ing of the effects of the attacks, there were other hints that damage might have been considerable. Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo was disclosed to have been received by Emperor Hirohito "after he had returned from a tour of inspection of the prefectures north of Tokio."

Altho he was said to have reported "on the successful repulse of the air attacks," he then conferred with Home Minister Michio Yusawa and Railways Minister Yoshiaki Natta, which suggested that numerous internal problems, including transport, had been raised by the raid.

Clothing Given Victims.

Newspapers devoted many pages to the raid, with stories by eyewitnesses and pictures of damaged areas, a Berlin broadcast said.

Innumerable parcels of clothing and other gifts "for victims who suffered from the bombardment" were reported by Berlin to have been sent to Tokio. The ministry of finance urged the taking out of war risk insurance.

The report that factories had been destroyed was the first admission that anything except hospitals, schools, and dwellings had suffered, altho an official statement continued to stress that no war industries had been affected and to assert that the raid was a "complete failure."

Asahi said 140 school children were killed by bombs, and another report, via Berlin, said more than 30 school children were machine gunned, and other casualties caused by explosive and incendiary bombs dropped on hospitals and other places near Tokio.

Mentions "Stricken Areas."

This broadcast spoke of "stricken areas," but went to great pains to emphasize that "life remained completely normal"; that "the population is working as usual and communications continue to operate without any major restrictions."

The newspaper Miyako warned the people that they must not "make light of enemy attacks," and predicted that "the enemy will continue guerrilla aerial attacks on a mission more to lower the people's morale than to destroy property."

"Together with the iron defense of our air defense forces, the fighting spirit of the nation's 100,000,000 people is more than ever intensified," declared Miyako.

Domei denied that there was even a single case of "confusion as neighborhood units comprising housewives as well as men, took their previously assigned stations with pumps, shovels, buckets, and other fire fighting equipment."

Most Bombs Incendiaries.

San Francisco, Cal., April 19 (AP).—The Japanese controled Saigon radio was reported today to have broadcast that most of the bombs dropped on Japanese cities by American planes were incendiaries. This was the first direct statement that the bombing was of a type which Japan fears most—incendiary raids against her wood and paper built cities.

The radio was quoted as saying:

"Thanks to the activity of the auxiliary and anti-aircraft units, combined with the calm of the population, the damage was limited to a minimum. Except for a very few bombs, the enemy dropped mainly incendiaries weighing only 12 pounds which did not cause any great damage.

"The Japanese headquarters for the central region said in a communique that the enemy planes dropped incendiary bombs over six different points in the village of Nagoya. In Kobe the enemy planes dropped incendiary bombs on three different points. Finally the enemy also machine gunned agricultural villages. No damage was caused."

"Will Tie Up Air Force."

CHUNGKING, China, April 19 (AP).—Jubilant Chinese circles predicted today that Saturday's air raids on Japan would compel Japan to tie up a large portion of her air force for home defense, thus weakening the power of her invasion forces.

The official Central Daily News commented:

"Only two weeks ago, Japanese militarists proclaimed that allied planes would never reach Japan. The raids were a big lesson to Japan and are bound to affect the morale of the armed forces and the people. They testify to America's growing strength. Not only is she able to aid Britain, Russia, and China but she is also powerful enough to send out an expeditionary air fleet against Japan."

NAZIS LOSE 3 PLANES, PERHAPS 7, IN 2 HEAVY BOMB RAIDS ON MALTA

VALLETTA, Malta, April 19 (AP).—Three German planes were shot down and four more probably destroyed today in axis raids which inflicted considerable civilian property damage and some casualties among Malta residents. There were two heavy raids, the first by dive bombers on harbor and gun positions and the second by heavy bombers on airdromes.

Temperature 119 Degrees.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 19 (AP).—The khamseen, hot, sand-laden desert wind which usually blows from the south for five stifling days, held the Libyan battlefront in its grip over the week-end, grounding planes and bringing land fighting virtually to a stop. Temperatures rose to 119 degrees, the hottest April weather Egypt has experienced in years.

TAKE OFFENSIVE! GEN. MacARTHUR TOLD BY ALLIES

Takes Full Command in Southwest Pacific.

disclose the strength of the forces which have passed to Gen. MacArthur's command," he said.

Supersedes Far East Command.

The new command for MacArthur supersedes that of the "United States army forces of the far east." The "United States army forces of the Indies and Australia," continue under Barnes, who was commander before Brett arrived in Australia.

A military spokesman was unable to clarify whether Brett will continue to hold the title of deputy supreme commander. Brett served as deputy supreme commander to the British Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell in Java, and before the arrival of MacArthur in Australia was commander of the American forces here.

Hail Official Status.

The announcements were hailed in Australia as ending the uncertainty which has surrounded the high command setup. The Tribune correspondent, with other newspaper correspondents who sent dispatches concerning the uneasiness here, were not offering destructive criticism of the allied war effort; they were trying to get across the idea that failure to authorize MacArthur to appoint his high command was having an undesirable effect on public morale in the southwest Pacific. The man in the street was beginning to wonder what was going on, and correspondents frequently were asked, "is MacArthur getting the brush off?"

Confidence has been restored now and it is realized that despite the lack of a directive, Gen. MacArthur has been making progress since his arrival in Australia.

Momentous Occasion, Says Curtin.

Curtin's letter to MacArthur said:

"Now that I have received advice from the minister of external affairs of your directive approved by the President, I have asked the government's advisers to submit with utmost expedition a statement of Australian forces to be assigned to you and to advise the earliest date at which the new arrangement can become effective. The date is to be arranged in consultation with you.

"This is a momentous occasion for the peoples of the united nations. You have received a charter as supreme commander, not only from your government, but also from the governments of the united kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, and the Netherlands.

Leads a Crusade.

"You have come to Australia to lead a crusade, the result whereof means everything to the future of the world and mankind.

"At the request of this sovereign state you are being placed in supreme command of its navy, army, and air force so that with those of your own great nation they may be welded into a homogenous force and given that unified command which is most vital for achievement of victory.

"Your directive, among other things, instructs you to prepare to take the offensive. I would assure you of every possible support that can be given you by the government and people of Australia in making Australia secure as a base for operations, in assisting you to marshal the strength required to wrest the initiative from the enemy and in joining with you in the ultimate offensive to bring about the total destruction of the common foe.

"We hope and pray that your military efforts may be crowned with great success."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

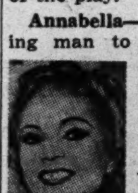
What was your most embarrassing moment on the stage? [Asked of the actors in "Blithe Spirit."]

WHERE ASKED.

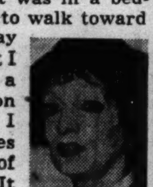
The Selwyn theater, 180 North Dearborn street.

THE ANSWERS.

Dennis King—The lady with the hoop skirt had just uttered two mildly funny lines. As she stood and turned her back to me and the audience the hoop remained in a sitting position with pantaloons revealed. The audience roared. She thought she was a success. The audience and I were an uncomfortably long time getting back into the mood of the play.



Annabella—It was time for my leading man to make his appearance. With out-stretched arms I said, "Ah—he comes." But he didn't come, so I said it again with a little more emphasis and volume, but still nothing happened. I adlibbed until he made his appearance, but I wasn't exactly comfortable after that grand display of reception.



Estelle Winwood—It was in a bedroom scene. I started to walk toward my husband of the play and before I realized it I was hobbling with a pair of pale blue chiffon panties at my ankles. I thought, "Steady does it" and stepped out of them and went on. It didn't ease the situation when he daintily picked them up and placed them on the bed.

Carol Goodner—I was playing opposite John Gielgud. He had a long, important speech to make before his final exit. Just before that I appeared on the stage at the wrong time and said a few lines that completely cut out his speech. There was no way to cover it up and I was never so embarrassed.

Lowell Gilmore—My lines were, "Has it ever occurred to you that I am your husband?" I had always thought it would be more effective if I'd say, "Has it ever occurred to you that you are my wife?" Instead I compromised and said, "Has it ever occurred to you that I am your WIFE?"

Belle Gardner—When I finished my telephone conversation I attempted to set the phone on the table, but missed. The instrument fell to the floor. After putting it back, I knocked it off again. I quietly put it back once more. As I got up to leave my foot caught in the cord and it happened again. I didn't mean to, but I called for some off-stage help.

Valerie Cossart—Our back stage mascot was a friendly gray cat. We had all missed her, but thought nothing of it. In the last act I crawled into one of those bundle beds and shoved my feet right over the mother cat and her five new kittens. It startled me so I jumped out of bed and then removed them one by one and went on with the play.

CHINESE AGAIN WITHDRAW FROM BURMA POSITIONS

Join British 200 Miles from Rangoon.

CHUNGKING, China, April 19 (AP).—A further withdrawal along the road to Mandalay was indicated today in a Chinese communique which said Chinese forces were engaging the Japanese in the vicinity of Ela, 10 miles south of Pyinmana and some 20 miles north of Myohla, the previous line of resistance.

[Such a withdrawal might have been necessary to protect the Chinese west flank which was being exposed by the Japanese drive up the Irrawaddy river valley to positions well to the northwest of Myohla.]

The communique said there had been no change on the Salween river front where the Chinese east flank troops halted a drive toward Loikaw by the invaders from the mountainous Thailand-Burma border country.

Another Japanese drive toward Loikaw from Toungoo was reported stemmed in the Yado area despite new Japanese thrusts which the Chinese said cost the Japanese heavily in men.

Chinese Join British.

NEW DELHI, India, April 19 (AP).—Chinese troops have joined forces with British imperials fighting a strong rear guard action against heavy Japanese attacks in Burma 200 miles north of Rangoon while British airmen have bombed five big Japanese flying boats at Port Blair in the Andaman Islands, communiques announced today.

British land and air bulletins emphasized coöperation between the two services on the Irrawaddy front where RAF bombers blasted Japanese concentrations in the forward areas.

Two Planes Destroyed.

Two four engined Japanese flying boats were claimed as destroyed Saturday in the Port Blair raid and three others were severely damaged. One British plane was reported missing.

Fierce fighting continues in the Pinchaung sector of the Burma land front with Burmese troops supporting British and Chinese units "with particular gallantry," a communique said

Chinese guerillas killed 200 Japanese in a raid on Tongy, five miles southwest of Swa, on April 15 with a loss of only four of the raiders.

Chicagoan Leads Rescue of 36 Ship Survivors

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, April 19 (AP).—Thirty six crewmen of a Norwegian freighter which was sunk April 11 in the north Atlantic were picked up from two lifeboats by a United States patrol ship and landed here today. Capt. John Harshberger of Chicago, a pilot of the United States marine corps, spotted the Norwegians and hailed a minesweeper which towed the lifeboats to port.

U. S. AGENT SEEKS INCREASED ARMS OUTPUT BY INDIA

Hampered by Fears of America's Motives.

NEW DELHI, India, April 19 (AP).—Dr. Henry F. Grady, former assistant United States secretary of state who is directing efforts to increase India's war production, will begin a series of conferences with Indian industrialists tomorrow seeking more munitions for the united nations.

Dr. Henry F. Grady.

With the Japanese advancing thru Burma, urgency has become Grady's watchword because next to Burma lies India's frontier and immediately behind that frontier lies the greatest producing area in India—the Calcutta-Jamshedpur region in Bengal.

Grady already has found some problems which needed settling before the real job of determining which of India's industrial wants could be supplied quickly by the United States.

Indian and British operators of various industrial plants here harbored the suspicion that American activity in India was, in part at least, aimed at getting in to share in India's wealth after the war.

U. S. Seeks to Quiet Fears.

The state department sought to quiet such feelings even before Grady and his commission of economists arrived. Grady took further steps by issuing a statement asserting the mission's work is "directly related to the common war effort of the united nations and in no way has to do with post-war industrial and commercial questions."

American sources here have said it is not likely at this stage that any effort will be made to introduce any immense amount of American equipment into India.

The aim seems to be to determine where relatively limited amounts of American tool and production machinery can be supplied to sustain or increase present production which is now vital not only to the middle east but even more so to China.

Great Saving in Cargo Space.

For instance, it is apparent that time is lacking to build up a motor industry but it is possible to increase production of military type auto bodies for which American motors can be supplied.

Economists say this presents a tremendous saving in shipping space which is increasingly important as America's own demands for a shipping increase to supply her overseas forces.

Americans here are increasingly impressed with India's importance as a base not only from which to supply the fighting forces in Libya and the orient but also as a possible jumping off place for a land attack against the Japanese.

Of all the bases from which Americans at present are operating in Asia and the western Pacific, India is possibly the easiest to supply. The shipping route around South Africa is the least menaced by the axis.

How long such a favorable situation will last naturally depends upon the military campaigns being waged by the axis both to the east and west of India. Negotiators on both sides recognize that what they can do depends entirely upon how long the defenses beyond India's Burma frontier hold out.

SHIP LEAVES SWEDEN WITH 154 AMERICANS ON WAY TO NEW YORK

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 19 (AP). The Swedish liner Drottningholm, chartered to carry out an exchange of United States and axis diplomats, left Goteborg, Sweden, today with 154 American nationals being repatriated from Scandinavia.

The ship will go to New York, pick up axis diplomats in the United States and then carry them to Lisbon, Portugal, for exchange with American diplomats from Germany and Italy.

About 70 Americans who sought accommodations on the first crossing failed to gain passage. Those who did were required to promise secrecy on anything they see on the journey thru the North sea and across the Atlantic.

Report New Effort to Kill Doriot, Pro-Nazi Frenchman

BERLIN, April 20 [Monday]—[From German broadcasts]—(AP).—DNB, quoting Paris dispatches, said today an attempt had been made at Rennes to assassinate Jacques Doriot, proponent of French collaboration with Germany. The news agency said Doriot was the target of a bomb hurled into a theater where members of the French National People's party were holding a meeting.

Owen Dixon Named New Australian Envoy to U. S.

SOVIET GUNNERS DIE BEATING OFF BIG TANK ATTACK

Nazis Open Heaviest Air Assaults of Year.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 19 (AP).—German planes made mass attacks on the Red army today in the heaviest raids of the year, while the Russians widened a breach in the Finnish lines north of Leningrad after fighting thru enormous minefields.

As many as 50 German planes assaulted single objectives. The Nazi bombers blasted at railway stations, airdromes, and front line positions, and were reported covering tank attacks on the southern front to restore positions pierced by the Russians. A front line dispatch said the tanks were repelled by artillery, but that most of the Russian gunners had perished in their victory.

After breaking thru the Finnish position on the Karelian isthmus, the Russians said the Finns threw tanks, motorized units, and heavy artillery into the fray in a vain effort to stem the attack.

Counterattacks Hurled Back.

Numerous Finnish counterattacks were reported hurled back with heavy losses in men and material. The Russians said the minefields had restricted the speed of their advance.

The weather in the north obviously had improved to allow such operations. The Russians appeared to be striving mightily to knock out the little German ally, which has suffered severely in casualties during a winter in which food was scarce.

On other sectors, German counterattacks were increasingly employing the tactics of last summer's advance by probing for weak spots and exploiting them with concentrated might. Nowhere, the Russian front line dispatches said, were there any big scale Nazi attacks.

The Red command said an infantry unit operating with guerrillas had captured three more unidentified places.

Minor Attacks Near Bryansk.

A German attempt to break thru the lines south of Leningrad was said to have failed. A minor Nazi attack was launched near Bryansk, 200 miles southwest of Moscow, but was turned back.

Pravda, the official communist newspaper, declared Red army parachute troops had landed behind the German rear in an unidentified sector and predicted soviet parachutists soon will operate in full force.

German prisoners were quoted as saying the Nazis talk now of their "summer offensive" rather than spring drive.

The Germans, however, continued to mass large concentrations and were making bolder attacks. The Nazis were reported rolling more tanks into battle. Many were manufactured in France and Czecho-Slovakia, the Russians said.

Claim Three Attacks Crushed.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 19 (AP).—Finnish forces crushed three heavy soviet attacks, supported by armored units and directed against the Svir river power station along the canal midway between Lake Ladoga and Lake Onega, as the Russian offensive on the Aunus [East Karelian] sector went into its second week yesterday, the newspaper Helsingin Sanomat reported today.

Nazis Claim a Big Victory.

BERLIN, April 19 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command, reporting its first large scale victory in weeks on the Russian front, said in a special communique tonight that four Red army divisions—some 60,000 men—had been encircled and destroyed in a six day battle in a sea of mud and slush.

NAZIS STRIPPED OF VETERAN AIR PERSONNEL: REDS

BY RALPH PARKER.

[By Wireless to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 18 [Delayed].—The virtual wiping out on the Russian front of the entire air personnel with which the German air force entered the war is claimed by Major General of Aviation D. Grendahl in the army newspaper Red Star. Germany now perforce is using pilots and crews with less training and battle experience.

The general estimated that during the first 16 months of the war the Germans increased their number of pilots from 10,000 to somewhere between 13,000 and 15,000 despite their losses in Poland, France, and Great Britain. Many of these pilots were trained in war conditions, the age average being between 22 and 25 years.

Three Periods of Invasion.

Operations against the invasion fall into three periods, Grendahl said. The first from June 22, 1941, until the end of August was characterized by a sudden attack on Russian airdromes and fighting above moving troops. Losses during this period were estimated at 7,200 planes and 20,000 men.

The second period was during September, October and November, when great battles took place between the two armies in which the Russians wrested the initiative from the enemy, destroying some 5,000 planes, and from 12,000 to 15,000 men.

The third phase was from December to the end of March, when the Russians had the upper hand. At the end of March the German losses in flyers were estimated at 38,000, which is thought to be rather more than the number they began with.

74 German Pilot Schools.

Among the squadrons lost were many crack pilots. Of the picked crew of 300 men for attacking Moscow, more than half were believed to have been lost. The élite Condor legion was forced to withdraw. The German casualty lists included the ace, Col. Werner Moelders, Gen. Helmuth Vilbert, Col. Von Kuerbs, Paul Kot, Peter Goering and others.

According to statements of prisoners, the Germans now have 74 pilot schools each with 150 pupils who train only from 3 to 6 months.

Most of the present German pilots only recently finished training and rank as corporals as compared with the high number of lieutenants who were flying last year. Their average age is from 18 to 21 years and they have from 3 to 7 months' flying experience. There are abundant signs that their morale is lower than was prevalent in the former Nazi air force personnel.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Albert B. Mills, 59 years old, an estimator for a building company, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home in the Chicagoan hotel.

BOY FROM JAVA, SHOT DOWN ONCE, ARRIVES IN U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., April 19 (AP).—Robert Lacombe, 13 years old, son of a Dutch naval commander, has arrived in San Francisco, grieving over the apparent death of his parents and bewildered by his narrow escape from the Japanese.

He came with scores of Pacific war refugees, including wives and children of commercial leaders and officials of the Netherlands Indies and Malaya. The group included a number of wounded service men.

Robert's mother evidently died when a plane in which she and Robert were escaping was shot down by Japanese pursuit ships off Australia. Robert witnessed the fall of Surabaya, Java, his home, and learned that his father evidently went down with his cruiser in the battle of Macassar straits.

The refugees were the first to reach here from such far-flung outposts as Singapore, Java, and Borneo, and they were spirited and cheerful in most cases.

JAPS WILL SEEK REVENGE, LANDIS WARNS OCD AIDS

Twenty-one thousand block captains, who jammed in and around the Coliseum yesterday to take oaths as civilian defense officers, heard a warning that they must prepare their communities for possible revenge bombings inspired by the American attack on Japanese cities.

James M. Landis, national director of the office of civilian defense, said bombardment of Tokio "puts aside once and for all the conception that the United States can go thru this war unscathed.

Sees Chicago as Target.

"It is idle to assume that the enemy will not try to retaliate," Landis said, "to strike at the vital industrial areas and nerve centers of this country, especially those as yet not too well prepared to attack." He termed Chicago as one of the probable target areas.

The block captains—an army of neighbors, Mayor Kelly called them—raised right hands in the flag bedecked amphitheater and repeated this pledge read to them by Judge Otto Kerner of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals:

"I faithfully pledge myself to my country the United States of America when called upon for civilian defense. I will agree to put myself under orders. I solemnly promise to perform the task assigned to me until such time as I am released of my responsibility.

"I will strive unceasingly to do my duty to the best of my ability so long as my services are needed."

5,000 on Outside.

About 16,000 took the oath inside the Coliseum, and 5,000 more outside.

Landis, flanked by the flags of the 26 united nations and standing before a huge spotlighted portrait of President Roosevelt, said bombings of Japan had flung a challenge not only in the teeth of the enemy, but at home as well.

"If we would attack, we must be secure in our defense," Landis told the throng and additional thousands who heard his address over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Says Preparations Lag.

"Preparations for civilian defense have lagged," he admitted. "Cities and states have failed to appropriate funds for the most fundamental protection needs. Individual after individual has slipped back into the treacherous delusion that it couldn't happen here.

"We cannot win if we delay for a moment more the acceptance everywhere of the meaning of total war," Landis said.

Mayor Kelly, United States coördinator of civilian defense for the Chicago metropolitan area, called upon the block captains to pledge "your loyalty, your effort, your lives, if necessary, to the duties required in civilian defense."

True Democracy, Says Kelly.

"You are an army of neighbors," Mayor Kelly said, "recognizing no race, no creed, no color, no politics, no party—but Americans all. This assembly of leaders, chosen and elected by their neighbors in the blocks, is the true spirit of democracy."

Margaret Cross, Negro singer, the WPA Chicago Operetta company, Fred Jacky's Hymns of All Churches choir and the United States Navy Pier band entertained.

Landis and Mayor Kelly addressed a Patriots' day rally at Portage park later. Both told the crowd of several thousand that civilian defense workers must fight the war just as grimly as soldiers in the front lines.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

N. T. B. writes: "In going over some recruiting literature, I noticed that a man may enlist in either the navy or naval reserve as an apprentice seamen. What is the difference in the wartime activities of these two branches?"

ANSWER: The training and duties of men in either branch are the same. The chief difference is in the term of enlistment. Enlistment in the regular navy is for six years, or for the duration of the war, whichever period is the longest. Naval reservists are enlisted for the duration, plus six months.

C. V. writes: "I am about to take the army physical examination. I would like to know whether I must be fingerprinted by the army even tho I don't pass the physical examination? Can I refuse to be fingerprinted? I have never been fingerprinted before."

ANSWER: You will not be fingerprinted until you have passed your final physical examination. All recruits must be fingerprinted. Your refusal to be fingerprinted might be considered an attempt to evade military service.

H. C. asks: "Is it permissible to have a mustache in the army or are only officers allowed to have them?"

ANSWER: There is no regulation against mustaches in the army. The only stipulation is that they must be kept trimmed.

C. G. writes: "After having passed my physical and screening test for the army air corps last February, circumstances made it advisable for me to withdraw my application. Now since I am again in a position to enlist, I would like to know whether I must wait three months before applying, as those who fail to pass their tests are required to do, or can I seek an immediate appointment?"

ANSWER: If you apply within three months after you last took the examinations, you can be enlisted immediately.

S. T. A. asks: "Is the government already making allotments to dependents of men in military service or hasn't it started yet?"

ANSWER: As yet no such provisions have been made. Proposals for government aid to dependents are pending in congress. One plan would have the government duplicate any allotment made by a service man to his dependents. Another would allot one-half the pay of an enlisted man for the support of his dependents, to which the government would add $30 a month for a wife, $45 for a wife and child, $57 for a wife and two children, and $12 a month for each additional child.

Miss A. P. B. writes: "My fiancé has been in the army since last June and hasn't had a furlough yet. He is now on the coast and expects to sail soon. Do you think I'll see him before he leaves?"

ANSWER: Inasmuch as his unit might sail at any time, it is unlikely that his commanding officer will grant him a furlough.

Italian Mattresses Give Up Their Wool for Troops

BERNE, Switzerland, April 19.—"Wool gathering" to supplement supplies for axis armies is increasing with another collection announced from Italy today. Housewives were requested to "contribute" some wool from their mattresses. Party members call from house to house to collect it.

CHURCHILL HAILS AUGSBURG RAID AS MEMORABLE FEAT

'No Life Lost in Vain,' He Tells Air Force.

LONDON, April 19 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill, in a note of congratulation today, called the Friday daylight attack on the Diesel Motor works at Augsburg, 150 miles inside southwestern Germany, "an outstanding achievement of the RAF."

Twelve of Britain's big new Lancaster bombers started on the raid, four were downed by German fighters near Paris, three more were lost to anti-aircraft fire at Augsburg, and five returned.

"Undaunted by the heavy losses at the outset, the bombers pierced in daylight into the heart of Germany and struck at a vital point with deadly decision," Churchill said in a note to Air Marshal A. T. Harris, chief of the bomber command.

Thanks of the Government.

"Pray, convey the thanks of his majesty's government to the officers and men who accomplished this memorable feat of arms in which no life was lost in vain."

The air ministry reported a quiet Sunday in England with only a few enemy aircraft over the southeast coast where they dropped a few bombs in two places without doing appreciable harm.

RAF fighters were over the English channel in the early afternoon, but the formation was not as large as those sighted last week.

Attack Port of Grimsby.

BERLIN, April 19 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Bomber planes last night attacked the British port of Grimsby, on the Humber estuary in eastern England, the German high command said today. Fires and explosions were claimed caused among mills and dock installations.

"Following the heavy British aircraft losses reported in yesterday's communique, which now have risen to 29 planes shot down, the British air force did not fly into German territory yesterday or last night," the high command said.

From March 20 to April 10 the RAF lost 273 planes, of which 97 were destroyed over the Mediterranean and North Africa, and in the same period Germany lost 66 planes in operations against Great Britain, it was stated.

2 DIE AS BLAST WRECKS MILL AT POWDER PLANT

Peoria, Ill., April 19 (AP).—Two men were killed today in an explosion in a press mill at the Western Powder Manufacturing plant in Edwards, Ill. The dead were James Hackworth, 45 years old, of Athens, Tenn., and Roy Bennett, 40, of Edwards.

George Devault, superintendent of the plant, said the cause of the blast was undetermined. The shed was demolished and parts of it were scattered over a three block area.

Devault said a horse had been standing in front of the shed at the time and the only injury it suffered was a scratch on the nose.

GERMAN PEOPLE DEMAND ACTION, SWEDEN IS TOLD

Writer Says Winter Has Frayed Their Nerves.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 19.—Germany's nerves are becoming frayed this spring and the German man in the street is demanding action, according to Ivar Osterström, deputy speaker of the Swedish parliament and member of the foreign affairs committee.

The impatience of the German people to see the beginning of the widely advertised spring offensive has been intensified thru the mental and physical trial of the hard winter, he reports in the Vasternorrlands Allehanda.

He says the nervousness before the starting signal must be noted with a certain anxiety by the German leaders and delay may spell danger.

"Waiting Is Dangerous."

"Hopes and expectations in Germany have been driven skyward and it is uncertain what effect possible setbacks may have," he continues. "Disappointments are always dangerous, but never so dangerous as now. Long waiting is generally detrimental to morale and panic is lurking where the uncertainty is given no reply.

"The German press is doing what it can to quench the nervousness and is forecasting still another month of inactivity on the front. If the offensive is delayed until June, then something else must be holding up German action. There is reason to believe that Germany needs this delay to train new troops. The shortage of officers and insufficiently trained older classes have caused difficulties and worries."

Short of Best Troops.

Osterstrom says he believes Germany is now faced with a shortage of elite troops.

"Their whole number does not correspond with the country's total population and the Russian campaign has caused great losses of the best soldiers Germany had," he continues. Therefore, the high command is compelled to economize with its crack troops.

"Germany undoubtedly has an enormous number of soldiers but the number of highly trained men is limited. There are probably between three and four million, superbly equipped."

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE.

Edwin Berg, 31 years old, 3520 Shakespeare avenue, was found dead in his automobile in a garage in the rear of his home yesterday. A garden hose extended from the exhaust pipe to the interior of the car.

NUDIST IS FIRED AFTER DIES LIFTS VEIL ON HIS PAST

Parmelee Complains on Summary Ousting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—Dr. Maurice Parmelee, an economist for the Board of Economic Warfare whom the Dies committee recently uncovered as a professional nudist, has been dismissed, it was disclosed tonight when Parmelee protested the board's "hasty" action.

The Dies committee created a sensation the latter part of last month in revealing the background of Parmelee, who was listed among a large group of Communist front members attached to the BEW which is headed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

Writer on Nudism.

According to the committee's revelations, Parmelee had written two books on "gymnosophy" ["nudism"] in which he made such statements as the recommendation that "nudism be practiced wherever feasible, in the home, in the office, and factory" and "the direct and personal enjoyment of nature can be attained to the highest possible degree only when unclothed." In these writings Parmelee also reflected upon the opposition of the churches to the practice of nudism.

Vice President Wallace immediately defended Parmelee as "a well qualified writer in the field of sociology" and declared "not one person in a hundred thousand in this country is interested in nudism." Wallace assailed Dies for "seeking to inflame the public mind" but promised an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and if the men accused by Dies were found unfit for work with the BEW they would be dismissed.

Discharged on April 15.

Parmelee declared tonight that Milo Perkins, executive director of the BEW, notified him "two hours before quitting time on April 15 that my appointment was terminated without prejudice as of that day."

Parmelee, a gray haired, bespectacled little man of 59 years, derided his dismissal as a "ruthless and summary deprivation of my only means of livelihood." He said in a statement that he had been cleared by the FBI and this action gives the impression "that the board has become the accomplice of [Rep. Martin] Dies. The effect upon the morale of the staff is too obvious to require mention. To that extent the war effort will suffer. The only remedy for this situation as well as the only way to do me justice is my prompt reinstatement."

Explained as "Reorganization."

A spokesman for the BEW asserted that Parmelee had been hired as an economic analyst only on a temporary basis and was released along with others in the process of a "reorganization" as a result of new functions assigned the board by President Roosevelt. He said some employés were let out on April 15 and more will go on April 30, altho their names were not available tonight. Only last week Wallace, as chairman of the BEW, was given Jesse Jones' former powers for acquiring strategic materials needed for the war program.

Parmelee is the second man named by Dies as unsuitable employés of the board who has left its employ. C. Hartley Grattan's resignation as an economic analyst was disclosed on April 3. Grattan was one of the group of BEW employés accused of Communist affiliations and was disclosed to be the writer of a forword to the "German white paper" in May, 1940, during the period of Nazi-Communist friendship.

DUTCH OIL PLANT IN WEST INDIES SHELLED BY SUB

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, April 19 (AP).—An enemy submarine attacking by night shelled oil installations of the Royal Dutch Petroleum company at Bullen bay on the Island of Curacao but did no damage, it was announced today, according to Aneta, Dutch news agency.

The submarine's shellfire was countered by a coastal battery. The shore fire caused the craft to dive.

This was the second attack on oil installations in this Netherlands West Indies territory. On Feb. 16 a submarine shelled installations of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey on the Island of Aruba, the war's first attack on a land target in the western hemisphere.

MARTIN SOUNDS CALL FOR UNITY ON ALL FRONTS

Cites G. O. P. Pledge to Give Best in War.

entered the war to preserve. The ideals which the men of America have gone to the fighting lines abroad to uphold will have been lost at home.

"No good American wants to see our form of government or our system of economy overturned by boondogglers or social experimenters."

He said his committee was meeting, not for partisan political purposes, but to determine how the 1942 elections can be carried out with the least impact on the nation's war efforts, and how the Republican party can augment and make more effective its contributions to the war effort.

"This is our war as much as it is the war of any other party or group in the nation," he said. "If America should go down to defeat we would all go down to defeat together. We are all fighting in the common cause for the common good.

Raps Partisan Politics.

"There must be an end to all attempts to inject partisan politics into the war effort. Let us conduct the forthcoming campaign as loyal, patriotic Americans. Let us go to the polls and vote for our respective candidates as loyal, patriotic Americans.

"Let us combine our efforts to win this war decisively and quickly as patriotic, liberty-loving Americans, determined that America shall remain free and that power-mad despots shall be stopped in their tracks. It is on that basis the Republican party is proceeding and shall continue to proceed. It will not be swerved from its determination to preserve our traditional form of government, our free enterprise economy, and individual liberty."

SHIP BUILDERS WARNED TO WORK OR GO INTO ARMY

South Portland, Me., April 19 (AP).—Shipyard workers were told today that they "are going to fight in this shipyard or in the army" as two more vessels for the British merchant fleet were launched.

William S. Newell, president of the Todd-Bath Shipbuilding company, told company officials, workers, and their families that "we are going to take care of this absentee problem." He said daily absence of workers was a "terrible handicap to full production" and that hereafter such absentees would be turned over to draft officials.

The two 10,100 ton emergency vessels, Ocean Pride and Ocean Might, were launched simultaneously.

STABBED IN QUARREL; DIES.

Mitchell Hamilton, 42 years old, Negro, 1513 West 13th street, died yesterday after telling police he had been stabbed by a Negro after they quarreled over some girls in an apartment at 1536 South Hastings street.

HAMILTON EXHORTS G.O.P. TO DRAFT WAR VICTORY PROGRAM

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19 [Special].—Drafting of a campaign war creed which will dispel any doubts about the sincerity of the Republican party in the war effort was urged by John D. Hamilton, former Republican national chairman, in an open letter sent today to Republican members of the house of representatives.

John D. M. Hamilton.

Hamilton said there is an unmistakable trend toward the Republican party by an electorate which is determined to end waste, inefficiency, and unnecessary experiments in national socialism. The campaign, he said, should be based on the principle that there is a united effort for complete victory by all parties and all candidates so that voters, without fear of aiding the enemy, can serve notice on the administration that conduct of the war must be less partisan and more efficient.

Issuance of a manifesto by Republican members of the house asserting that they will be satisfied with nothing less than complete victory was suggested by Hamilton.

Hit-Run Motorist Fatally Injures Kenosha Woman

Kenosha, Wis., April 19 [Special].—Police today sought a hit and run driver who fatally injured Mrs. Tillie Bennett, 60 years old, last night as she was crossing the street near her home.

WOMEN DEMAND LARGER PART IN PRESERVING U. S.

Victory Their Chief Goal as Republicans.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Miss Marion E. Martin, assistant chairman of the Republican National committee and head of the women's division, urged Republican women of the nation to do their part towards national defense in a united war effort and to work for their party in the coming elections and so help preserve the American two party system.

Miss M. E. Martin.

The energetic, young committeewoman from Bangor, Me., was a guest at a luncheon given by the National Republican Woman's Club of Chicago for members of the national committee in the La Salle hotel. Eighty-five committee members, here for the meeting of the committee today, and several hundred members of the club attended.

Winning War Chief Goal.

"Only one thing is uppermost in our minds and hearts today and that is the successful prosecution of the war," Miss Martin stated. "It is greatly to the credit of Republican women that so many are taking their places in service organizations and all who can should follow their example for a united war effort.

"It is important too that we women campaign for the coming elections. There is nothing inconsistent in doing both national defense and party work because both groups are working for the preservation of the American way of life."

Want to Do More.

Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Scranton, Pa., who spoke at the luncheon at the invitation of Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman from Illinois, who presided, asserted that the women of the country are not being allowed to accomplish as much as they could towards the successful prosecution of the war.

"We women are just as determined as men to win this war at all costs," she stated. "Up to date we have been given a very small part in it. We are working in Red Cross units and giving our blood for blood banks but that will not suffice. We Republican women feel that there is something bigger and better for us to do.

"We women are needed in war work and if we can only be used by compulsory service, we are ready to go all the way."

About the appliances we advertise nowadays

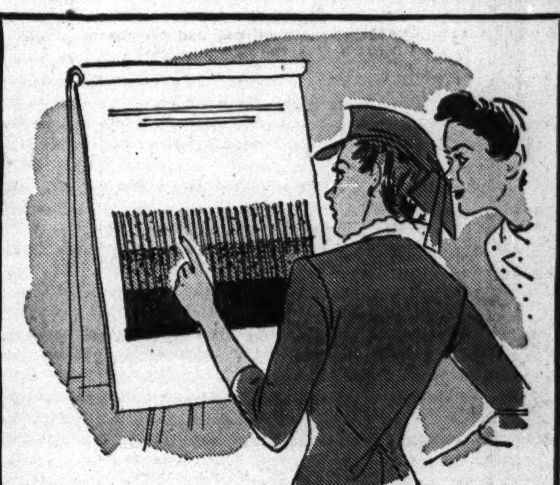
The appliances we are now advertising are limited to those we have on hand; or those that are made available without interference with war production: They have all been selected because their normal operation in the home comes at a time of day when our electrical facilities are more than adequate to meet present power requirements for both war production and civilian use:

Furthermore; we believe that their use in most cases will conserve energy and tend to release home labor for helpful wartime activities:

Mrs. Burton learns how to care for her rugs

Helen Scott, home advisor, tells her some interesting facts

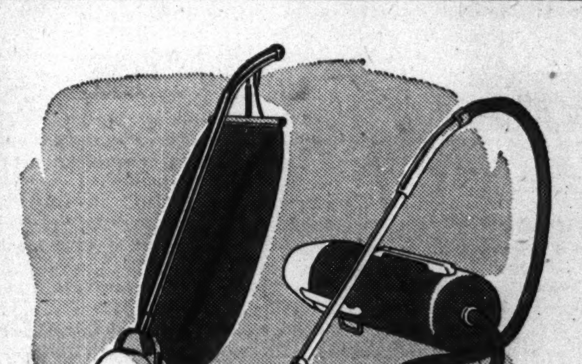
Mrs. Burton: What do these figures mean, Miss Scott?
Miss Scott: Well, most women are conscious of only the dust that collects on furniture and other flat surfaces in the room because it's easy to see. But do you know that as much as 85 per cent of the dirt settles in the floor coverings?



Mrs. Burton: This picture looks like a cross-section of a rug.
Miss Scott: That's right, and it shows the three different types of dirt found in rugs. The first two, which have little effect upon the wearing qualities of your rugs, are easily removed with an ordinary carpet sweeper or broom.

Miss Scott: But the life of your rug is shortened by this third type . . . deeply embedded grit and sand which has sharp edges, that saw right through the base of the nap fibers. This deep-down dirt can only be removed by a special method such as the powerful suction of a modern electric vacuum cleaner.

Mrs. Burton: Is this how the suction does the job?
Miss Scott: Yes, indeed. As your vacuum cleaner moves across the rug it separates the nap. At the same time it lifts the deep-down grit and sand on a powerful column of suction out of the rug into the dust bag. Your rugs are left thoroughly clean to give you longer, and more satisfactory wear.



Come in and let us show you how an electric vacuum cleaner will remove dust, dirt and embedded grit from your rugs, keep them brighter looking, and save you time and work. See the many different makes and models in our display and choose the one you want for your home.

HANDBOOKS

300. HANDBOOK OF ENGINEERING FUNDAMENTALS by O. W. Eshbach. Vital information pertaining to the fundamental theory underlying engineering practice. A treatment of the principles of mathematics, applied physics and chemistry, with mathematical and physical tables. Useful for all types of engineers and scientists. $5.00

301. GENERAL ENGINEERING HANDBOOK, edited by C. E. O'Rourke. Fundamental engineering data for which all engineers and architects have constant use, carefully selected, logically arranged, clearly presented by 30 specialists. Over 900 pages of practical up-to-date data, facts, and formulas. Second edition. $4.00

302. MATERIALS HANDBOOK by George S. Brady. Lists over 8,000 materials, arranged and indexed for instant reference, and covered with regard to chief characteristics, comparative data, sources, substitutes, adulterants, and uses. 4th edition. $5.00

303. CHEMICAL ENGINEERS' HANDBOOK edited by John H. Perry. An authoritative reference work covering comprehensively the whole field of chemical engineering. The 60 specialists present the latest usable material, not only on fundamental unit processes, but also related subjects like Fire Protection, Plant Location, and Patent Law. $10.00

304. AIRCRAFT HANDBOOK by Fred H. Colvin. An up-to-the-minute manual, giving all necessary information for the building and maintenance of modern aircraft. Gives also specifications of engines and accessories. $5.00

305. CHAMBERS' TECHNICAL DICTIONARY, edited by C. F. Tweney and L. E. C. Hughes. Comprising terms used in pure and applied science, medicine, the manufacturing industries, engineering, construction, and machine shops. Over 900 pages of concise definitions. $5.00

306. DYKE'S AUTOMOBILE AND GASOLINE ENGINE ENCYCLOPEDIA. An up-to-date edition of the leading book on the principle, construction, operation, repairing and maintenance of engines and accessories, including aircraft and Diesel. $6.00

307. THE HANDBOOK OF CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS, 25th Edition, 1941-42. Edited by Charles Hodgman. Over 2,000 pages of data on all phases of chemistry and physics, including latest research data. Invaluable for any one dealing with research or engineering. Included also are complete mathematical tables. $3.50

308. THE ENGINEERS' MANUAL by Ralph G. Hudson. The more commonly used formulas of engineering, each with its application. Covers mathematics, mechanics, hydraulics, heating and ventilating, steam engines, boilers, and A. C. and D. C. electricity. $2.75

309. SIMPLIFIED ENGINEERING FOR ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS by Harry Parker. At last a book on engineering for architects and builders. The important terms and basic principles presented in building construction with a great many problems and answers pertaining to building. $3.75

310. MECHANICAL ENGINEERS' HANDBOOK by Lionel S. Marks. A new edition (fourth) of this well known handbook. Much new material has been added, covering the theory of machines, plastic behavior of materials, stress concentration, wind pressure on structures, powder metallurgy, etc. $7.00

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS' HANDBOOK edited by Robert T. Kent. "KENT" now appears in two volumes divided into "Power" and "Design-Shop Practice." The first volume deals with the entire field of power and its application in industry; the second volume covers in detail present-day methods in design and shop practice for the engineer and mechanic.
311. Kent—Power. $5.00
312. Kent—Design-Shop Practice. $5.00

PRACTICAL FLYING

313. AIR PILOTING by Virgil Simmons. A leading instructor of pilots presents a complete reference manual for prospective pilots. It is a thorough, authoritative work covering all aspects of pilot training. $4.00

314. PILOTS' AND MECHANICS' AIRCRAFT INSTRUMENT MANUAL by Lieut. G. C. DeBaud. Gives a thorough understanding of all types of instruments, flight, navigation, and engine, in the shortest time and with minimum of effort. $4.50

315. AIRCRAFT INSTRUMENTS by George Irvin. A thorough, practical manual on aircraft instruments. This up-to-date book describes all types, both navigation and general field instruments and describes their construction and operation. $5.00

316. AIR PILOT TRAINING by Bert A. Shields. The only book that covers all the essential material required for private and commercial pilots' licenses in a manner conforming to the courses of the Civilian Pilot Training Programs. $4.00

317. YOUTH MUST FLY by E. F. McDonald Jr. Makes clear how gliding and soaring can be the invaluable and comparatively inexpensive method of preliminary training for young men about to become aviators. $2.50

318. YOUR WINGS by Assen Jordanoff. The standard book on flying. Written in simplest manner by the war-time ace and expert flyer. This is the elementary volume for the beginning aviator and student. $2.50

319. THROUGH THE OVERCAST by Assen Jordanoff. The only complete and practical treatise on the weather and the art of instrument flying. Beneficial to pilots operating by night, fogs, rains, and snow. New instruments make "unflying weather" first-rate flying weather. $3.00

320. SAFETY IN FLIGHT by Assen Jordanoff. Just off the press to meet the needs of post-graduate flyers and aviators. This book gives you the air wisdom that top-notch flyers need for safe flying. $3.00

321. WEATHER AND THE OCEAN OF AIR by W. H. Wenstrom. Covers authoritatively the entire field of meteorology, including descriptions of the instruments used and accounts of stratosphere flights. Enables you to be your own weather man. $4.50

AVIATION—Shop Practice

322. AIRCRAFT MECHANIC'S POCKET MANUAL by Joseph A. Ashkouti. Gives a general background of basic aircraft construction invaluable to every aircraft worker. Brings the man in the shop all the basic data which he needs every day. Explains why various methods and processes are used. $1.50

323. AIRCRAFT ENGINE MAINTENANCE by D. J. Brimm Jr. and H. E. Boggess. Covers completely the practical work in factories or wherever engines are serviced. The latest types of carburetors, magnetos, propellers, and accessories are covered. Invaluable for instructors or mechanics. $2.50

324. AIRCRAFT MAINTENANCE by D. J. Brimm Jr. and H. E. Boggess. For the student mechanic, instructor, or licensed mechanic. For the instructor there are practice jobs; for the student detailed instruction sheets for the practical job; for the mechanic, tables and reference data. $2.50

325. THE AVIATION MECHANIC by Carl Norcross and James Quinn, Jr. A thorough up-to-date, comprehensive study of the construction and maintenance of modern airplanes of every type, commercial and military. Includes a complete description of plane building in larger factories. $3.50

326. PRACTICAL AIRCRAFT SHEET-METAL WORK by Fraser and Bertrand. Covers the work done on all phases of aircraft sheet metal, including riveting, assembly, blueprint reading and template developing. A new, practical, and well illustrated manual. $3.00

327. AIRCRAFT POWER PLANT MANUAL by G. B. Manly. An up-to-date illustrated instruction and reference book on all phases of aircraft power plant construction, operation, maintenance, service and overhaul. Includes engine accessories. $4.00

328. MATHEMATICS FOR THE AVIATION TRADES by James Naidich. Provides aviation mechanics with the thorough knowledge of the arithmetic necessary for their work. No mechanic can work intelligently without this knowledge. $1.80

AVIATION Reference

329. GENERAL AERONAUTICS by Hilton F. Lusk. A grade school text book explaining simply and clearly the fundamentals of aeronautics and their practical applications. All the necessary information for pilots' examinations. $3.75

330. AIRCRAFT MATERIALS AND PROCESSES by George F. Titterton. A new and revised edition, giving a comprehensive discussion of the great number of materials which go into airplane construction and the processes involved in their use. $3.50

331. COMMERCIAL AIR TRANSPORTATION by John H. Frederick. The exciting story of the history and development of this great young industry. Covers the entire subject, including federal regulation and the problems of the airlines. $4.00

332. PRACTICAL THERMODYNAMICS AND AIRCRAFT ENGINES by Lieut. Leslie Thorpe. A practical text for everyone concerned with aircraft engines, presented in a simplified and yet thorough manner. Paper bound. $1.00

333. SIMPLIFIED DEFINITIONS AND NOMENCLATURE FOR AERONAUTICS by Lieut. Leslie Thorpe. The 1942 illustrated edition of this very handy and practical aeronautical dictionary. $2.00

334. METAL AIRCRAFT: DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION by Willis L. Nye. An exhaustive and practical treatise on all-metal aircraft construction. Discusses all types and emphasizes production methods. 250 illus. $3.00

335. AEROSPHERE'S MODERN AIRCRAFT, edited by Glenn D. Angle. Complete descriptions with photographs and specifications of aircraft of the entire world. 320 pages of vital information for everyone connected with the aviation industry. $6.00

SHIPS & SHIPBUILDING

336. PRACTICAL SHELL DEVELOPING FOR STEEL SHIPBUILDERS by Adam F. Tulin. A manual for loftsmen, shipfitters, hull draftsmen, and others who deal with steel ship construction. Profusely illustrated with practical diagrams. $3.00

337. BOATBUILDING by Howard I. Chapelle. A practical handbook designed and written to meet the needs of the builder, covering the complete process of wooden boat construction. All types from rowboats to commercial vessels. $5.00

338. PILOTING, SEAMANSHIP AND SMALL BOAT HANDLING by Charles F. Chapman. A practical treatise and complete illustrated course on small boat work with many suggested questions and problems to be solved. 1942 edition. $2.50

339. PRACTICAL SHIP PRODUCTION by A. W. Carmichael. For the student or worker expecting to enter the shipbuilding industry. Traces the evolution of the ship, describes the requirements, classes and types, construction. Design is dealt with, and modern methods of welding. $3.00

340. AUDEL'S SHIP FITTERS' GUIDE. The author has had 25 years' experience as a ship fitter and makes all problems perfectly clear. Indispensable information for the man on the job. $1.00

341. PRACTICAL MARINE DIESEL ENGINEERING by L. R. Ford. Construction, operation, and maintenance of marine Diesels. Diesels used in Maritime Commission motorships are featured and the indirect drive thoroughly explained. $5.00

RADIO

342. TELEVISION: THE ELECTRONICS OF IMAGE TRANSMISSION by V. K. Zworykin and G. A. Morton. A "must" book for radio and communication engineers, television engineers, and service men. Written by two RCA engineers, it gives clear and practical information on the latest developments. $6.00

343. MODERN RADIO SERVICING by Alfred A. Ghirardi. Explains to the last "T" every conceivable branch of the entire art of servicing and repairing radio receivers by the most advanced methods. $5.00

344. RADIO PHYSICS COURSE by A. A. Ghirardi. A very complete, clear, and popular fundamental radio text. Stresses the inter-relation of sound, electricity, radio, short waves, photoelectricity, television, and public address. $5.00

345. RADIO ENGINEERING HANDBOOK, edited by Keith Henney. Provides technical data on all fields and aspects of radio engineering. Newly revised edition covering latest material on antennas, crystal control circuits, ultra-high frequency systems, and other latest developments. $5.00

WELDING

346. THE WELDING ENCYCLOPEDIA, edited by Stuart Plumley. A practical reference book on metallic arc, carbon arc, oxy-acetylene, electric spot, butt, flash and resistance welding, thermit welding, and metal spraying. New edition. $5.00

347. WELDING AND ITS APPLICATION by Boniface Rossi. Gives the beginner the fundamentals, the experienced welder a wider understanding, and the engineer or designer a source of invaluable reference. Emphasis on electric-arc welding. $2.50

348. AIRPLANE WELDING AND MATERIALS by J. B. Johnson. A complete and up-to-date practical guide including different kinds of welding and a thorough discussion of the different materials and their testing and inspection. $3.50

SHOP PRACTICE

349. MACHINERY'S HANDBOOK, edited by Erik Oberg and F. D. Jones. An invaluable reference book on machine design and shop practice for the engineer, draftsman, or machinist. Over 1,800 pages of data on all phases of machine shop work or design. $6.00

350. MACHINE SHOP MATHEMATICS by Aaron Axelrod. Shop mathematics in the form of problems that occur daily in the machine shop. All the fundamental facts and procedures that a worker needs. Profusely illustrated with diagrams. $2.50

351. AUTOMOTIVE ESSENTIALS by Ray F. Kuns. The beginning chapter deals with the car as a unit and breaks it into minor parts. Succeeding chapters break these units into their component parts till every part is discussed. $2.50

352. CONDITIONING METAL LAYOUT by J. J. Kaberlein. A practical guide to sheet metal pattern layout for heating, ventilating, and air conditioning work. Presented in the form of problems which are met in everyday work. $3.75

353. AMERICAN MACHINISTS' HANDBOOK by Fred Colvin and Frank Stanley. A standard manual of data, methods and definitions for apprentices, machinists, toolmakers, draftsmen, and all others connected with shops and drafting rooms. A very widely used technical book. $4.00

354. RUNNING A MACHINE SHOP by Fred Colvin and Frank Stanley. A manual of tested plans and methods of shop layout and equipment and production and personnel management for large or small machine shops. Also describes how to train workers and how to estimate. $3.50

355. GRINDING PRACTICE by Fred Colvin and Frank Stanley. Covers the field of grinding machines and abrasive wheels, showing what they do, how to operate them, and how to make best use of them on various types of work. Full practical details on speeds, feeds and automatic machines. $3.00

356. DRILLING AND SURFACING PRACTICE by Fred Colvin and Frank Stanley. Practical manual of exact, descriptive data on the various operations in drilling, reaming, tapping, planing, shaping, slotting, milling, and broaching. Covers cutting machines, care of tools, methods of production in leading shops. $4.00

357. TURNING AND BORING PRACTICE by Fred Colvin and Frank Stanley. A complete guide in the operation of turning and boring machines. Describes the important varieties of machines and showing what they do, including data on speeds and newest cutting alloys. $4.00

358. GEAR CUTTING PRACTICE by Fred Colvin and Frank Stanley. Practical manual of exact, descriptive data on all aspects of gear-cutting practice, useful in shops of any size. Shows how to handle all kinds of gear jobs by the methods used in leading shops. All gears are covered. $3.00

359. PUNCHES AND DIES by Frank Stanley. A complete manual on every phase of punch and die work, covering the fundamentals and showing layout and construction of punches and dies for specific jobs. Revised to show the methods used by leading shops. $4.00

360. PRESSWORKING OF METALS by C. W. Hinman. A reference book illustrating and describing practical applications of the principles used in the design of punches and dies. Covers types of presses, stamping and forming different metals, various finishing methods, automatic machinery, etc. $4.00

361. GAGES AND THEIR USE IN INSPECTION by Fred H. Colvin. Complete study of the use of gages, pointing out why gages are made, and describes how they are used in a variety of work. Promotes more efficient use of gages in the shop. $1.50

362. DIE DESIGN AND DIEMAKING PRACTICE by Franklin D. Jones. A up-to-date treatise for die designers and diemakers containing illustrated descriptions of a variety of selected dies for all kinds of power press operations. $6.00

363. MACHINE SHOP TRAINING COURSE by Franklin D. Jones. A 2 volume treatise on shop practice including fundamental principles, use of different tools with typical example of work, use of gages, tool making, and typical shop problems. 2 vols. $6.00

364. AUDEL'S MILLWRIGHTS' AND MECHANICS' GUIDE by E. F. Anderson. A practical guide to aid the millwright in the large increase in complex mechanical machinery which requires constantly improved methods in its erection and operation. Published for the self-advancing technical man. $4.00

365. SHOP MATHEMATICS by C. A. Felker. Used widely by machinists, students and shop men for study at home, to stimulate mental powers and improve efficiency. The material is treated so that it can be understood with the average high-school training. $2.50

366. A PRIMER OF BLUE PRINT READING by T. A. Diamond. A simple and elementary text enabling a beginner to read and thoroughly comprehend blue prints. Paper bound. 60c

367. MILLING-MACHINE INDEXING by C. A. Felker and H. W. Paine. A machinists' reference book giving the five accepted types of indexing with explanations and sample problems showing the best fields of application of each type. $1.50

368. AUDEL'S MACHINISTS' AND TOOL MAKERS' HANDY BOOK. A key to shop practice for every machinist, mechanic, or student. Tells how to operate and set up all machine tools. Covers also blueprint reading, mathematics for machinists, shop physics, and use of the slide rule. $4.00

369. MACHINE TRADES BLUEPRINT READING by Ihne & Streeter. Designed to teach workmen the basic information necessary to interpret a blueprint. Variety of different types of problems is given to test yourself on home study. An extra chapter is presented on shop terms. $2.00

370. SHEET METAL WORK by Wm. Neubecker. A manual of self-instruction in the art of pattern drafting and construction work in light-and heavy-gauge metal, including skylights, roofing, forced-air fittings, etc. $2.50

371. PRODUCTION ENGINEERING, JIG AND TOOL DESIGN by E. J. H. Jones. A practical book on the manufacture and use of tools, jigs, and fixtures. Included are fits and tolerances, gauges, cutting-tool materials, small tools, development of form tools, broaching and grinding fixtures. $5.00

372. CARPENTRY (CRAFT PROBLEMS) by H. H. Siegele. Explains fully and illustrates hundreds of problems which present themselves to inexperienced apprentices as well as to the journeyman carpenter. $2.00

METALLURGY

373. PREVENTION OF THE FAILURE OF METALS UNDER REPEATED STRESS by the Metallurgical Staff of Battelle Memorial Institute. An authoritative study of all available information on fatigue failures in metals. Shows what factors influence fatigue and how to prevent them. $2.75

374. PLASTIC WORKING OF METALS AND POWER PRESS OPERATIONS by E. V. Crane. A comprehensive study of metallurgy, mechanics of materials, testing methods, new plastic working theories, metal working processes, mathematical calculations, in pressed metal engineering. $5.00

375. THE WORKING HEAT TREATING AND WELDING OF STEEL by H. L. Campbell. A practical book on metallurgy showing the effects of various factors on the working of steel and the various processes and equipment for working of steel. A thorough chapter on the welding of steel. $2.25

Mechanical Engineering

376. TOOL DESIGN by C. B. Cole. The fundamental principles of design as applied to tooling for production. A complete and modern manual covering materials, standards, jigs, fixtures, dies, gages, etc. $4.50

377. MECHANISM by Prof. Stanton E. Winston. An entirely up-to-date and clearly written book covering useful knowledge on Toothed Wheels, Gears, Cams, Machines, Mechanisms, etc. Also given are chapters on Velocities, Pulleys, Motion, and Belts, with many illustrations and drawings. $3.50

378. METAL PROCESSING by Orlan W. Boston. Covers design of a product, material, fits and tolerances, outlines manufacturing processes for metal parts, classes of machine tools, and accessories involved in the manufacture. Specific processes, machinability are thoroughly discussed. $5.00

379. MANUFACTURING PROCESSES by Myron L. Begeman. A profusely illustrated reference volume of technical fundamentals of important manufacturing processes, engineering materials, and modern equipment necessary for processing. $4.50

380. ANALYTICAL MECHANICS FOR ENGINEERS by Seely and Ensign. Presents the principles of mechanics essential for engineers. Applies the principles to concrete problems of practical value. $3.75

381. STRENGTH OF MATERIALS by John W. Breneman. Gives a simplified presentation of simple stresses, shear, riveted joints, stresses in thin walled cylinders, torsion, beams, columns, materials, etc. $1.50

382. PRACTICAL MECHANICS AND STRENGTH OF MATERIALS by C. W. Leigh and J. F. Mangold. Develops Mechanics and Strength of Materials as one continuous subject for the practical man. Each chapter on Strength of Materials is preceded by those principles of Mechanics that are necessary for its presentation. $3.00

383. MECHANICAL VIBRATION by J. P. Den Hartog. Complete account of the subject of vibration as applied to mechanical engineering. Covers in detail applications to water wheels, steam turbines, automobiles, airplanes, Diesels, and electrical machinery. $5.00

384. TESTING AND INSPECTION OF ENGINEERING MATERIALS by Davis, Troxell, and Wiskocil. A handbook for the control of the quality of a product through appropriate inspection processes. Vital testing methods for both experimentation and inspection. $3.50

385. INDUSTRIAL INSTRUMENTS FOR MEASUREMENT AND CONTROL by Thomas J. Rhodes. A thorough study of the instruments and controls used in industry. Covers their design, installation and maintenance. $6.00

ELECTRICITY

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS' HANDBOOK edited by Harold Pender. "PENDER" now appears in two volumes covering the two distinct fields of electrical engineering: Electric Power, and Communication and Electronics. Each in its field is a concentrated collection of practical data, charts, and tables presented by experts in the various fields of electrical engineering.
386. Pender—Electric Power. $6.00
387. Pender—Communication and Electronics. $5.00

388. ELEMENTS OF ELECTRICITY by W. H. Timbie. A completely revised edition of this authoritative work on the fundamentals of electricity. Clearly and simply written. $3.00

389. INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICITY, PART II. by Chester L. Dawes. A comprehensive text on alternating current, its production, measuring instruments, uses and advantages, with a thorough study of A. C. motors. $2.75

390. PRACTICAL ELECTRICITY by Terrell Croft. The facts and theories of electricity and its present-day applications, presented in a simple, straightforward way. Mathematical knowledge is not necessary. Gives a good working knowledge of the subject. $3.00

391. NATIONAL ELECTRICAL CODE HANDBOOK by Arthur L. Abbott. Enables electricians to understand the National Electrical Code and work in accordance with it. Restates involved rules in simple language and gives practical directions and diagrams. New edition with latest developments. $3.00

392. STANDARD HANDBOOK FOR ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS edited by A. E. Knowlton. The 7th edition of this comprehensive work covering the entire field of electrical engineering is now ready. Over 2,800 pages of data, tables, formulae, and latest information on electricity and its applications. $8.00

393. ELECTROMAGNETIC DEVICES by Herbert Roters. The fundamental principles and methods applicable to all types of magnetic circuits and non-rotary electromagnetic devices, as well as the practical application of the theory in solving different problems. $6.00

MATHEMATICS

394. WHAT IS MATHEMATICS? by Courant and Robbins. Leads the reader from very elementary and comprehensible facts, without unnecessary detours and technicalities, to a clear understanding of modern mathematics. Fascinating for layman or engineer. $5.00

395. MATHEMATICS FOR THE MILLION by Lancelot Hogben. This book tells how easy it is to understand mathematics, by translating formulae into a language of size, one is able to understand the most complicated mathematical problems. A best seller for five years. With answers. Revised. $3.75

396. MATHEMATICS by John W. Breneman. A simple course in mathematics suggested by men teaching in industry and technical schools. Brief practical treatments of simple operations and fractions, ratio and proportion, areas and volumes, tables, formulas, and fundamentals of algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. $1.75

397. PRACTICAL MATHEMATICS FOR HOME STUDY by Claude Palmer. Combines problems with practical information, easily understood by the layman. Contains: Arithmetic with Applications, Geometry with Applications, Algebra with Applications, and Trigonometry with Logarithms. With answers. $4.00

398. THE SLIDE RULE AND LOGARITHMIC TABLES by J. J. Clark. A concise and accurate reference work on the application of the slide rule and logarithmic tables to practical problems. Includes a ten place log table. $1.50

399. MATHEMATICAL TABLES FROM HANDBOOK OF CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS—Pocket Edition. Over 300 pages of useful mathematical tables, including five-place logs, interest tables, integrals, squares, cubes, roots, etc. 75c

400. PRACTICAL MATHEMATICS by Hobbs, McKinney and Dalzell. An excellent review of mathematics from simple addition and subtraction through logarithms for beginners and for those who have forgotten. $2.40

MILITARY SCIENCE

401. ELEMENTS OF ORDNANCE by Lt. Col. T. J. Hayes. Covers service weapons and ammunition, the instruments and other accessory equipment of war. Covers also propellants and high explosives, fire control, and armor plate. An up-to-date study. $6.50

402. WHAT THE CITIZEN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT OUR ARMS AND WEAPONS by Major James E. Hicks. Detailed and authoritative information on every sort of weapon from the pistol to the heaviest coast artillery gun. $2.50

403. NEW INFANTRY DRILL REGULATIONS. The new Infantry Drill Regulations as adopted in Sept., 1939, in complete form covering everything from the Soldier Without Arms to Ceremonial Parade. Also marksmanship with the Springfield and Garand. 50c

404. THE OFFICERS' GUIDE. A necessity for every young officer. A ready reference on customs and correct procedures followed within the army which pertain to commissioned officers. A complete chapter on the management of the American soldier. $2.50

405. COMPANY ADMINISTRATION by Major C. M. Virtue. The authority on army paper work. Includes supply and mess management and personnel records. This new edition conforms to the latest War Department regulations. $2.00

406. ESSENTIALS OF INFANTRY TRAINING. A complete and authoritative text on all phases of infantry training prepared for the study, training, and examination of enlisted men. 687 pages profusely illustrated. $1.25

407. STATE DEFENSE FORCE MANUAL. All the information necessary for the efficient functioning of the State Guards. Based on U. S. government publications, the same basic training as for the National armed forces is provided. $1.00

408. HE'S IN THE NAVY NOW by Lt. Com. J. T. Tuthill, Jr. The exciting story, in text and pictures, of training of recruits and also of actual service on the various ships of our fighting fleet. $2.50

409. HE'S IN THE ARMY NOW by Capt. W. H. Baumer, Jr. Explains the various types of military service and the different duties of men in each branch, stressing particularly the mechanization which predominates in all branches. $2.50

410. AMERICA'S STRATEGY IN WORLD POLITICS by N. J. Spykman. Explains for the first time the significance of our geographic location for a sound political strategy in peace time and an effective military strategy in war time. $3.75

411. THE FLEET TODAY by Kendall Banning. A timely book about our navy. Follows the career of an applicant for enlistment from the recruiting office step-by-step through his training as an expert and efficient sailor. $2.50

412. THE AXIS GRAND STRATEGY from original material prepared by staff officers of the German Army, Navy, and Air Force, edited by L. Farago. The blueprints for total war in the words of its own general staffs. $3.75

413. THE TOOLS OF WAR by James R. Newman. The amazing weapons of modern war. Explains the use of every fighting arm from the rifle to giant mobile cannon. Enables you to better understand the news from the battle fronts. $5.00

414. THE ARMY OFFICER'S MANUAL by Lt. Col. A. C. Azoy. A concise and practical handbook for officers and prospective officers giving them vital information about the army and of the duties of the various branches. $2.50

415. HOW TO GET ALONG IN THE ARMY by "Old Sarge." A guide book for the army volunteer or selectee who wants to be prepared for the worst but who hopes for the best. The best book of sensible advice for the prospective soldier. $1.50

CIVIL DEFENSE

416. AERIAL BOMBARDMENT PROTECTION by Wessman and Rose. A detailed discussion of the measures which should be taken to make buildings resistant to the effects of bombs. Covers different types of construction. Essential for engineers and architects. $4.00

417. CIVIL AIR DEFENSE by Lt. Col. A. M. Prentiss. A complete and authoritative treatise on the entire subject of civilian air defense in a clear and simple form. Should be studied by every one and especially those doing civilian defense work. $2.75

418. CIVILIAN DEFENSE OF THE UNITED STATES by Col. E. R. Dupuy and Lt. H. Carter. Teaching civilians how to defend themselves and protect their homes, factories, and vital nerve centers from bombing, sabotage, or enemy propaganda. $2.50

419. WOMEN FOR DEFENSE by Margaret Banning. The story of what women have done and what they must do in factories, on farms, in homes, and offices so that we may win the war. Here is our real "mystery weapon." $2.50

420. AIR RAID DEFENSE by Curt Wachtel. Covers completely the many aspects of civil defense including building of shelters, gas protection, rescue work, health defense, etc. Special attention is given to the economic aspects. $3.50

421. AIR RAID PRECAUTIONS by various British experts. Practical data on shelters, organization of Air Raid Wardens, gas detection, protection of windows in commercial buildings, and clearance of debris. $3.00

DRAFTING

422. TECHNICAL DRAWING by Giesecke, Mitchell, and Spencer. A revised up-to-date text on drafting. Clear and comprehensive covering all the different fields, including aviation drawing. Authoritatively written. $4.00

BRITISH WOMEN LEARN WARTIME CLOTHES BUYING

Money Means Little Under Rationing System.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON [By air mail].—How are British women dealing with the problem of dressing under the clothes rationing scheme? This scheme has been in force since May 7, 1941. It was difficult to plan one's coupons to the best advantage under the original scheme, which allowed 66 coupons for a year, but now that there is to be a cut to 60 coupons, for 14 months, it will be more difficult still, especially for the mother of a family.

Even tho growing children are allowed extra coupons the mother often has to use some of her own for her children. Many husbands have been deprived of theirs altogether.

THE TRIBUNE heard a conversation in the train the other day in which a girl explained to a friend that she had swopped suits with another girl of the same height and build. They had each tired of their own suit and thought it a good idea to trade for something entirely different without having to part with precious coupons.

Money a Minor Factor.

Women now have to think in terms of coupons because money is now a minor consideration in the purchase of clothes.

Stockings are a big problem. Two coupons are needed for every pair. More laddered stockings are being worn these days than ever before. Many girls were seen during the cold spell of the last winter without stockings.

Quite a common remark is: "I haven't even half a coupon for a pair of stockings." Few women appreciate either the beauty or comfort of bare legs, but even leg paint, which became popular last summer, is now off the market because the chemicals are needed for war purposes.

A woolen frock requires 11 coupons and two such dresses are needed for winter. Even if a girl knits herself a frock it requires 11 coupons for the wool. A summer frock requires seven coupons and a blouse and skirt 12.

Shoes Another Problem.

Shoes are another problem, 10 coupons being required for two pairs.

The following table shows how many articles can be had for 60 coupons, which have to be spread over 14 months:

Articles.	Coupons.
2 pairs shoes [1 light and 1 heavy]	10
4 pairs stockings	8
2 woolen frocks	22
1 summer frock	7
1 blouse and skirt	12
1 vest	1
Total	60

This does not include a few other necessary articles, such as handkerchiefs, an extra vest, knickers and slip, or a coat. A coat requires at least 15 coupons, if not more, so that if one is really needed drastic cuts must be made in the above list.

Overalls Pile Up.

Hardest hit are the women who had small wardrobes in the past. They have no reserves.

Stacks of overalls have been left on the hands of shopkeepers. Before the rationing of clothes women bought them for house wear, but now they cannot afford the six coupons required.

Buying dress material does not help much. A yard of woolen material 36 inches wide requires three coupons. Four yards for a dress would require 12 coupons, and four yards would not be sufficient for everybody. Cotton and other materials of the same width require two coupons a yard.

BOYS WILL TAKE ON ELDERS' WOES OF RUNNING CITY

Boys selected after examinations conducted by the Junior Association of Commerce will take over key public offices Wednesday as a feature of Chicago Youth week. They will spend the next two days acquainting themselves with their duties.

Robert W. Schoder, 16 years old, 3207 South Wells street, will serve as mayor; Edward L. Anderson Jr., 14, 4054 Waveland avenue, as police commissioner, and Kenneth Lewan, 16, 4149 North Claremont avenue, as chief justice of the Municipal court. Other officials are:

Sherwin Herzog, 15, 4826 North Central avenue, corporation counsel; Henry Shatinsky, 17, 1440 South Kolen avenue, commissioner of public works; Tim Dimas, 17, 6237 South Wood street, fire commissioner; Tony Cide, 15, 910 South Oakley avenue, fire prevention chief; Billy Lakin, 15, 1080 North Kedzie avenue, health commissioner; Ralph Hines, 14, 4418 South Wabash avenue, and Eugene Chalus, 15, 2842 South Ridgeway avenue, judges of Municipal court.

For Joining Mock Air Raid He's a Dead Pigeon Now!

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 19 (AP).—A mock air raid today during a navy booster day program was too realistic. Fragments of an aerial bomb injured Robert Dar Jr. and Clarence Soest. Then an unwary pigeon flew into another bomb and disappeared in a puff of smoke and feathers.

STUDY OF YOUTH PROBLEMS OPENS IN CHICAGO TODAY

Problems of juvenile delinquency and means to curb any expected increase in juvenile crime during wartime will be discussed at a three day conference on prevention of juvenile delinquency opening today at the La Salle hotel.

The conference called by Gov. Green is sponsored by the state division for delinquency prevention and the Big Brothers and Sisters Association of Illinois. The theme of the conference, the 11th annual meeting of the group, is "Onward with Youth to Good Citizenship in Our Present Crisis."

During the conference educators, religious leaders, psychologists, law enforcement officials, health authorities, and military representatives will offer their ideas on aiding youth. The conference will be opened this morning by Samuel R. Ryerson, superintendent of the state division for delinquency prevention.

In calling the conference Gov. Green said it was his hope the conference would work out a program to forestall any great increase in delinquency expected during wartimes. "Let us keep out any subversive activities," he declared; "let's keep our boys and girls Americans."

U.S. Leases Hamilton Hotel in Bermuda for Soldiers

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 19 (AP).—The palatial Hamilton hotel was leased by the United States government today and will be transformed into a recreational center for troops of the united nations stationed in Bermuda. Among other things, U. S. authorities intend to set up with the hotel a roller skating rink and a bowling alley, neither of which ever has been seen here.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN, 84.

Mrs. Louise Guncher, 84 years old, 4704 Warwick avenue, died yesterday in her home from injuries suffered in a fall in her home April 11.

THREE INJURED WHEN BUS AND AUTO COLLIDE

Eight Others Given First Aid Treatment.

Three persons were injured and eight others were sufficiently shaken to require first aid in hospitals when a Chicago Motor Coach company bus collided with an automobile at Michigan avenue and 26th street last night. The passenger car was hurled against a lamp post marking the center of the avenue and the bus then crashed into the base on which the post had been standing.

The automobile was owned by John Alano, 28 years old, of 218 West 30th street. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital and was so dazed from the collision that police were unable to learn whether or not he was the driver.

Bus Passenger Hurt.

Joseph Urbanek, 35, of 2102 Garfield boulevard, a passenger on the bus, remained at Michael Reese hospital after the other injured had been treated and sent home. Mrs. Lillian Eggert, 54, of 5539 South Troy street, was severely injured and remained at Mercy hospital. The bus was driven by Edward Severt of 5320 Drexel avenue.

Christ Christenson, 62, of Morris, Grundy county, was killed when the car in which he was riding with Gustaf Egeland of Lisbon collided with another at the intersection of Routes 52 and 47 in Lisbon. Charles E. Noble, who gave the address of 180 West Adams street, Chicago, was the driver of the second car.

Crash Injuries Fatal.

Miss Joan Obrycki, 19, 3043 West 54th street, died yesterday in Berwyn hospital of injuries received Saturday when an automobile in which she was riding hit two trees and crashed against a railroad viaduct at La Grange road and Archer avenue in Willow Springs. Julius Siwiec, 21, of 5323 South Sawyer avenue, driver of the car, and Edward Polack, 5421 South Tripp street, were injured seriously.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 227 persons had been killed in Cook county automobile accidents since Jan. 1. Of this total, 181 were killed in Chicago, where 5,990 others were injured.

Three Rockford Workers Die in Crossing Crash

Rochelle, Ill., April 19 (AP).—Leonard Reif, 20 years old, of Neola, Ia., William Dudley, 19, and Tony Cebahar, 23, both of Centerville, Ia., were killed today when their car was struck by a train on U. S. highway 51 north of here. The three were employed in Rockford.

It's Quick, Easy, Thrifty to Borrow Here

Merchandise Bank offers 4 loan plans at costs from $3 to $8 a year for $100. Illinois law permits charging as much as $19.50—and many lending agencies, other than banks, so entitled by law*, do charge that much. But why pay from 2 to 6 times more elsewhere when Bank credit costs so little here?

WHEN you need money, come here for lower loan costs and smaller monthly payments. Your credit inquiry is always welcome. You can always count on prompt, considerate service—and cost savings of half or more of average charges elsewhere. If you wish our helpful telephone interviewers to handle all loan details for you, merely call WHItehall 4500. Or come in personally, if you prefer.

Ride on_But look BEFORE you

NEVER before in history has this old Dutch maxim been wiser, more sound than it is today.

For a century Americans have been "riding on but looking before them"—living their daily lives to the full, but preparing for the future through the medium of life insurance taken out with the help and advice of skilled agents.

And today, as we ride forward to war, our life insurance, through purchase of government bonds, provides funds to keep the wheels of production rolling. At the same time, it gives us family security for the period of personal readjustment that many of us may face when victory is won.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE REPUBLICANS MEET IN CHICAGO.

Chicago and Illinois Republicans can welcome the national committee of their party to its meeting here with particular cordiality at this time. In their primary last week the members of the party in this state reaffirmed their adherence to Republican principles and gave a most decisive answer to the counterfeit and Trojan horse Republicans who would nullify the two party system. Mr. Brooks, the Republican candidate in the Republican primary, won with 546,000 votes to spare.

The principal business before the national committee is a restatement of the party's stand in the light of the war. Demand for its vigorous prosecution, which is sure to come forth, will be a blow to the nation's enemies all over the world if, indeed, those enemies have been so foolish as to believe that criticism of bungling in the war effort has had any motive other than the unanimous determination of the nation for a speedy and complete victory.

The New Deal and Trojan horse press has been indulging in some wishful thinking regarding this meeting. It has hopefully looked forward to dissension within the Republican ranks, and it has pinned those hopes on the actions of the ambitious Mr. Willkie. Those hopes are doomed to disappointment. While custom gives the party's last nominee for President the privilege of offering it his advice, custom does not apply to Mr. Willkie. He is not a Republican. He deserted the principles of the party that nominated him, even before the election, and any advice he may offer can be considered only in the light of the betrayal that that desertion involved.

Courtesy may require that any resolutions Mr. Willkie offers be received, but his influence, fortunately, is so slight that they cannot become a source of party dissension. The committee can be depended upon to disappoint its ill-wishers and present to the country a unified front and the program for victory which the nation is awaiting so anxiously.

WHAT EVERY ONE SHOULD KNOW.

Few persons who contemplate the list of 67 materials banned by the War Production board for civilian use because they are essential to the prosecution of the war will fail to be struck by the complexity of the world in which we live and our ignorance of it. Scientists and technicians might be competent to describe the properties and uses of all or most of these 21 metals, 19 chemicals, and 27 miscellaneous materials, but laymen would be doing well to recognize a bare third of them by name, let alone to tell how they are used in the products that affect our everyday life.

How many of us, for example, can tell anything about cadmium, cobalt, rhodium, or vanadium, altho all of these are among the 92 elements? Try to describe a halogenated hydrocarbon refrigerant or an anthroquinone derivative. Tell us, if you can, about diphenylamine or polyvinyl chloride. What is corundum, or kyanite, or shearlings? How does noils silk differ from garnetted silk? What are the uses of mica splittings, cashew nut shell oil, or sperm oil?

If you have failed to pass this examination, you may be sure that you are not the only one. And yet, is that consolation? We are told that all of these materials are among 67 vitally essential to war. In denying them to civilians, the WPB indicates that they have been an integral part of our normal life, altho most of us cannot tell whether we have been eating them, doctoring ourselves with them, wearing them on our backs, scrubbing our faces with them, or running our automobiles with them.

One might think that none of us could call himself educated if he could not identify each of these materials, describe its properties and its uses, and tell in what form it is found, where in the world, and in what quantity. But on all of these tests most of us would have to confess ignorance.

UNIFIED COMMAND ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

It is to be hoped that wishful thinking does not prompt the impression, from a Chicago speech by Wing Comm. E. A. McNab of the Canadian air force, that something approaching a unified command of Pacific coast air units has been established to deal with threatened invasion or raids.

Commander McNab has been stationed in Seattle at a center for liaison between the Canadian air force and American army and naval air units. Liaison is a polite military term denoting a divided command. The French and British had liaison in Flanders, but when the Nazis attacked each army went its own blundering way to defeat.

The speaker said that radio facilities are being used mutually and that ground and air control systems are being established, modeled after those used successfully by the British. If the control system is a mutual one, as his words indicated, at least an approach has been made to unified command. It is from the control centers that orders go to send planes into the air.

Liaison isn't enough. Liaison will apprise units stationed at Portland that Vancouver is being bombed, but it won't send them to defend Vancouver if their commander feels that he should stay and guard Portland. Only a unified command can do that.

The nation has paid enough to learn the lesson of unified command. The story of Pearl Harbor, where lack of coöperation between army and navy, both in Hawaii and Washington, contributed so much to disaster, need not be retold. The ludicrous dispute between Secretaries Knox and Stimson over the supposed Los Angeles air raid was tragic in its disclosure that the army and navy in that area didn't know what each other was doing.

Not until March 27 did the army entrust command of its anti-submarine forces in American waters to the navy, and then only after Gov. J. M. Broughton of North Carolina had made a public protest against "shocking" bungling of the anti-submarine campaign, in which he charged that the navy was leaving the job of protecting shipping to the air force and the air force was leaving it to the navy.

MR. WILLEM'S MIND WAS ON HIS BUSINESS.

Sen. Byrd is demanding the prosecution of Jack M. Willem of Chicago for abuse of his government frank. Mr. Willem is the national bowling coördinator of what used to be the division of physical fitness of the Office of Civilian Defense. On March 14 he had one of his assistant coördinators send letters, on government stationery and under government frank, to secretaries of bowling leagues thruout the country asking them to bombard him with indorsements of bowling as an activity vital to national defense.

These letters were to be sent to Mr. Willem, not at the Washington offices of the OCD, but at the Stack-Goble Advertising agency in Chicago. Mr. Willem is an executive of this agency, which handles the account of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company. That company, Sen. Byrd says, holds a virtual monopoly on the manufacture of bowling alleys, balls, and pins.

"Almost every product used in the maintenance of bowling equipment and supplies," read the letter under government frank, "is now or soon will be placed on the restricted list of commodities for civilian use. Should this happen, pins, alley finishes, repair parts, etc., would be 'frozen' and bowling's future will be seriously impaired." So the league secretaries were asked to assign men immediately to get "thousands" of letters to build up sentiment to exempt the manufacturers of bowling equipment from priority or war conversion orders.

It was implied that this laudable project had the approval of President Roosevelt, the President being quoted as having said that Americans "ought to have a chance for recreation and for taking their minds off their work, even more than ever before." Whether it was desirable to take the minds of others off their work, it is abundantly clear that Mr. Willem's mind was completely on his—not his OCD work, but his agency work for his client.

"So what Mr. Willem is doing in this instance," Sen. Byrd remarked, "is to use his official position as national coördinator of bowling, and by the use of the franking privilege of the government, to create sentiment so that the company which is a client of his advertising agency can be permitted to obtain supplies of essential equipment, and enable the Stack-Goble Advertising agency to continue, I assume, to handle the advertising program of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company."

The franked letters were called to Sen. Byrd's attention by John F. Moloney, a league secretary in Memphis, Tenn., who made the appropriate answer to Mr. Willem's exhortation to "keep 'em rolling for victory" when he stated: "Our league members are familiar with the shortage of materials now affecting every phase of American life. We know that the reason for that shortage is the absolute necessity of providing our armed forces with the weapons and machines they need to destroy an enemy who would otherwise destroy us. A number of our league members have joined the armed services. We do not believe it would help their morale to know that those of us who remain at home were bringing pressure upon the government so that we may 'bowl as usual' while they die for lack of equipment."

The public has become accustomed to almost every sort of folly in connection with the unlamented physical fitness division, but this case is more serious than most. It demonstrates, as Sen. Byrd says, the use of government position and frank for a commercial purpose. Postmaster General Walker agrees that the Willem letters were not entitled to the franking privilege. Still, the abuse does not reflect on Mr. Willem alone. It reflects with equal seriousness on an administration with so little discrimination as to what properly constitutes the functions of federal government and the conduct of federal office that almost any carpetbagger with a glib sales talk can get a desk for himself in Washington to promote his special interest at public expense.

IT'S THEIR FIGHT, TOO.

When we go back to Bataan, as we're going to do, Filipino battalions are going with us. The first all-Filipino unit of the United States army is now being trained in California. There are 83,000 Filipinos in the United States and Hawaii, and the present Filipino force is going to be a great deal larger than it is now before this war is over.

Three-quarters or better of the defending force and 6 of the 16 generals who fought to the last on Bataan were Filipinos. Among the 34 men evacuated from the Philippines last week by American bombers that made a secret landing after flying from Australia was Capt. Jesus Villamor, Filipino air ace. President Manuel Quezon reached Australia with his family, and in his person the Filipino government exists in exile.

The Filipinos have fought valiantly for their land and they will win it back with all the help we can give them. A loyal population awaits the coming of the new Filipino army in training on American soil, and when these fighting men come home they will have the help of the guerrilla forces that are keeping up the battle from the mountains and jungles. As have no other people in all the southwest Pacific or southeast Asia, the Filipinos have made the fight for their country their fight. That is natural, for they were the first to know that freedom was no empty promise.

WAR LABOR BOARD ECONOMICS.

[New York Times.]

The text of the majority decision of the National War Labor board in the Walker-Turner case contains some amazing expressions of opinion on particular points. Take this, for example:

> The reason for the low wages lies in the fact that a higher rate by its own admission would bankrupt the company and this in turn, due to a large extent to the company's reinvestment of its funds in plant and equipment during the last year, in preference to increasing wages to standard levels.

Consider the implications of this. The majority of the War Labor board agrees that the company's "financial position could not stand the raise that the union demanded." For the board to assert that higher wages would bankrupt the company "by its own admission"—as if it were the company's fault that it simply did not have the money—would be strange enough by itself. But the board presses its accusation further. It goes on to accuse the company of the terrible crime of expanding its facilities to turn out more war production. In the opinion of the board, apparently, the company should not have expanded its facilities for providing employment and for war production. It should have used the money instead to hire a smaller number of men at higher wages, refusing to expand its productive facilities or even allowing them to shrink.

THE HITLER OF SCOTLAND.

The Chicago stage will presently by enriched by a staging of "Macbeth," and thus we are reminded that we have never seen this Shakespearean character costumed in tartan. There is no clan MacBeth, but bearers of that name formed septs, or subdivisions, of three clans—MacDonald, MacBean, and MacLean of Duart. The medieval dictator of Scotland, therefore, may have worn the colors of one of these clans, if the art of weaving plaids flourished among the Highlanders of 1050 A. D.

* * *

On the other hand, Macbeth may have worn the Ross tartan because he was the son of the hereditary ruler of Moray and Ross. This is a red and black pattern whose simplicity suggests an ancient origin.

* * *

The family or tribal name survives, altho it is not common. Three MacBeths can be found in the Chicago telephone directory. One of Chicago's newspaper reporters in the 1900's was a MacBeth.

* * *

What was the first name of Lady Macbeth, which Shakespeare fails to mention? It was Gruach, which means "hairy" in Gaelic—an ugly name for a dangerous woman. Macbeth, incidentally, can be translated as "son of life."

* * *

Shakespeare had not firsthand knowledge of Scotch customs, but the lairds who came to London as hangers-on at the court of England's first Scottish king could have given him plenty of local color for the costuming of "Macbeth," and they might have donated a few wornout kilts to the production, for the greater glory of James I. The original staging may easily have displayed tartans. The modern trend in the dressing of "Macbeth," however, has been toward the Norse viking and Gothic warrior styles.

WHEN FOND RECOLLECTION.

No hymn I chant to April,
I have no carols gay
For Winter, Summer, Spring, or Fall,
In fact, I have no time at all
For a thermometric madrigal
Or mercuroundelay.

I'm equinox-allergic;
With non-nostalgic joy
In vitriol I dip my pen
To blast the overrated yen
For the mess that passed for weather, when
Your daddy was a boy.

A bas New England poets,
What tripe you peddled here!
Chilblainless all the frigid toes,
With glamor gleamed each sniffly nose,
Like eiderdown (couleur de rose)
The slush of yesteryear.

I chant no hymn to April,
But neither do I pine
For choker collars, wilted flat,
For scratchy flannels, iron hat,
For the sulphur and molasses that Were Spring in Ninety-nine.

A Quiet Evening Among the Sirens.

"Seven o'clock. Funny we can't hear those sirens."

Papa, thrusting his fork into a baked potato, spoke in a loud voice to make himself heard. Marigold pounded approvingly with a large spoon upon the metal tray of her high chair. Roxana shouted at Arabella to please stop kicking her under the table, because people in first grade had no right to injure people in sixth. Arabella made a megaphone of her napkin ring and proclaimed that she was tired of kicking, anyhow, and wanted to go out for a ride on her two-wheeler. Brownie came scrambling down the stairs and protested, behind the safety of a French window, at the Magruders' Great Dane, who was crossing the front lawn. Mama rose to answer the telephone, which had been ringing for three minutes.

"It's the air raid warden," she announced. "He says we're spoiling the test. We're drowning out the sirens."

The "Big Five" of Lincoln Lore.

Five great collections of Lincolniana were privately assembled in the years when picking was good, and their owners, now dead, became known as the "Big Five." They were Daniel Fish, William H. Lambert, Judd Stuart, Charles McClellan, and J. B. Oakleaf. To bring the history of these collections up to date:

McClellan's: Purchased by Brown university.

Oakleaf's: Recently purchased by Indiana university [8,000 books and pamphlets].

The late Gov. Henry Horner's collection, also notable, has been merged with that of the Illinois State Historical library in Springfield.

ARIA FOR APRIL.

There's rain that comes down with a roar;
There's rain that weeps gently and sadly,
Or rain that will boisterously pour.

And some makes you feel like a wreck;
But all rain, with never exception,

Cholly.

A verse from the Bible [II. Corinthians, iv., 8] should be borne in mind in this troubled time:

"We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair."

It's taken a long time to clear my name, but for the benefit of those who questioned my sanity when I brought up the subject in the Line three years ago, the peripheral speed of the Palmolive beacon at 100 miles from the source is, or was, 1,256.6 miles per minute.

THE "ROSE FEVER" OF SPRINGTIME.

THE association of flowers and violent bouts of sneezing, simulating the beginning of a cold, has long been recognized. Authentic episodes date back to the 16th century. In fact, the term "rose fever" came into existence because a well known Italian physician reported that one of his patients had a distinct aversion to roses, their odor being responsible for headache, itching of the nose, and a profuse watery discharge from the nostrils.

In the light of our present knowledge, we look upon these particular blooms as harmless. The chances are that many of our older writers ascribed the malady to more attractive blossoms when in fact the true cause was a far less conspicuous plant. Roses are rarely guilty because the pollen is sticky and is spread by insects—it does not float away upon currents of air. The same is true of dandelion, goldenrod, cosmos, sunflowers, daisies, etc.

For some of us, however, the hay fever season which begins with the flowering of trees and early grasses will bring nothing but woe. While the great family of addicts will not be affected until midsummer, a fair proportion will develop "colds" particularly during the months of April and May. The responsible factors are pollens from early blooming species. Certain individuals will prove to be highly sensitive altho the total quantity of the fertilizing element may not be great.

Frequent offenders include poplars [cottonwood], elm, birch, oak, ash, sycamore, and maple which send forth their irritating dust for the annoyance of all and sundry. Most of us realize that we do not need to linger long under a maple to develop a full blown attack if one is allergic [sensitive]. A gentle breeze, with favorable conditions, may transport these airy particles to distant parts and the concentration may be sufficient to set the stage for a typical spell.

Those who are susceptible usually respond to a specific pollen or that which comes from a group of allied plants. One who suffers from the early spring varieties may be free the balance of the season. On the other hand, repeated seizures may come with the flowering of associated species. A few will react violently in April and May and again in August when ragweed produces its poisonous crop.

Of course there is no better treatment than avoiding the source of the trouble. An absence of a day or two from the neighborhood of the "starter" will usually bring relief. But this may not be possible and what is known as desensitization is helpful for those who cannot take a vacation.

While some protection is afforded by large doses of the causative substance by mouth, the injection of an extract is more likely to be effective. A minute quantity is administered beneath the skin at intervals. Usually a mixture is employed so that the procedure need be carried out but once and not with each individual offender. More powerful results are obtained if the desensitizing process can begin two or three weeks before the seasonal paroxysms appear.

Fortunately, the great army of those who succumb to these unpleasant manifestations have several months of grace. The vernal total is comparatively small.

COMMON RESULT.

I. S. writes: What is the reason for a light rash breaking out around the eyebrows every time I tweeze them?

REPLY.

Irritation [infection] which follows forcible extraction of the hairs. The tissues of the follicles are bruised. Before attempting the operation scrub the parts thoroly with soap and warm water. At the end of the ceremony, apply alcohol. At all times protect the eyes.

TOO MANY "PROJECTS."

Chicago, April 16.—The Tribune was right in its excellent editorial, "What They Learn in School," in which it denounced teachers whose pupils could not pass an ordinary test in arithmetic. What would you do to superintendents, district superintendents, and a whole retinue of special supervisors who don't allow teachers to teach?

K. R. Stevens, in a splendid analysis of what is misnamed "progressive education" hit the nail on the head when he said teachers are given orders to put on a good show in the classroom. I am the mother of several children who went thru the Chicago grammar schools and they wonder now just why they learned so little there. When they reached high school, the new teachers found the whole class unprepared for algebra, hazy as to grammar, weak in spelling, and absolutely ignorant of any English literature.

The children's whole time in the grades was taken up with projects, working on notebooks and writing tests to the tune of teacher's stop watch to show their "intellectual level," and their "aptitudes." They sat and wrote till their eyes popped and their hands were numb. Then those who did not finish or wanted "extra credit" continued filling up paper at home and buying magazines to cut out pictures of birds or beasts or bugs. One youngster handed in a masterpiece of 125 painful pages about birds with appropriate pictures pasted in. Needless to say, he couldn't name four of the species if he saw them in the park.

At one time my cup of wrath was full to overflowing when, at the end of May, the children announced five more notebooks were due in the next two weeks. One of them was a music notebook which was to have drawings and pictures of 30 musical instruments which never were studied in class. There was a scurry and a flurry. Every one in the house was buying and looking for magazines and the children picked and pasted and copied and wrote till now, after eight years of such work, they all wear glasses and have trouble with their eyes, and have gained little or no education

The little time spent on reading and arithmetic was given in the form of silent desk work followed by incessant speed tests given by the teacher and guaranteed to make nervous wrecks of any children. This might shed some light on "Why sailors flunk arithmetic."

"ADMIRED AND RESPECTED."

Chicago, April 17.—Your editorial of April 16, "Social Justice Deprived Use of the Mails," is contemptible and insulting to all Christian Americans. I thought I would never see the time when The Chicago Tribune would lose its taste for honesty and fair play.

Any unprejudiced person will admit that Rev. Charles E. Coughlin is a brilliant man who knows no fear and is not, as you say, a crackpot. Father Coughlin is admired and respected by millions of good Christian Americans and they will rise to defend him and Social Justice magazine.

Your so-called influential elements in his church who repudiate him are lacking intestinal fortitude. They merely are concerned to use their high office to gain a jeweled crown in preference to the crown of thorns. They sit idly by and fear to raise their voices to defend their church and people who suffer insults every day.

Social Justice prints the truth. They have no advertisers to fear as has all other publications.

Those whom Social Justice accuses have never made any effort to clear themselves of the charges, they resort to that well known smear.

It is made of silk and has two blue stars. Little did I think when my boys were babies that I would be hanging that same flag up in memory of one who gave his life in Hawaii Dec. 7, at Hickam field, and now I have another boy in service in Camp Chaffee, Arkansas.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 29.

1. Which one of these sports draws the greatest number of spectators?
   Baseball   Basketball   Football   Hockey.
2. Approximately how much more gasoline does an auto consume at 65 miles per hour than at 25 miles per hour?
   5 per cent   20 per cent   40 per cent   60 per cent.
3. Of every 1,000 American families, how many keep a servant?
   40   96   135   260.
4. The 20th century began on which of the following dates?
   Jan. 1, 1899   Dec. 31, 1899   Jan. 1, 1900   Jan. 1, 1901.
5. A Chinese play usually has how many scenes?
   1   2   3   4.
6. If all the eggs hatched and produced mature flies, a single egg laying housefly that you might find on April 1, would have no fewer than 131,220,000,000,000,000,000 descendants before autumn frosts. Kill these lazy spring flies that survive the winter! You deserve one point for each correct judgment below. Incircle the T if you think a statement is true, or the F if you deem it false.

T F [a] If all flies were killed during the winter, there would be no more flies the next spring.
T F [b] A housefly must feed for two weeks after attaining maturity before it can lay its first eggs.
T F [d] One housefly can carry a million germs of various sorts at one time on its legs and body.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

NAVY RECRUITS' AVERAGE GRADE IN MATH IS 44

Simple Arithmetic Stumps Some Collegians.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Simple arithmetic examinations are too tough for the average recruit for the United States navy. Random sampling of tests given to 3,052 recruits applying in 1941 showed an average per cent of correct answers of 44.2 for 20 questions which cover basic processes such as adding, dividing, multiplying and subtracting which should have been mastered by seventh and eighth graders.

The navy, a highly technical branch of service with "each man a specialist," has asked high and elementary schools to stress mathematics and science.

Lyttleton B. P. Gould, special assistant to the chief of the bureau of navigation, was in Chicago yesterday after a tour of the country intended to relate navy personnel needs to elementary and high school curricula.

Basic for All Technical Work.

"To the frequently asked question of what secondary education can do for the navy," Gould said, "the navy's reply is: 'Teach your students mathematics and science. The navy is composed of technical experts, and these subjects are basic requirements for all technical work'."

But the study of simple arithmetic examinations made public by Gould for late 1941 was worse by nearly 9 per cent than similar studies in 1940. The national average for 1940 was 53 and for 1941 it was 44.2. The average Chicago recruit for the latter year had a mark of 56.

A breakdown of the 1941 studies showed that 301 high school seniors received 50 per cent or below in the test, while 8 out of 20 college seniors were unable to rise above 65 per cent, and 7 out of 31 college sophomores fell to 50 or below. The 1940 studies showed New York recruits leading the nation with an average of 70.5 per cent.

As the study moved westward and south it rapidly declined to upper 50s at Cleveland to the 30s in Birmingham, Ala., and Louisville, Ky. Indianapolis recruits made the mid 40s in their tests. No real advance was shown except in Seattle, where the average rose a point above the 60 mark.

Some Sample Problems.

Following are problems such as the recruits are asked to solve.

1. Multiply 768 by 97.
2. Divide 60,952 by 76.

The schools of the country demonstrated better jobs of teaching in English and spelling than in arithmetic. The average recruit passed spelling tests with a grade of 64 per cent and in English with an average of 74 per cent. Mechanical aptitude tests indicated an average of 64 per cent.

Navy Supplies a Guide.

The navy has issued a guide for secondary school pupils and teachers so that future recruits may lay foundations in the naval field for which they are best adapted. Gould explained the four general fields of navy service: deck service, aviation, communications, and general services, and mechanical.

Under the first classification, which includes boatswain's mates, gunner's mates and five other groups, qualifications require complete arithmetic, algebra, plane and solid geometry, trigonometry and physics.

All 26 groups under the four classifications require virtually all of these courses. The aviation group, however, requires chemistry in some of its branches, for aviation ordnancemen who must know chemistry in relation to ignition and explosives.

MacArthur GUARDS

BY BOB BECKER

"Knowledge gained by preinduction training operates to the advantage of the individual undergoing such training, and, other things being equal, the young man who is physically hardened prior to induction will be better able to withstand the rigors of military life."

The above statement is from a release issued recently by the war department. Not only does this release urge young men of the MacArthur Guard age [15 to 19] to learn as much as possible about military life before induction, but it stresses the value of physical hardening exercise.

Greeks Cited as Example.

When we consider that athletic competitions originally were devised to condition men for fighting wars, we realize the importance of this branch of army life. The early Greeks, for example, originally intended such competitive events as wrestling, boxing, and foot racing to condition their soldiers, altho later these activities became sports for the pleasure of competitors and spectators.

All branches of military service now are placing great stress on conditioning men physically, because the ability to march for many hours, drive huge tanks, and perform other army duties requires a high degree of physical hardness.

Routines for Guards.

Here are some of the helpful exercise routines which MacArthur Guards can follow at home or with a few companions:

1. Do plenty of walking at a brisk pace to harden the muscles. At the start don't walk too far. On the first and second hikes a mile of walking may be sufficient. Then cover the same distance and jog one-fourth of the way. Gradually increase the total distance and the amount of jogging until you can trot two miles without stopping. Lieut. Comm. Gene Tunney recommends a two mile jog on alternate days to help keep a man in top physical condition.

Wall Scaling Helpful.

2. In many high schools and colleges which have changed their physical training and sports courses to give boys more vigorous exercise as an aid in getting them fit for military service, wall scaling, rope climbing, and jumping from a height of 8 or 10 feet are stressed. A strong, well conditioned soldier has to be able to get over obstacles, so wall scaling and climbing are excellent preinduction training features. Such training not only brings all muscles into play but also teaches agility.

3. Setting-up exercises, such as every boy learns in high school calisthenic classes, are excellent for individuals and small groups because they require no special equipment and can be performed in any location.

Chanute Field Chaplain Dedicates Service Flag

Chaplain Martin Scharlemann of Chanute field, Ill., made an address dedicating a 41 star service flag at Christ Lutheran church, Richmond street and McLean avenue, yesterday. The flag was the gift of Henry Mueller Jr., in honor of members of the church now in the armed forces.

DEALERS PUZZLE: WHAT TO DO WITH 20,000 NEW CARS

Only the thinnest ray of hope that 20,000 new cars now standing idle in Cook county showrooms and car lots will be put to practical use was seen yesterday by automobile dealers, despite the Washington report that the auto ban is to be eased.

Sam Shapiro.

Rationing officials were reported to be drafting an amendment to the nation-wide ban that would relax the regulations to liberalize the terms for those already eligible to purchase cars.

The proposed relaxation of the rules will be somewhat helpful but is not a solution. Sam Shapiro, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, said. The organization represents 400 Cook county car dealers.

But less hopeful, however, was M. J. Lanahan, 5490 South Shore drive, owner of a large Chicago automobile agency. "The liberalization proposal, as I see it, won't help one bit," he asserted. "The situation is disgraceful."

The Rev. Raymond R. Reinke, pastor of Salem Lutheran church, Blue Island, and the Rev. Milton A. Reinke, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church, Downers Grove, yesterday participated in dedication services for the recently completed Immanuel Lutheran church.

COMPLETE SUGAR RATIONING PLANS IN CHICAGO AREA

Boards, Teachers to List 5 Million Users.

HERE'S GOOD NEWS

If the barrel of sugar up in your attic has been giving you gray hairs in this age of rationing, here's good news: Illinois Rationing Administrator Henry Pope Jr. says he has been buying his sugar by the barrel "for years." Pope said families having large amounts of the commodity on hand will not be branded hoarders, nor penalized for owning amounts exceeding the permissable quotas, when they register for sugar rationing books May 4 to May 7, inclusive.

Final instructions were mailed yesterday to rationing board members, defense chiefs, and city and county school principals for the registration of more than 5,000,000 commercial and individual sugar users in the Chicago area, April 28-29 and May 4-7.

Commercial sugar users, who will register for ration books April 28-29, may obtain application blanks beginning today at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. Manufacturers and other wholesale users of sugar will be given personal assistance in filling in their applications by a rationing expert from the office of Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago area rationing chief.

Aid for Commercial Users.

The rationing expert will be on hand daily at the Public Service office until April 28 to aid commercial users in the registration procedure. The commercial users are to register at their local high schools on the April dates.

"This registration is a must," Henry Pope Jr., state rationing administrator, said yesterday. "The public must be made to realize that, if they don't register, they won't get sugar."

May Register Out of Town.

Persons who are away from their home areas on the registration days may register at the nearest school in the city in which they are visiting. These out of town registrations will be forwarded to home districts.

The initial sugar ration for individual users, to be issued thru stamp books, will be a half pound per person each week. Commercial quotas have not been announced yet.

The commercial forms must be signed in the presence of official registrars. They must be filled in only by the owner, partner, officer, or manager of the registering business establishment.

HOW YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN
AT HOUSEHOLD FINANCE
IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $9.77 A MONTH
No endorsers or guarantors required
Monthly payments to fit your pocketbook

WOULD a cash loan help you this month? If you have a job, you can borrow without fuss or bother—at reasonable cost and repay your loan in monthly instalments.

Do just this

All you do to apply for a Household Finance loan is to tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay.

Loans are made in three different ways. 1. On your personal note. No security is required. Note loans are made, under proper conditions, to both single persons and married couples. 2. On your car. This plan may suit you best. 3. On your furniture. Many people prefer this plan. When making car and furniture loans, we consider character and income far more important than the value of your security. We will make your loan the way which best suits your own situation.

You may choose the most convenient payment plan from the table below. Suppose you borrow $100. Twelve instalments of $9.77 each will repay the loan in full. You may prefer to repay sooner. Six monthly instalments of $18.18 each will also repay a $100 loan. The cost of your loan, in this case, is just $9.08. A $25 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $4.54 each, costs only $2.24.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household—just the ability to repay in monthly instalments. This spares you the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives.

Get your loan for less

Payments in the table include charges at the rate of 2½% per month on a loan balance of $100 or less and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. The Small Loan Law permits us to charge substantially more than this. We publish our rates and payments to help you shop for your loan. It is to your advantage to compare rates before you borrow.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone for information. We are in business to make loans to folks with money problems.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law.

SYNOPSIS.

Because Dave Wallace asked Ed Seegrist, Chevron ranch hand, about the death of Tip Macy, Ed directed Dave to waterless tanks in the desert where he almost perished. Dave, determined to find out how Tip died, goes to Vermillion to talk to Martha, Tip's widow. But he runs into Ed, beats him up, and is ordered to leave town by Sheriff Sam Kinsley. Dave goes to Hilliard, runs into Ed again, and again beats him up. Learning that Martha is at Chevron, Dave goes there and gets into a gun scrape with Arnie Chance, foreman, and Ed. The arrival of Beth Hilliard and Jess Gove, owners of Chevron, save Dave's life. Tho Arnie and Ed have claimed Tip died in a blizzard, Jess admits Tip was murdered, explaining that the blizzard story was told to save Martha humiliation, but that Tip was in with rustlers and was killed by cattle thieves at the Boundary Line camp. Dave distrusts Jess and expresses his suspicion to Beth. Beth is loyal to Jess, but tells Dave that she has to sell Jess her share in Chevron to save herself from poverty as Jess told her the hard winter killed most of their cattle. Dave tells old Ives, squawman trapper, this news. Ives, who shares Dave's distrust of Jess, borrows money from Con Buckley, saloon keeper, and gives it to Dave to outbid Jess for Beth's property. Dave's suspicions of Jess are increased when he talks to Martha and learns that Tip had started out for Seco camp instead of the Boundary Line the day he was killed. To get rid of Dave, Jess and Arnie frame him, and when Dave arrives to bid for Beth's property, he is arrested for the attempted murder of Ed. Tho Tom Hyam witnessed the frameup, he testifies falsely, then blackmails Jess. Arnie and Jess again frame Dave by slipping him a note and gun in jail with a message that Ed has died. Dave escapes and after his escape, Arnie kills Ed, laying the blame on Dave. Dave, still determined to buy Beth's property for Ives, goes to Beth's hotel room where she agrees to sell to him if he is the highest bidder. But Kinsley walks in on them and Dave makes a getaway. With Ives and Pete Framm, Dave goes to Seco, but discovers Arnie and his men there. Dave lures them away while Ives investigates the place and finds signs of cattle having been driven across the desert during certain seasons when there was water in supposedly dry areas. Meanwhile Hyam offers Beth more for her property than Dave has bid.

INSTALMENT XLIII.

TRACKED.

Pete had been holding his half rolled cigaret in his fingers. Now he looked down and carefully, studiously, finished fashioning his smoke before he glanced up at Beth.

"Maybe Wallace will raise his ante," Pete said mildly.

"I've thought of that. You can tell him that I won't sign with Hyam until I've got word from him. Can he get it to me?"

"I wouldn't know," Pete said carefully. Beth thought she saw a quiet relief in his eyes, now.

"Will you tell him?"

"Yes'm," Pete promised.

Beth thanked him and walked on.

Pete waited until she had turned into Rollins' store, then he dropped his cigaret and headed for the tie rail and his horse.

When Dave broke thru the cordon of possemen down to the low country, Arnie Chance knew Seco camp was again threatened. He heard the news that morning, and he saddled up, told his men curtly that he was going to see Gove, and rode straight for Seco camp. Arriving in the night, he circled the camp warily, made sure there was nobody there, and then slept in the shack until dawn.

At the first light by which he could see, Chance went down to have a look at the brush fence.

It looked undisturbed, but Chance was a suspicious man. He patroled it on both sides, and saw nothing to disturb him. But it didn't satisfy him, and he pulled a hole in the fence and walked his horse thru and mounted and went down the trail toward the desert.

On the talus slope below, he saw the tracks of Ives' horses, and his suspicions were confirmed. He studied the tracks bleakly, and then raised his bleached eyes to the desert. Afterwards, he followed the tracks patiently, wondering at the aimless course, until he came to where Ives had dismounted to look at the skeleton of the steer.

And there, in the sandy soil, Chance saw the moccasin track. Instantly, his memory shuttled back to the moccasin track over the boot tracks that he had seen under the big jackpine at Chevron. The full significance came immediately. Wallace had help.

Minutes later, he saw where Ives had lined out with the two horses, heading into the desert following the cattle sign, and he knew they were discovered. Patiently, he searched for tracks returning, and when he did not find any he judged that whoever it was still remained on the desert.

Arnie Chance regarded those tawny, shimmering wastes with narrow attention now. It was senseless to follow him, for the slightest wind could cover the tracks and he would miss him. On the other hand, the man with the moccasins was almost sure to be short of water. Returning—if he did return—he would hit for the closest trail to the Rim, which meant this trail. Chance would have liked to greet him with a dozen guns, but he couldn't afford to leave Seco camp to summon them.

No, he would camp here, and when the man in moccasins returned, he would have a welcome for him. Chance knew shrewdly that he and Gove were utterly safe as long as the cattle sign out in the desert was kept secret.

He spent most of that day picking a vantage spot halfway up the trail from the desert to the Rim. After much search he found what he wanted—a deep pothole in the rock which overlooked the trail. Nothing, not even a pack rat, could pass below him without being seen. He brought all his water and his grub and rigged his ground sheet for shade against the heating sun. In daylight, he would sleep, trusting to the sounds of a horse passing below to waken him. At night, he'd keep careful watch.

He didn't know how long it would take for the man in moccasins to return, but time was not an element. And Arnie Chance was as patient as any man who has his life at stake.

Ives was barely in sight of the Rim when the sun set. Tonight, he could easily reach Martha Macy's, pick up a change of horses, and find Dave. There was an urgency upon him that he had never experienced before. This secret seemed to be gnawing inside him, and Ives found that odd. Memory couldn't recall a time when he'd been anxious to tell anybody anything, but Ives felt like shouting this to the empty desert.

It was around midnight when Ives came to the talus slope where the trail led on to the desert and he surveyed it quietly. It was hardly accurate to say he didn't like the feel of it, but that was what it amounted to. For unless Chance and Gove were wholly convinced that Wallace was alone, they would have returned to Seco. And they would have seen his tracks down here, which were too numerous to hide. Ives would have liked to climb the Rim by some other trail, but they were too far distant and his water was too short.

He studied the dark wall, listening, hearing nothing, getting the feel of it, like some wary animal. His mare was restive and thirsty, but Ives checked her and waited. He didn't like this, yet he knew he was going thru with it. But he might as well use sense about it.

He'd been leading the packhorse. Now he pulled him up, untied the rope, and gave him a cut across the rump with the knotted end of it.

The packhorse sensing that he was nearer water than he'd been for days, moved with alacrity, mounting into the wedge of black that was the trail's beginning.

The canyon was steep-walled, and the trail climbed abruptly over the face of the rock. The shoes of the packhorse clattered loudly on the rock and echoed and reëchoed between the walls as the horse scrambled for footing. It was so dark ahead that Ives could hardly see the horse. He himself clung to the deepest shadow, moving with utter noiselessness, alert and listening.

When the rifle went off, some 10 feet over his head, the whole night seemed to erupt in one shattering blast.

Ives' horse shrilled, and went down, kicking viciously, madly, against the side of the canyon wall.

Ives had a choice now, and he didn't hesitate. Swiftly, he ran up the trail, deeper into the gloom, making no sound at all. When he heard the sound of a man running toward him down the trail, he pulled into the deep shadow and flattened himself against the wall.

He could hear the runner panting now, his boots pounding the rock floor. Ives stood utterly motionless. The man passed him on the dead run, passed so close Ives could have reached out and touched him. But Ives didn't move. There would be time to settle his score when so much didn't depend on his getting to Dave.

When the running figure was past, Ives turned and noiselessly climbed the trail. He moved swiftly, expertly, his moccasins whispering on the rock.

Where the walls broke away for the mouth of the arroyo, Ives climbed over the last tongue of rock that flanked the brush fence, and then paused, listening intently.

Soon he heard it—the restless snort of a horse staked out under the closest cedar.

Ives went over to him. The horse was saddled and bridled, for this man wasn't the kind to cut off all retreat. It was Arnie Chance's horse, Ives saw.

Ives mounted him and headed him toward Martha Macy's, not even bothering to hide his tracks, for Chance, he knew, would have four precious hours until daylight, and he would spend them getting to Gove as fast as Ives' jaded mare could take him.

MARRY A SPY? Knowing her lover to be a Nazi spy, June Clayton was terrified. What her lover didn't know was that she was supposed to spy on him for the British! Read this exciting new adventure serial—"The Girl Who Stood Alone," by Roy Vickers—starting next Monday in The Chicago Tribune.

FRAIL, BROODING BOY, 12, ADMITS SLAYING COUPLE

Fired 8 Times, Reloading Gun for Each Shot.

BY EDWIN KENNEDY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shannon, Ill., April 19.—A frail boy of 12 confessed today that he had shot and killed the childless farm couple that had taken him into their home as their son—shot them eight times, calmly reloading a single shot rifle for each blast.

Few murders in fiction can match the weird tale he told. Presumably his benefactors never saw him fire the shots, never knew that the boy they regarded as their son was shooting them as he killed them separately.

They may never have realized what was happening. The man, seemingly bewildered, staggered back to shut off the ignition of his tractor after the first bullet hit him and then walked straight into the fire of the lurking boy. The woman fled screaming from the house after she had been shot the first time, but returned to face more bullets in an effort to telephone for help.

Boy Taken In Two Years Ago.

The victims were Charles Krugjohann, 45 years old, and Mrs. Ada Krugjohann, 43. The boy who shot them is William [Billy] Geiseman, a motherless boy to whom they gave a home two years after his father had fallen ill.

Billy told Sheriff Ray Westfall that he had been brooding since the couple whipped him last September for running away. The boy said he had planned to kill them on several occasions, but that he had always lost his nerve before.

The Krugjohanns, married 20 years, lived in a spotless white house on their well kept 160 acre farm, four miles southeast of Shannon. They sent Billy to school, clothed him, recently bought him a new bicycle, and were planning to adopt him.

Tells Victims' Parents.

Yesterday afternoon he appeared at the farm home of Krugjohann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Krugjohann, eight miles distant. He had come in his benefactors' car, which he never before had driven.

A watery eyed, flaxen haired boy in a bright mackinaw and overalls, Billy said that he had been gathering corn cobs for the kitchen range about noon when he heard a shot. Running to the house, he said, he found Mrs. Krugjohann dead of bullet wounds. Near the barn lay her husband, shot to death.

The elder Krugjohanns summoned help and returned with Billy to the farm. Sheriff Westfall was called. Billy said he had seen no one around the farm, but expressed the opinion that a prowler had shot Mrs. Krugjohann thru the kitchen window. There was a bullet hole in the window.

Trapped by Own Story.

Sheriff Westfall suspected the boy, but permitted him to go to the home of a brother, Walter Geiseman, for the night. There Billy slept peacefully. He had a hearty breakfast today. Then the sheriff returned to resume questioning him. Trapped by discrepancies in his story, Billy suddenly confessed and told this story:

He was in the house, perhaps unknown to Mrs. Krugjohann, when she carried some rugs outside to beat them. He picked up a .22 caliber rifle which Krugjohann had bought two months ago, from its corner in the kitchen. From the cupboard he took a pocketful of shells. With one of these he loaded the gun.

Presently Mrs. Krugjohann returned with an armload of rugs. Billy, standing a few feet from her in the dining room, shot her.

Victim Runs for Phone.

She screamed, dropped the rugs and fled back thru the kitchen door. Billy loaded the gun again and waited. She returned, running toward the telephone. He shot her again. She fell, but pulled the receiver from its hook. Walking over toward her, Billy placed the gun against her head and pulled the trigger again.

Then he put the empty shells in the stove, reloaded, and went to the barn.

Krugjohann was plowing with a tractor. Billy waited in the barn until the farmer returned and stepped down from the tractor. From a distance of 30 feet, the hidden boy fired. Krugjohann staggered, looked about as if puzzled, and went back to shut off the ignition. Then he started into the barn. Billy loaded and shot again. The farmer fell. Billy walked toward him, firing twice more. The victim lay still. Reloading for the last time, Billy stood over him and shot him a fifth time.

The boy then returned to the house where he put the gun in its accustomed place. Finding the telephone receiver still off the hook, he replaced it.

Taking some coins which Mrs. Krugjohann had hidden in a vase, he locked the house, went out, and started the family car, for the first time in his life, and drove to the elder Krugjohanns' home.

Boy Placed in Jail.

Coroner J. B. Schreiter summoned a coroner's jury this afternoon to the undertaking rooms to which the victims had been taken. Farmers who had heard the strange story thronged in, but the coroner asked them to leave, lest the boy be hesitant about telling his story.

The coroner advised the boy that he need not testify unless he wished. Billy shook his head when asked if he would retell his story. The coroner then asked him if he had any objection to Sheriff Westfall's repeating the confession. Billy said no.

The doors were opened and the eager spectators were invited in. The sheriff disclosed the contents of the confession.

The jury found that the couple had been killed "with murderous intent," and recommended that the boy "be held until dealt with by the law for the slaying."

FLORIDA PLANS ANTI-VICE DRIVE, BACKED BY U. S.

Orlando, Fla., April 19 (AP).—An all-out drive backed by the war and navy departments will be launched immediately in Florida to suppress prostitution and to enlarge facilities for venereal disease treatment.

The decision was made at a meeting here today of army and navy officials, war department representatives, federal bureau of investigation aids, state defense council members, state and public health officers, sheriffs, and chiefs of police.

Charles P. Taft, assistant national director of defense health and welfare services, said that soon "Donald Nelson, WPB chief, and other heads of defense agencies, will send out letters requesting coöperation from the nation's big industrialists in the control of venereal disease and in the suppression of prostitution."

NEGROES PRESS CAMPAIGN FOR JOB RECOGNITION

More than a thousand Negroes gathered at the Du Sable High school yesterday to hear discussions on the employment of Negroes in war industries. The meeting, sponsored by the Chicago Urban league, was one of the steps taken in behalf of recognition of Negro workers by industry and labor. Among the representatives of labor present were Fullerton Fulton, CIO regional director for Chicago and Cook county; Frank Alsup of the United Mine Workers of America; Samuel Laderman, manager of the Luggage Workers union, local 50, and Leon Caruthers, secretary of the Cook County Steam Fitters union.

DU PONT HOUSE PAINT "self-cleaning" FOR LASTING WHITENESS

PAINT FOR PROTECTION

Du Pont House Paint gives you the utmost in protection, because it forms a tough, durable film which guards the surface against rot and decay. And it gives you lasting whiteness, too.

That's because Du Pont House Paint is "self-cleaning"! Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface, which is washed away by heavy rains. This powder carries the dirt with it, and exposes a fresh white surface.

This "self-cleaning" process starts after a few months of exposure under normal weather conditions. It may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions in extremely sooty industrial communities. Because this "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the film are not abnormally affected.

Du Pont "self-cleaning" House Paint, in white and Tru-Tint colors, costs you no more than other good paints.

• DON'T WASTE PAINT!

Because it protects America's war equipment, paint is a vital defense material. Use paint carefully. Consult a reliable painter. He knows how to do the job right, how much or how little paint to use. His skill means savings for you—and paint conservation for America.

There's a Du Pont Paint Dealer near you. For his name see your Classified Telephone Directory—or call Du Pont Co., Brunswick 6900

BALDNESS IS APPROACHING

WHEN your hair stops growing and starts going at the crown, temples, or frontal point, baldness is preparing to "take over" your scalp. Thinning hair at these points, or dandruff-laden, itchy scalp should warn you that your scalp needs the immediate attention of a Thomas expert.

Thomas' individualized scalp treatment effectively removes dandruff and soothes the scalp itch which dandruff causes. Thomas doesn't rely on old-fashioned hit-or-miss methods but skilfully uses modern, precise therapeutic devices. During the past twenty years Thomas has helped more than a quarter-million persons to obtain relief from scalp worries.

You, too, would do well to turn your troublesome hair problems over to a Thomas expert. Let him show you exactly how Thomas treatment removes dandruff scales, and how it helps to give your scalp that fresh, health feeling. Consult a Thomas expert today—in private—without charge or obligation. See for yourself exactly what Thomas treatment is and how it works.

HOW WAINO WON HIS BATTLE WITH DEATH AND TAXES

The Saga of a Jaunt Down to the Postoffice.

Tacoma, Wash., April 19 (AP).—The next time you file your federal income tax return, remember Waino Kaskinen.

Kaskinen's struggles to get his return filed were described by him in a letter to Carl Squire, collector of internal revenue for Washington and Alaska.

"I am three days late in filing my enclosed income tax return," the letter said.

And So to the Postoffice.

"I am winter watchman at Snow Gulch camp of Goodnews Bay Mining company. This mining camp is situated 40 miles from Platinum, where is postoffice and only notary in district.

"On March 13 I started out for Platinum on skis but in later afternoon a bad storm came up—one of the worst blizzards of the winter—and I was forced to seek shelter.

"I started again on the 15th, but fresh snow made traveling slow. The night of 15th found me somewhere on Barnum creek or vicinity without shelter. I had to stop for night because I was wet to knees. It was 17 below, with strong wind.

Taxpayer's Best Friend Is Dog.

"With daylight I located myself and went to Eskimo village on Barnum creek and hired dog team to take me to Mumtrack on Goodnews bay.

"I spent night of 17th at Mumtrack and came to Platinum next morning by dog team, where I immediately had my return sworn to and will mail it with this letter.

"Ordinarily, the trip from Snow Gulch to Platinum in the winter is only two day trip, but storm so delayed me it took five days and I nearly lost my life making the trip.

"Thank you."

HOW U. S. KEEPS 'EARS' TUNED TO AXIS' AIR VOICES

The five scattered listening posts set up by the Federal Communications commission as ears for axis voices are currently picking up 1,500,000 words daily. This patrol of the air waves is handled by the FCC's foreign broadcast monitoring service.

Organized about a year ago, the service has almost 350 employés and an appropriation of $836,000. This service provides an overall picture and analyses of axis propaganda efforts daily. The information is condensed and summarized into a booklet containing from 45,000 to 60,000 words issued at noon each day to various government branches, including the army and navy.

Four sets of "ears" are now operating in America, each assigned to cover a particular area of the world. These gather in a million words daily. Another field office has been established in England.

Report Two Nazis Escape from Ontario Prison Camp

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., April 19 (AP).—Two Nazi prisoners were reported to have escaped tonight from the Bowmanville prison camp. Camp authorities, however, said they would not list them definitely as escapees until after a further check. Toronto police broadcast an alarm. Meanwhile, one of two Nazi airmen who escaped last week remained at large.

Chinese Shantung Appears in Yard Goods and Dresses

BY REA SEEGER.

Shantung, silk from China [it's clearly marked on a big round tag if you buy it by the yard] is here again! This stunning, most wearable of silks, for it launders and wears miraculously, deserves the well earned popularity that makes it a classic. It comes in many colors, bright for wardrobe contrast; brown, navy, and black for street and daytime; pastels, white, and interesting new light background shades like tobacco brown, sage green, silver beige, and gray. It's the semiroughish regulation shantung, beloved of generations of women.

Shantung daytime dresses and suits are particularly summertime all-purpose costumes. Suits tailored sleekly are ideal travel outfits to assure that serene, cool look even at the end of a three day expedition. Tailored dresses cut in one piece, sometimes buttoned down the front, look like suits and perform with the same impeccable smoothness as the two piece suits. Supersmart dresses have arrived and are being whirled out into daytime circulation as fast as they can be boxed for delivery. All of them have very short sleeves and narrower skirts with flattering fullness either at the sides or in front.

Bodice tops are equally simple, with turnover collars. But it's the clever accent details that make them top flight fashions. Narrow band straps double for buttons and these straps are held in position with gleaming old-fashioned gold metal buckles. The same strap idea holds the side fullness at each hip, on the skirt. Copper-brown and black are the colors of these new arrivals. Watch the career girls snag these as an office or town uniform for spring and summer!

Several prints and matched plain shantungs are available in the bolt or yardage collections; also dots and a couple of small floral effects in white against such colors as navy, copper, green, gray, and blue. These silk shantungs are modestly priced both by the yard and in the dresses ready to wear out.

Debut Season Will Be in Full Swing by Fall

BY JUDITH CASS.

"If we're to have debut parties, we'd better have them early," is the consensus arrived at by parents of young women of debutante age. For that reason, whatever season there is probably will be in full swing during the summer and early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard Jr. of Wilmington, had been planning a December dancing party for their daughter, Miss Jane Leonard, but under the circumstances have advanced the party to the Saturday after Labor Day. Sept. 12 is the date Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Adams tentatively have chosen for a tea for their daughter, Miss Judy Adams, so that the Leonards probably will have a dinner-dance in town that night, thereby providing at least one gala fall Saturday for the debutante crowd.

Christmas Vacations May Face Curtailment.

Another reason why Christmas parties may be scarce next winter is that many colleges won't be giving vacations at that time. Miss Leonard will be graduated from Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn., in June. Miss Adams is a student at Smith college.

Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew King as yet have no definite plans for a coming-out party for their "Blissie." The young woman, whose seldom used name is Sarah, is a student at Foxcroft. Also on the debut list but without definite plans is Miss Olive Robbins, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins. Miss Robbins, a student at Chatham hall, plans to enter Vassar college after a summer at home with her family.

Before Miss Barbara Dick gives serious thought to her debut date, she will take part in another exciting event, the marriage of her sister, Virginia, and Richard Wilson. The wedding tentatively is set for the first week in June. Miss Barbara, now at Bradford Junior college, probably will make her debut at a tea at home in September or December, but in any case the party will be smaller and simpler than the one originally planned by her parents, the Elmer J. Dicks.

Other Names on List for Debutante Season.

Miss Joan Ralston also is on the list for the coming season. Miss Ralston and her sister, Lucile, spent their spring holidays from school with their mother, Mrs. John G. Ralston of Dixon, Ill., in Palm Springs, Cal. Also with them was Mrs. Ralston's nephew, Douglas Harvey. Mrs. Ralston has a house at the Smoke Tree ranch in the California resort.

Two other young women whose parents are considering debut dates are Miss Jean Potter, daughter of the T. Albert Potters, and Miss Mary Mabbatt, daughter of the Richard Mabbatts. Miss Potter and Miss Mabbatt have returned to their classes at the Spence school in New York after a spring holiday. Miss Joan Hixon, a classmate of Miss Leonard at Farmington, also is on the tentative list. She is the youngest daughter of the Robert Hixons.

Rummage Sale April 30 to Aid Evanston Home.

Members of the Grove House board won't be having much rest until after April 30, the date set for the board's annual rummage sale to benefit the Evanston convalescent home. The sale will be held all day at 901 Chicago avenue, Evanston, and will be preceded by a private sale the day before. Tomorrow there'll be a tea for board members and their friends in the home of Mrs. John Miller, 608 Elm street, Winnetka.

Guests at tomorrow's tea will bring donations for the sale, including flower containers which are to be auctioned off at the party by Mr. Miller and Robert H. Gardner. Among the women who work annually for the sale are Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Francis P. Butler, Mrs. Stuyvesant Butler, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Thomas L. Fentress, Mrs. Clarence C. Prentice, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, Mrs. Arch Shaw, Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson, Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, and Mrs. James L. Houghteling, a former president of the board, who now is in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Donald have named their 9 day old twins Alison and April. The twins and their mother, the former Margot Reid, will go home from the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest within a week.

Dr. Blatchford Leaves for West Coast Duty.

Dr. Frank W. Blatchford Jr., who has been commissioned a lieutenant in the medical corps of the United States naval reserve left early this month for active duty on the west coast. His wife and their young son will be in Highland Park for the duration.

Women in War Work .... By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Music mingles with the din of war in at least one major project that Mrs. Royden J. Keith, state president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, has to announce this week.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith.

The first district of the federation has indorsed a plan to raise money for an ambulance as a tribute to our fighting musicians. Mrs. James Allen Young is executive chairman of the 1st district and will receive contributions. The ambulance is to be obtained thru the British and American Ambulance corps, which has its midwest headquarters in Chicago.

The plan will be presented for consideration of the federation at the state convention in Springfield April 26 thru 28.

The annual white breakfast, which is a spring event of the federation, will be dedicated this year to war service, and proceeds will go to the ambulance project. It will be held at the La Salle hotel, May 20.

Instead of the usual competition of white tables for the prize, the decorations will have red, white, and blue for their keynote. The national president of the Federated Music Clubs, Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, will be guest of honor and the national president of the British and American Ambulance corps, William V. C. Ruxton of New York, will also be present. Other guests are coming from Iowa, Wisconsin, and New York.

Right down Michigan avenue they parade constantly, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen, and every one who sees them immediately wants one. Any one can have one by going into the Navy Mothers' headquarters and buying one, for it is in the club's display window at 335 North Michigan avenue that the little plaster figurines are on parade. The ways and means committee is sponsoring the sale to raise money.

Nine of the club members have completed the Travelers' Aid course for duty in railroad stations and nine more are starting the course this week. Thirty-five members will start a Red Cross first aid course this week, on either Thursday or Friday night, with Dr. Joseph Reich as instructor. Another project in which the Navy Mothers are interested is the model aircraft work in the public schools. Fifteen or 20 women, under the chairmanship of a vice president of the club, Mrs. Charles Ashley Deneen, will assist in packing the fragile miniature planes when they are ready for shipment. Mrs. Helen Joyce is club president.

Thousands of women have volunteered their services in connection with preparations for the great mass registration for sugar rationing. Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and State Representative Bernice T. Van der Vries, co-chairmen of the Women's Division, Illinois State Council of Defense, today report this response to Gov. Dwight H. Green, chairman of the council.

Twenty-six vice chairmen, representing 700,000 Illinois clubwomen, were asked to obtain the coöperation of their members in the gigantic task of registering all state residents from May 4 to 7.

Mrs. Walter Trego of Hoopeston, who represents the Girl Scouts on the women's division, reported that 10,000 Girl Scout adult volunteers have been asked to make their services available to rationing boards in their communities.

Mrs. A. R. Rohlfing of Farmington, president of the Illinois Home Bureau federation, said that in each of the federation's organized counties, members are working with local rationing boards. A similar report was received from Mrs. Katherine Maddux of Chicago, representing Zonta International.

For several weeks the American Legion auxiliary has been assisting in preparing registration material for delivery to school houses, it was reported by Mrs. Lowell W. Allen of Belleville, president of the auxiliary in Illinois.

The women's groups assist by holding meetings to explain sugar rationing, and by canvassing their communities to impress on all residents of the state that they must be registered May 4 to 7 if they are to be eligible for sugar or other commodities that may be rationed later.

Kathleen McKitrick and George Haight Married in New York

New York, April 19 [Special].—Miss Kathleen McKitrick, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. McKitrick of Evanston, and George I. Haight, also of Evanston, were married here today. The bride's father officiated at the ceremony. Mr. Haight, who is an attorney, has a son, Daniel, who is a student at the University of Wisconsin, and a daughter, Valerie, now Mrs. Edward A. Haight. Their mother was the late Edith Adcock Haight. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haight went east for the wedding.

San Carloans Close Season with Flourish

BY CECIL SMITH.

The twin operas, Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," brought the eight day engagement of the San Carlo Opera company to a high powered finish in the Civic Opera house last night. Fortune Gallo, the impresario of the company, and Harry Zelzer, the local manager, were in beaming mood, for another capacity audience provided a final tally of six absolute sellouts out of nine performances.

Despite the constant irritation of an obtrusive public address system, which often created horrid mechanical interference, the closing bill reached and maintained the top San Carlo standard, which is a very satisfactory standard indeed. Bianca Saroya returned after an absence of two years to sing a thrillingly beautiful Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticanna." It was sheer joy to hear her radiantly pure voice again. Sydney Rayner, Stefan Kozakevich, Charlotte Bruno and Louise Warren collaborated effectively. Carlo Peroni conducted with the zeal and fire which never seem to desert him in his nightly responsibilities with the company.

The Silvio in "Pagliacci" was J. Charles Gilbert [billed under his own real name of Nicholas Zaichenko], managing director of the Civic Opera house. In this, his grand opera debut in Chicago, he seemed short on breath support, and his makeup bordered on gay nineties caricature, but he was musically at ease with the rôle. The performance as a whole had great wallop, with Aroldo Lindi, Mostyn Thomas, Leola Turner, Francesco Curci and the chorus all singing at the top of their excellent abilities.

Another double bill—of comic instead of tragic operas—provided entertainment for Saturday afternoon's San Carlo patrons. Wolf-Ferrari's "The Secret of Suzanne," a nearly forgotten little one act opera which received its last previous major performance hereabouts at Ravinia in 1931, served as curtain raiser to Flotow's perennially popular "Martha."

"The Secret of Suzanne" is written in imitation of 18th century Italian opera buffa. Employing only two singing characters and a mute servant who engages in extensive pantomime. It tells a slender and stylized tale of domestic confusion. A husband repeatedly smells tobacco smoke in his living room, and accuses his wife of a clandestine love affair, never suspecting until the final scene that his wife herself is guilty of the dire habit of smoking in private.

Stefan Kozakevich carried off the masculine rôle with gusto, at one point flying into a most satisfying rage and breaking china and furniture with abandoned lack of self-control. He sang the tuneful music in musicianly manner, as also did Leola Turner, whose voice seemed to take on new warmth and color in the curving melodic lines. Richard Wentworth added to the general amusement with cleverly devised pantomime.

The "Martha" performance which followed was more vivacious than any the San Carlo company has given in several seasons. Lucille Meusel was in charming form as Lady Harriet. Eugene Conley, new to the rôle of Lionel, sang with gratifying sureness, tho his style is still cramped and stiff. The lively Mr. Kozakevich, Charlotte Bruno, and Mr. Wentworth completed the list of principals.

The Saturday evening performance of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" was marked by Anne Roselle's first appearance as Leonora in several years. Her singing carried the impact of traditional authenticity, and was often stirring. Unfortunately, however, her voice has become a little edgy at times, and she has let her priceless high pianissimo slip out of her command.

Coe Glade's Azucena was strikingly well sung, with the free, open tone she ought to use more of the time. Richard Wentworth, a new Ferrando, did well by the stilted bass music, despite one or two awkward musical slips. Arnoldo Lindi and Mostyn Thomas pitched in and sang with a will, and the whole performance was a great deal of fun.

Thoughtful Gesture.

When the executive committee of the Chicago Flower show, to be held the week-end of May 10 near Glen Ellyn, gives its annual luncheon for Chicago newspaper women on Thursday, the guests will have something extra special in the way of corsages. Mrs. Raymond Knotts, new president of the Garden Club of Illinois, has had her scouts ask each guest what color costume she'll be wearing, so that the flowers will match each guest's outfit.

Painless Extraction.

Leonarde Keeler has hit on a practically painless way to get his friends to buy more war savings stamps. He keeps a supply on hand in his Dearborn parkway apartment, and for every drink served the imbiber must fork over 25 cents for a stamp. Here's looking at you, Mr. K.

New Word.

He Also Serves.

John L. Finucane, the bright eyed Irish lad known to members of the Arts club as Leslie, one of their favorite waiters, is about to receive his commission as an ensign from the reserve midshipmen's school at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis. He wrote, in a recent letter to a member who has "adopted" him for the duration:

"Just to let you know that I'm still navigating, after being badly damaged in a big battle with final examinations. But now I believe I'm steering a true course to a commission. . . . May I have permission to call on you when I return to Chicago around the middle of May?"

You have it, Leslie, and we're proud of you.

From Down Under.

Another boy-in-navy item: The only message received by an Evanston man from his son, who recently sailed for the South Pacific, was a postcard from Australia, with just this brief message: "Dear Dad: I'm comfortably billeted and would like you to send me just one thing—a bartender's guide. They make the awfulest beverages around here."

Street Scene.

A couple of seedy looking men came along Rush street the other day as a gang of building wreckers, with ropes and pulleys, were about to haul down the cornice of an old building.

"Ain't that terrible destructive, Joe?" asked one of the s. l. m., "and not a policeman in sight to stop 'em."

Lady Luck.

One of the exhibitors at the Model Locomotive show at the Sherman, a Barrington man whose hobby is collecting model trains, had an exciting yarn to tell his co-exhibitors. Having acquired several trunksful of defaulted railroad bonds to paper the room housing his collection, he came upon a $100 bond bearing the name of a road he couldn't remember. Upon investigation, he found that it had been a small line, later taken over by a large system, and that the bond had increased in value to several thousand dollars.

Victory Garden.

Mrs. Carveth Wells, in town over the week-end to lecture, was bemoaning the fact that she couldn't be in her Bermuda home this summer to tend her acre of vegetables and flowers. She's going right ahead, tho, with a Victory garden in her small Beekman place apartment. It will consist of two barrels with holes punched here and there, one barrel for strawberries, the other for cucumbers.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., April 19.—Sunday—The Warner Studio club party in Los Angeles doesn't break up until 2 a. m., which is late for these parts, and outside are several soldiers and sailors looking for celebs. Two boys, from Chicago and Philadelphia, ask for a ride to Hollywood. They're in town for 24 hours and want to make the most of it. We tell them that Hollywood will be a graveyard at this time of night, but it makes no difference: They gotta see it and they have the whole night before them. We take them around the only three studios actually in Hollywood, show them the NBC and CBS. buildings, and drop them at the famous crossroads, Hollywood and Vine. By now it's nearly 3 and the crossroads looks as dead as Hog Corners, but that's what the boys want. The night is young and so are they—very young and cold sober. Tomorrow they may be on their way to a destination unknown, and this is Hollywood.

Monday—I finish reading galley proofs of John Cecil Holm's book, "Sunday Best," which is about his Philadelphia boyhood and his family. It's a grand and gently funny tale which already has interested movie buyers. . . . A day of sundry inquiries, and lunch with Mark Sandrich, who directed Irving Berlin's new film, "Holiday Inn." More about Mark another time. . . . I hear that Jim Cagney's first independent production for United Artists may be the story of John Paul Jones.

Tuesday—To Universal, where Abbott and Costello are cavorting among half a hundred scantily clad dainty dishes in "Pardon My Sarong." They show no interest in the girls, however, and do not stand around kidding between setups. They scram for their trailer, which is parked outside, and resume a marathon poker game with John Grant and other characters. Chips are ten bucks and it's been going on for weeks.

Wednesday—To Metro, and John Arnold takes me thru his astonishing camera department. . . . On the "Tulip Time" set producer Joe Pasternak says he's going all-out for escapist movies because he thinks that's what the customers are going to keep on wanting. Van Heflin says he's having a wonderful time being a leading man for the first time, because he's leading man for no fewer than seven pretty girls, including Kathryn Grayson.

Thursday—To Hal Roach's studio for a talk with Hal. I figure on bothering him not more than 15 minutes, and I stay an hour and a half. He's that kind of a talker—a pioneer who is interesting. . . . William Holden, who has just finished "Meet the Stewarts" at Columbia, has his 24th birthday tomorrow and becomes a private in the signal corps on Saturday. There goes another leading man.

Friday—No work. No luck, either, for I lose six bits playing croquet with RKO's P. Lieber and Mr. Heart's Feg Murray. . . . George Zuccos for dinner, and George tells me he's going into 20th's "The Black Swan." His acting career began in Regina, Sask., in 1908, and he has fine tales of barnstorming and being stranded all over Alaska, Canada, the United States, England and other points. His low point was in Seattle when he had only a dime. He didn't know sirup was free with the wheatcakes and was afraid to ask. He could eat only half of the wheats because they stuck in his throat.

Saturday—To Warners', where Annie Sheridan and Jack Benny are making "George Washington Slept Here." The script is a switch from the Broadway play, for it's Ann and not Jack who wants to buy the farmhouse.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"The Vanishing Virginian," based on Rebecca Yancey Williams' biography of Cap'n Bob Yancey, the author's father, for many years state's attorney in the city of Lynchburg, is exceedingly "Life With Father"-ish.

The chief character is a doughty cock of the domestic walk, adored and humored by his deceptively meek wife whose strength lies in her apparent weakness, and five Yancey flowerlets, male and female.

Scenes are laid in Lynchburg, Va., during the period between 1913 and 1939, during which time Mr. Yancey [which is what, à la "Life with Father," Mrs. Yancey always calls her husband] continually runs for and catches up with the office of state's attorney. . . .

In this regard only does Mr. Yancey take the bit in his teeth and refuse to be guided by his "Rosebud's" pull on the reins [cock of the walk—pull on the reins—horse getting metaphors mixed!]. For Mrs. Yancey wants Mr. Yancey to retire. Her reason? Because, sometime he's sure to be defeated—and that would hurt him so. . . . Typical woman, Rosa Yancey!

And so the story goes—a chronicle of happy family life that rings in romance and politics and servant problems of the old massa-Negro-chillun variety.

Mr. Morgan is ideally cast as Mr. Yancey and I loved Spring Byington as his Rosa. . . . Other players are satisfactory and the picture really has a lot of atmosphere. It has a number of charming and effective scenes. . . . But somehow, as a whole, the piece just didn't click with me. . . . Too much of everything, too long, I guess.

See you tomorrow.

GASOLINE ALLEY—COMPLICATIONS SETTING IN

Pianist Mars Good Recital by Overeagerness

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Probably 60 per cent of a review of Edith Montlack's piano recital at the Civic theater yesterday should be devoted to her virtues and 40 per cent to her faults. But faults are much more interesting—to critics, at least—so let's get the virtues finished within a paragraph.

Miss Montlack constructed her program intelligently, excluding virtually all hackneyed pieces. She played it with a fine sincerity and with a good command of its technical and sometimes of its musical difficulties.

But, in a praiseworthy attempt to make her recital interesting and vivid and thus give her audience as pleasant a time as possible, she was often betrayed into a nervous, intense manner of playing which refused to let the music flow naturally along and take its proper shape, and which gave her tone a tight, constrained quality instead of that priceless impression of easy sonority.

The Chopin E major étude, for instance, was played with too much rubato, too many and too violent accents, and too matter-of-fact a tone. Other pieces of the same general type on the program lost their innocent, songful, relaxed quality for the same or similar reasons.

Miss Montlack's program [on the last two-thirds of which this review is based] included two Bach chorale preludes; the Beethoven sonata, opus 110; a Chopin group, and transcriptions of works by Paganini, Chopin, Schubert, and Johann Strauss.

Louise Meiszner, 17 year old American pianist, gave an Orchestra hall recital yesterday, in the course of which she bravely tackled Beethoven's 32 variations and Chopin's B flat minor sonata. She played with great dexterity and with a tone which, tho pleasant enough, could stand a little more top—that is, a little smoother and richer or more luminous melody line in the right hand.

Accordion Recital

Vincent Geraci made a heroic endeavor to win an improved cultural station for the piano-accordion by playing an entire solo recital on the instrument in the Eighth street theater yesterday afternoon. Altho a group of accordion enthusiasts sat transfixed by the performance, and by Mr. Geraci's virtuosity, the undertaking could not be called a success. The brash and monotonous tone of the instrument robbed transcribed classics by Bach, Scarlatti, and Mozart of linear clarity and variety of color.

Peter Melnikoff, Russian pianist, gave his second Chicago recital in Curtiss hall yesterday. His technique, as his earlier performance revealed, is not adequate to encompass difficult passages in standard literature, and his tone, despite communicative moments, is rather hard and lacking in lyric attractiveness. —C. S.

On the House

This may be the summer when it seems practical and necessary to convert a large, old-fashioned house into a two or four apartment dwelling. . . . More people can live comfortably together in a building which houses four small apartments than in a house with 8 or 10 open rooms. . . . Consult your architect or contractor to obtain an idea of the wisdom and cost of such a transformation, now that more housing facilities are needed. LOUISE BARGELT.

Johnson-Stifler Wedding Rites Held in Suburb

Miss Cloyd Stifler, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Madison Stifler of Wilmette, and John Bockover Johnson Jr. were married at 5 o'clock on Saturday in the Howes Memorial chapel in Evanston. The bride's father performed the ceremony. Mrs. Benjamin M. Philbrick Jr. was her sister's matron of honor, and Edward W. Merkel of Cincinnati, O., was best man. Miss Stifler studied at Goucher college and was graduated from the University of Chicago. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Louisville, Ky., is taking graduate work at the University of Chicago. He received his degree from Williams college.

Miss Marjorie Alice Smyth, daughter of Mrs. Alice Christopher Smyth of Evanston, was married to Dr. Thomas Arthur Noble, son of Mrs. J. A. Noble of Harvey, on Saturday. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock in Howes Memorial chapel, Evanston, with a reception following in the Winnetka home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Fredrick Christopher. Dr. Noble and his bride will be at home in Harvey after a wedding trip south.

Miss Janet Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Lewis of Highland Park, and Lieut. Joseph Harriman Myers were married at 4:30 o'clock on Saturday in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church, Highland Park. As Lieut. Myers has only a few days' leave from his southern post, he and his bride flew to Leesville, La., where they have taken a house. Miss Lewis was graduated from the Principia in St. Louis, Mo., and from Stoneleigh college in Rye Beach, N. H. Lieut. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Myers of Evanston, attended Principia and received his degree in 1941 from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Edward J. Lange of Evanston and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lange of Highland Park, were in Narberth, Pa., on Saturday for the marriage of Miss Roma Elizabeth Hoffman and Edward J. Lange Jr. Harold Lange was his brother's best man and Mrs. Lange was among the bridesmaids. Young Mr. Lange will bring his bride, a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Romaine C. Hoffman of Narberth, back to the north shore to live following a wedding trip thru the Smokies.

The marriage of Mrs. Gladys Buck of Jacksonville, Ill., to former Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt took place on April 15 in the Chicago Athletic association. The ceremony was performed by Judge John Sbarbaro. Miss Jane Buck was her mother's attendant, and Michael F. Ryan was best man. Judge and Mrs. Eberhardt have gone to Palm Springs, Cal., and the west coast on their wedding trip.

Miss Marguerite V. O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien of Kenilworth, and Ensign Thomas V. Lloyd were married at 11 o'clock on Saturday in St. Francis Xavier church in Wilmette. A reception followed in the Lake Shore club. The bride was graduated from Sacred Heart convent and Columbia College of Dramatic Arts. Ensign Lloyd, son of Wells Lloyd of Chicago, was graduated from the University of Notre Dame and the Naval Reserve Midshipman's school at Northwestern university.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Jenkins of Cullom avenue announce the marriage on April 11 of their daughter, Audrey, to Sergt. Darwin Johnson of Ogden, Utah. The bride, a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Starr, was graduated from Frances Shimer academy and attended Oberlin college. Sergt. Johnson, who attended Weber college in Ogden, is with the army air corps.

The Evanston Junior league will open its new training course today for provisional members.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Personal Service.

As a little girl she learned from her grandmother: "When there's trouble never back away from it; walk facing it." Perhaps that explains why, for more than 19 years, she has dealt successfully with the problems, emergencies and predicaments of human beings who swarm to the personal service desk for assistance in every conceivable situation.

A mother wants a complete bridal outfit for her daughter in South America and wants it in a hurry. All white and cotton . . . and a dotted Swiss wedding dress. A woman seeks a rare bird for her garden—a live bird, if you please, of gay coloring. Two lovers want to get married before catching a train and a minister must be found. [The wedding was squeezed into the church a few minutes before a funeral!] A nun writes from Ireland trying to find her brother in America whom she has not seen for many years and of whom she has had no word. [The brother is discovered in St. Louis, after a six weeks' search—an organist in a church.]

The personal service desk was installed 35 years ago when the city wasn't so big and it was not at all unusual for an official of the company to be interrupted by a friend who wished to leave a message for his coachman who was driving up to the side door. To take care of these personal favors the service desk was founded on this admonition: "We don't expect you to know everything. We do expect you to find out. Nothing is impossible."

Nothing is impossible? A skeptic wrote a letter doubting the statement. Prove it, he said. Get him two seats of a certain number in a certain row in the Chicagoland Music Festival. Approximately 110,000 seats and the gentleman wanted these two . . . and no others. The personal service expert called THE TRIBUNE. When the man, still a doubting Thomas, stopped at the desk for the seats he was speechless. They were the identical two he had specified.

The Way They're Spelled.

Better Than a Bugler.

A girl, Clare Clowes, is enthusiastic about her work—she writes copy for a food chain—but her main concern is getting to work on time. So, she has a unique system: she has three alarm clocks, two of which are set 15 minutes ahead and one 25 minutes ahead. She sets the alarms to ring 5 minutes apart., beginning 15 minutes before the time she HOPES to arise. One clock is always set on a cake pan "so it'll make more racket," she explains sweetly. Clare's apartment sounds like a boiler factory when all alarms get going, but Clare is ON TIME.

Dental Care and Carelessness.

Writes Janet B.: "I made a visit to the dentist the other day. He commented on the clean condition of my mouth and went on to say: 'You know the poorest cared for mouths I see are those of doctors, next ministers, and not far behind are university professors. On the other hand, the cleanest mouths I have to deal with are those of stenographers, clerks, and office workers—the great mass of modestly paid girls who know that appearance counts and that good teeth help to make a good impression. As a former white collar girl myself, my morale was boosted by his comments."

No, you pie lover you, there's no danger that you'll have to give up your favorite dinnertime pleasure because of sugar rationing. Perhaps you won't get pie as often, and perhaps you'll get it sweetened with honey now and then, but fewer pies make pie eating even more delightful, and honey sweetening often makes them better than usual.

Apple and pumpkin pies are examples of the improvement in flavor which honey can effect. Honey is sweeter than sugar, so in substituting it, use ¾ cup to replace a cup of sugar. And cut down the liquid in a pumpkin pie by ¼ cup. You might add about 2 tablespoons of flour to a honey apple pie, to compensate for the extra amount of liquid. Or you might make a honey apple pie by this method, which produces a luscious dessert.

Honey Apple Pie.
[9 inch pie.]
Sliced apples to fill pastry lined pan [about six medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced]
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Pile apples into shell and dot with bits of butter. Sprinkle with cinnamon and a little mace or nutmeg, if you like. Add upper crust in which you have cut three slits or small holes, thru which to add honey. Seal edges well. Bake at 450 degrees, hot oven, for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and continue baking until fruit is tender, about 30 minutes longer. Remove from oven and add mixed honey and lemon juice, thru openings in crust. The apples will absorb the honey as they cool.

Orange Chiffon Pie.
8 inch baked pie shell
1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
¾ cup honey
3 eggs, separated
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Mix honey, beaten egg yolks, salt, and orange juice in the top of a double boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened, 10 or 15 minutes. Add softened gelatin and grated orange peel. Cool. Add lemon juice. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into prepared shell and chill until firm.

Applesauce Pie.
[9 inch pie.]
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups strained applesauce
1 cup fine gingersnap crumbs
¼ cup melted butter
¼ cup sugar
Sweetened whipped cream

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add salt and applesauce, and chill until thick. Add melted butter and sugar to gingersnap crumbs, and mix well. Line pie plate with crumb mixture, pressing firmly against bottom and sides. Pour in thickened gelatin and chill until firm. Garnish each serving with a little sweetened whipped cream.

Herma Clark to Give Three Club Programs This Week

Herma Clark, author of "When Chicago Was Young" in THE TRIBUNE, will give her program of "Elegant Eighties" monologs for the Woman's club in Harvard today and tomorrow for the Lake View Woman's club at its annual spring luncheon in the Webster hotel. Miss Clark will appear again on Thursday before the Southern Women's club at its spring party in the Hotel Sherman.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Today's $5 prize is won by a tempting all-in-one-dish salad. The award money goes to Mrs. William K. Reuter, Rock Island, Ill., who serves the salad with potato chips and nutbread sandwiches.

You, too, may have a prize winning recipe in your files. Why not write it up and send it to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE? Any really good and unusual recipe may be a winner. Keep measurements standard and level, and give complete, clear directions.

Molded Luncheon Salad.
[Serves six.]
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
¼ cup shredded celery cabbage
¼ cup shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons grated carrot
¼ cup diced celery
¼ medium sized green pepper, diced
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 medium sweet pickles, diced
½ 8 ounce can spiced luncheon meat

Dissolve gelatin in hot water and stir in cold water. Chill until gelatin begins to set. Add prepared vegetables, pickles, and diced meat to partly thickened gelatin, and chill until firm. Serve on salad greens with mayonnaise.

[Send in your favorite recipe.]

Simple and Pretty Aprons

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

If you're catering to a civilian or military sweet tooth, or keeping house in a bridal kitchenette, you'll need these aprons. One has the heart motif, and is "just the thing" to slip over a frock when you make an impromptu meal. The other is a full skirted, slim waisted "brunch coat," beautiful in gay cotton prints.

Style No. 2809 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Medium size requires one yard of 39 inch material.

Style No. 2598 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires five yards of 39 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The spring pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Discarding is an art unto itself. Too many players would follow the horrible example set by East in the following deal:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

NORTH
♠ K 9 7 6
♥ Q 10 9 5 2
♦ K 5
♣ 8 4

WEST
♠ Q J 8 5
♥ 8 4
♦ 8 7 4

EAST
♠ 3 2
♥ 7 6 3
♦ J 10 9 6 2
♣ J 10 9

SOUTH
♠ A 10 4
♥ A K J
♦ A Q 3
♣ A Q 5 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

At rubber bridge the slam would have been played at hearts. At duplicate, however, the extra ten points possible from a no trump slam influenced South to contract for six no trump.

West chose the safe opening lead of the diamond eight. Dummy's king won, while East signaled encouragement with the nine. South realized that his slam depended on establishing a third spade trick or winning the club finesse. Since there was no need to try either immediately, he proceeded to run the long heart suit, hoping to gain information from the East-West discards. On the third heart West discarded a diamond, intending to give his partner a count of that suit. East's first discard was the deuce of spades. That "harmless" discard was East's undoing. [East should have known that declarer had a maximum of four diamonds. A diamond discard was, therefore, perfectly safe.]

Declarer continued with dummy's remaining heart and discarded his last low club. His next step was to lead a low spade from dummy, and when East followed with the three, South finessed the ten. West exited with his remaining diamond, South winning with the queen. Declarer now laid down the ace of spades and East had to discard. The position of the spade queen now was marked and a finesse of dummy's spade nine gave declarer his twelfth trick.

It is possible that South would have made the slam even if East had avoided a spade discard. But declarer's natural line of play would have been to duck one round of spades and then play for a drop rather than the finesse. When the spade suit failed to break, declarer would have taken a finesse in clubs and thereby lost his contract. Insofar as East's own thirteen cards were concerned, the spade discard was harmless enough. The trouble lay in the fact that his discard "gave away" his partner's holding in the suit.

Cooking Stove Is Urgent Need of This Family

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Mr. X has just found a good job, after months of struggle to support his wife and three young children. However, his first paycheck will not be issued for two more weeks and there are many backs debts to be cleared up.

Meanwhile, the family is urgently in need of a gas stove, or if that is unobtainable, even a gas plate would be of great assistance, since they have no cooking facility of any kind at present. Food for the baby is prepared at the home of a neighbor, and meals for the rest of the family must be cooked at the home of a relative several blocks away.

The family also needs a dresser, a kitchen table and dishes of all kinds. The address is on the north side of the city, but transportation of any items offered can be arranged.

The following letter comes from a district south and west of the loop:

"Dear Miss Brown: Try as we may, we have been unable to obtain any furniture for our small bare room in the local community center. The youngsters who use it would like so much to have it furnished."

"We have heard so much about your help to other people in similar instances, that we thought you might be able to aid us. Any kind of furniture can be used—rugs, chairs, tables pictures, shelves, etc.—and we will gladly arrange transportation on anything you can locate for us.—M. E."

Report on Woman's Aid Work at All Day Session Tomorrow

The activities of 73 working committees will be reported to the Chicago Woman's aid at an all-day meeting tomorrow in the clubrooms at 185 North Wabash avenue.

As chairman of the public affairs committee, Mrs. Theodore Stone will review work accomplished for the Red Cross, civilian defense, war bond and stamp sales, British war relief, community fund, race relations, public health, public school administration, housing, and municipal recreation. Mrs. Sidney Levy, chairman of welfare, will report on sight saving and assistance to the blind services, work in child health and nutrition, dental service, hearing aids, and hospital social service volunteers. The arts and programs report will be presented by Mrs. Laurence W. Pfaelzer.

Members will elect new officers and directors to direct activities when the full schedule is resumed next fall. The retiring president, Mrs. Jesse R. Gerstley, who has served for two years, is the daughter-in-law of the first president. Mrs. Magnus B. Rosenberg, 5514 Cornell avenue, is slated for the office.

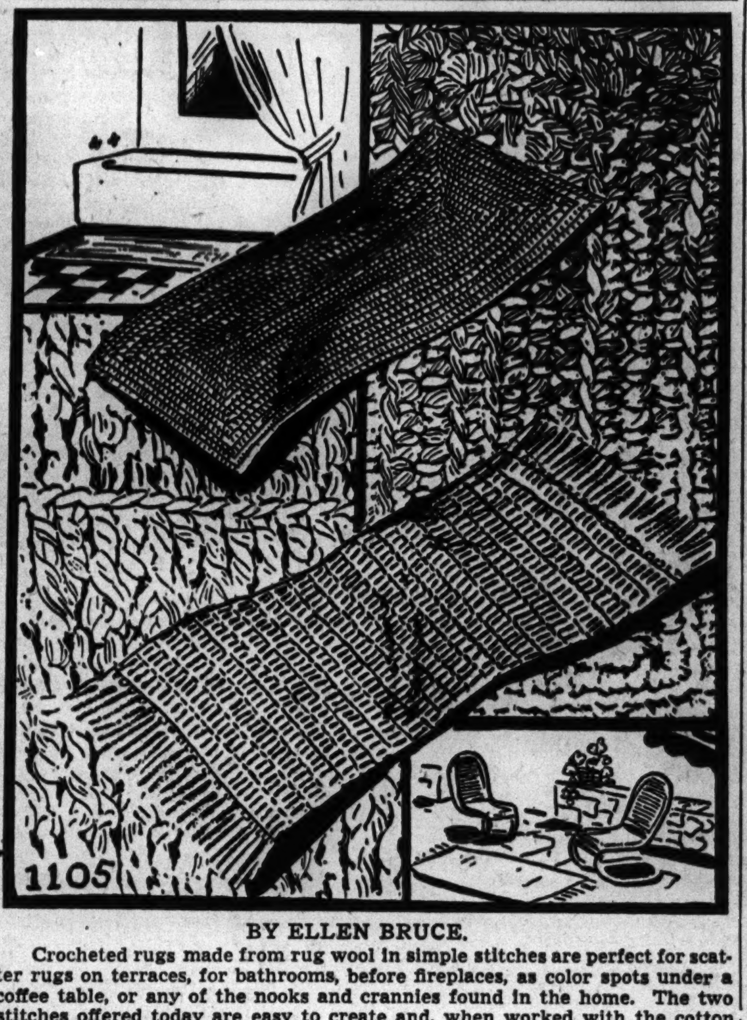
Handsome Crocheted Rugs



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted rugs made from rug wool in simple stitches are perfect for scatter rugs on terraces, for bathrooms, before fireplaces, as color spots under a coffee table, or any of the nooks and crannies found in the home. The two stitches offered today are easy to create and, when worked with the cotton rug yarn, require little time.

For instructions in crocheting the two rugs, No. 1105, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Rainy Days Can Be Sunny for Mothers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

To many mothers a rainy day is a horror to be lived thru. And two rainy days make them tear their hair! The same thing with convalescence. To some mothers this period, when a son or daughter is not strong nor even out of bed, but well enough to want companionship and need waiting on, is nothing but a trial, an interference with her housework and other doings. But all mothers are not like that. It's all in the way you look at it, as the following letter shows:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: A thought occurred to me which might interest you. I welcomed two rainy days recently. Mary and Lou are 5 and 3 years old, and I had an opportunity to be much closer to them than I can when they are out all day long.

"So on those rainy days we had lots of fun. We read stories, and sat around the piano and sang, and I wrote numbers from 1 to 120 on a big piece of paper, and Louise copied them beautifully, and we called up grandma, and we all talked to her, and the children put some of the dining room chairs together, and brought pillows and played Pullman train.

"After a while they made a house by putting the living room furniture together, and brought their doll furniture and put it in it. Before bedtime they took off their shoes and did stunts on the bed. I could go on and on. Mary likes to draw pictures, color them, and cut them out, and Lou tries to do the same. And Mary is intensely interested and inquisitive about spelling, geography, and addition.

"And so we had two busy and happy days; and there were no children calling for mine before they were dressed; and I didn't have to run out and settle half a dozen scraps; and the extremely active boy next door didn't have a chance to frighten Lou; and the little girl on the corner who won't play unless she can be the mother or the teacher and have everything her own way had no chance to do so; and I didn't have to send the neighbor children home at lunch time, nor go out and hunt mine up to know what they were doing.

"I just wanted to pass along this thought of 'happy rainy days' to you."

Travelers' Aid Society Begins Campaign Today

The Travelers' Aid society will begin its annual spring membership registration today, continuing the enrollment thru next Monday.

It was reported at the recent annual meeting that the Travelers' Aid service in Chicago had more than doubled last year, with 70,379 persons helped. Willis H. Scott, president, said figures for last year "are already dwarfed by the numbers of men in service and in the war industries and their families needing assistance as the nation girds for all-out war." A gift of a dollar or more constitutes membership in the society.

War Described as Struggle for Understanding

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Maurice Samuel, Jewish author and world traveler, yesterday gave the present war a name, "the world's war for self-clarification. He spoke before a conference on Judaism in the modern world, called by the Jewish Theological seminary, New York, at the Congress hotel. The conference discussed the functions of rabbi and synagogue and the problem of interpretation of Judaism to the world today.

Samuel called the present world conflict "the most poignant phase in the world process," and said it is the "culmination of a struggle which has been going on for more than 2,000 years.

"It is the old struggle between the principles of love and of hate, of cooperation and struggle," Samuel said. "The issues of human destiny are now put to a test. Judaism has a rôle to play in the world of tomorrow. A phase of that rôle is the definition of this war. It is a war for self-clarification; a war for a definition of its purpose in being."

Samuel said he foresaw the greatest Jewish renaissance in human history as the nations move toward discovery of their reason for existence. He urged rabbis and synagogue leaders to see the war thru the perspective of the ages as part of a world process in which peoples, after long search, find meaning for existence thru coöperation rather than in following predatory or imperialistic motives.

The conference preceded tonight's convocation in Mandel hall at the University of Chicago, when the 1,000th anniversary of the death of Rab Saadia Gaon of Sura will be commemorated jointly by the university and the Jewish Theological seminary. Dr. Louis Finkelstein, president of the seminary, said yesterday that Saadia was the first rabbinical scholar to make a contribution to understanding of the relationship of science and religion.

Sons of Revolution to Hold Lexington Day Dinner Tonight

It was on the 19th day of April, 167 years ago, that a small company of "embattled farmers" took their stand on the village green in Lexington against King George's redcoats. The anniversary of the first battle in the war for independence falling this year on Sunday, the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution has deferred until today the annual Lexington day dinner, which will be held at 6 o'clock in the Hotel La Salle. Dean Lake Traxler will preside, and there will be guests from the American Legion and the military services.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist church will make an address on "America on the Alert." Other speakers will be Edward S. Scheffler, chief justice of the Municipal court, who will discuss "American Patriotism, Then and Now," and James G. Skinner, former assistant attorney general of Illinois and student of Revolutionary biography, who will talk on Thomas Jefferson.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

These spring mornings, when we pop out of bed to look out on a world bursting with fresh green and shining in bright sunshine, make many a woman want to do something for her skin to awaken it and cast off the dull, sluggish look it wears, something to lift it to a freshness worthy of a new hat and colorful dress.

There is a cream on the market created for the express purpose of "waking up" the skin and eliminating the winter worn look. It's a pure white cream, tightly packed in its little jar, but a slight pressure with the fingers releases it easily and without any aggravating digging.

It is to be massaged into the skin, not with any kneading or pressing, but gently. Leave the cream on 15 to 30 minutes, during which time you may bathe or dress while it does its work. Wipe the cream off and you'll find your skin soft and silky, with a pretty, transparent glow about it. The product has gentle whitening qualities which help defeat a gray or sallow look and lighten freckles and tan. It may be used every morning on either dry or oily complexions, and if the skin is particularly delicate and sensitive, a cleansing cream should be used first.

Some women will find that this cream is all they need before applying makeup, since it smooths the skin so cosmetics go on easily. In a pinch it may be used in place of a cleansing cream, a good feature for those who travel and want to take along as little paraphernalia as possible, or for those who sometimes find themselves in a hurry and want more than just to cleanse the face in one operation.

PASSEAU, CUBS LOSE TO REDS IN 14 INNINGS, 2-1

MOON MULLINS—THE WINDOW PAIN

THEY'RE TAUGHT TO WIN FIGHTS AT NAVY PIER

Marines Toughened Under Maj. Hanley.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The aviation mechanics fought as courageously in defense of America's island bases in the Pacific as did the marines. To continue this record, so valiantly begun, is the goal of men now in the marine aviation mechanics school at Navy pier.

Maj. Dick Hanley.

The five months' school primarily teaches these young men to keep the marines' air forces flying, but when the going gets tough Johnny grabs his gun. These marine mechanics already have qualified as marksmen. Now they are being conditioned to make their forces effective in hand to hand fighting. In brief, they are being prepared to carry on the tradition of the corps that sings of the halls of Montezuma and the shores of Tripoli and has fought at Chateau Thierry and Wake Island.

983 Marines in Detachment.

Nine hundred and eighty-three marines now are enlisted in the detachment at Navy pier. When the program is complete 1,500 will be studying aviation mechanics. The first company of 240 will finish the five months' course late in May. Thereafter 360 men will be graduated each month ready to keep the planes of the marine corps flying against the enemy.

Marine aviation schools also have been established at Jacksonville, Fla.; Seattle, Wash.; Corpus Christi, Tex.; Toledo, O.; and Alameda, Cal.

The marines at Navy pier are under the command of Col. Carlton Hill. Their six day a week courses of instruction are taught by civilians. We are not herein concerned with what these men learn or how proficient they become with the tools of their trade. Many are experienced in auto mechanics. We are concerned with their exceptional course of physical training.

Uniform for Marine Schools.

This training will be uniform for all marine schools. It is called, "Combat conditioning course" and that is explanatory. It is taught the men at Navy pier by Maj. Dick Hanley, who has returned to the service in which he fought more than 20 years ago. The program has the hearty indorsement of Col. Hill. Lieut. Jim McMillen of the navy, and Chief Petty Officer Jack Smith, a graduate from the Norfolk navy school founded by Gene Tunney, teach the particulars of the hand to hand combat program which for lack of a more definitive term may be called jujitsu.

"In hand to hand fighting," Col. Hill said the other morning as he watched 12 sections of 360 men in their conditioning exercises, "one man walks away. We want our boys to be the winners."

Each marine is given two hours of physical drill a day but this time is [illegible] from the pier and back to [illegible]. They drill in Lake Shore park, Chicago avenue and Lake Shore drive. The first group reports at 8:15 a. m. Actual time spent on the field may be only 45 minutes. Groups of sections report approximately every two hours thruout the day. Thirty marines comprise a section. Each is in charge of a section leader.

Games Replace Calisthenics.

American youth has been soft. Games largely have replaced calisthenics and the less proficient naturally have not received as much training in these sports. The combat conditioning course forces each individual to meet identical requirements. And these young marines like it. Their incentive is learning to live, for underlying the spontaneity of exercises, the wrestling, and bayonet drills is the grim knowledge that one day the penalty for softness may be death.

"When some of these boys first began the course," Maj. Hanley reported, "they scarcely could run 100 yards with equipment and others were in no condition to start accurate gun fire immediately."

Preparing for Actual Fighting.

We watched hundreds go thru their exercises. They used their guns like so many wands as they pushed their arms overhead, to the side, and to the ground. Try that with your Springfield for 10 minutes. They did push ups, the familiar side straddle and hop, prone bends, standing bends, and paired off for back pulls and arm locks. Each ran 100 yards carrying another gun.

Then they formed ranks and marched smoothly and easily over the mile route to class. All this, we were told, merely is general conditioning. They are preparing for actual fighting and instruction in the use of a bayonet.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

JOHN MILJUS, who threw the so-called wild pitch [Catcher Johnny Gooch insists it was a passed ball] that ended the 1927 world series between the Pirates and Yankees, is director of athletics at the Northrup Aviation plant in Hawthorne, Cal. . . . Miljus, by the way, was gassed in the first World war. . . . Lou Novikoff of the Cubs, who became desperately ill when he took his first chew of scrap last summer, has mastered the stuff now. . . . He's sure he'll become a big league fixture in his second try. . . . The last act of Dave Fleming in resigning as president of the Los Angeles Angels before the Cubs took over, was to order the 1942 uniforms for the club. . . . Dave feared the L. A. boys might be embarrassed by having to wear the knitted suits which make them look like models for a retread underwear house—you know, like the Cubs wear—if he waited for the Chicago management to take over. . . . Los Angeles players say they always will have a glowing feeling for Mr. Fleming as a result of this act of kindness. . . . No one except the late Barney Dreyfuss and his son-in-law, Bill Benswanger, has been president of the Pirates during the 20th century. . . . Dreyfuss was head man for 32 years, beginning in 1900, and Bill has been boss since the opening of the 1932 season. . . . Walter Cole, former captain of the University of Wisconsin football team, is the new city attorney of Platteville, Wis. . . . Every member of the 1939 and 1941 University of Missouri Big Six championship football team who isn't married is now in the armed service with one exception. . . . The exception is Jack Crocker of Quincy, Ill., who was rejected because of defective sight. . . . The latest recruit was Ken Haas, captain of the 1939 team, who had not been called previously because of his weight. . . . Recently he reported, all 250 pounds of him, to Fort Sill, Okla. . . .

Our Heroes of Bataan.

Say not that these have fought in vain
Upon that distant shore—
A few square miles of earth are lost,
But they have won much more:
A name for valor that shall shine
Wherever are retold
The deeds of men who feel the flame
That makes the spirit bold.

And now must we with sterner might Unite our strength as one
'Til victory shall crown the fight
They have so well begun;
For they have stirred in all our hearts
The will to battle on
And prove that we are worthy of
The heroes of Bataan.

DERBY FANS WILL KEEP EYES ON 2 RACES THIS WEEK

Blue Grass and Wood to Test Candidates.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lexington, Ky., April 19.—The Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland, the Wood Memorial at Jamaica and the shipment of horses to Louisville will occupy the attention of racing fans this week as they seek further data on the prospects for the Kentucky Derby, which will be run on May 2 at Churchill Downs.

The Blue Grass stakes, which is scheduled for Thursday, is expected to bring out the stronger candidates training in the Lexington area. These include Shut Out, Devil Diver, Bless Me, and Sun Again.

Colchis Will Test Apache.

Altho the Derby candidates which will oppose the Belair colt are lacking prestige, Apache will get a severe test from Colchis, a noneligible for Kentucky's big race. Colchis is fresh from another conquest of Alsab in the Chesapeake stakes yesterday at Havre de Grace. R. Sterling Clark, Colchis' owner, said today at Havre de Grace that his horse would seek further honors in the Wood.

Kentuckians are eager for a chance to size up Alsab's appearance. They'll get that opportunity Tuesday when the 1941 juvenile champion is scheduled to arrive at Churchill Downs. Reports from Florida and Maryland have it that the colt is 200 pounds lighter than he should be—but the Kentucky horsemen are eager to see for themselves and are taking nobody's word that the little bay horse won't be fit to run a great race in the Derby.

Requested, which finished third to Colchis and Alsab in the Chesapeake, will come out in the same car with Al Sabath's colt, according to present plans.

Run at Longer Distances.

The Derby candidates will continue to stretch out the distances of their tests in this week's stakes. The Blue Grass will be at a mile and a quarter and the Wood Memorial at a mile and a sixteenth.

Upon the showing of Sun Again and Bless Me in the Blue Grass will depend the decisions of their trainers whether to keep on pointing them for the Derby or give up and decide that the colts can't possibly be prepared for their best efforts by a week from Saturday. Both Ben Jones, who handles Sun Again for Warren Wright, and Jimmy Smith, who has charge of Edward R. Bradley's Bless Me, have expressed grave doubts about the fitness of their horses to go into the long, rough mile and a quarter Derby without a more leisurely period of training than remains. Both colts were set back by mishaps that were minor in themselves but which threw the working schedules seriously out of line.

Last Tuneup in Derby Trial.

After the Blue Grass and Wood Memorial the Derby Trial will be the last chance for a major tuneup. This will be run on Tuesday of next week at Churchill Downs. The Keeneland meeting will close on Thursday, after which the racing colony will move over to Louisville for the opening of the Derby meeting on Saturday.

RACING LEADERS MEET TODAY TO DISCUSS WAR AID

Representatives of Chicago tracks will meet this morning in the offices of the Illinois racing board at 11 o'clock to discuss the extent of local turf aid to the war effort. The decision made by Sportsman's Park last Friday to give its entire gross receipts for May 6—estimated at $40,000—to the navy relief, army relief, and Chicago Service Men's center likely will be approved. Hawthorne, Washington Park, Arlington Park and Lincoln Fields are expected to reveal their plans.

MILKMAN WINS BAA MARATHON IN RECORD TIME

Boston, Mass., April 19 (AP).—After being urged to compete by his wife, ailing Joe Smith, 27 year old Medford milkman who feared he was too weak to attempt such a punishing task, today surprised even himself by winning the Boston AA's marathon in the course record smashing time of 2:26:51 1-5.

Smith, weakened by a bout with influenza in January, clipped 1 minute and 37 2-5 seconds off the mark set by Gerard Cote of Montreal in 1940, while beating the closest of his 113 rivals, Lou Gregory, Syracuse schoolmaster, to the tape by more than a quarter mile. Gregory was timed in 2:28:03 3-5, just 15 seconds faster than Cote's record.

Next Three Two Miles Back.

The next three to finish, Carl Maroney of Medford, Don Heincke of Baltimore, who placed third twice and second in the last BAA races over the 26 mile 385 yard course, and Johnny Kelley of Arlington, the 1935 victor and runner-up to the absent Les Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., last year, were about two miles behind when Smith broke the tape after putting on a terrific closing spurt.

Cote finished sixth in 2:39:59, and the prerace favorite, Fred McGlone of Boston, was disqualified when he came in seventh. He collapsed about 50 yards from the finish line and, despite his protests, was pulled to his feet by a pair of kindly but misguided policemen who did not realize they were rendering him illegal assistance.

Bill Steiner Is Moved Up.

As a result, Bill Steiner of New York was moved up one position when he finished eighth, as were all of the others strong enough to travel the full distance. Michael O'Hara of New York and Lloyd Bairstow of Boston were the others in the actual first 10 finishers.

An American laurel wreath was placed on Smith's brow by Costas Kotsias, the refugee mayor of Athens, after the race.

"My wife talked me into starting, and I had to win for her," Smith explained after the race. "I have been feeling weak since my illness and I did not expect to last more than 15 miles. But I gained strength with every mile, and I felt so good at the 20 mile mark that I just stepped out and ran away from the field."

It was his second consecutive marathon victory, for he won the National AAU event last fall.

Dykes Brings Sox Home to Meet Tigers and Threatens to Play

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 19.—Manager Jim Dykes, a patriotic old soldier who won't talk about the weather so long as the government doesn't want the weather talked, this afternoon talked about his nonhitting hitters and other topics after the scheduled final of the White Sox-Indians series here had been called off.

"I am serious about this," quoth Mr. Dykes, running a considerable temperature, "If our hitters don't show me something and quick, some of these days you are going to see James Dykes at third base, Muddy Ruel behind the plate, and Mule Haas and Bing Miller in the outfield.

"From now till May 15 we all could be on the active list without having to send away any of the younger players. They could stick around and take a few lessons.

Jim Says He's Serious.

"There may be some who think I am clowning with this proposition, but I'd bet dough we all could give our pitchers better offensive support than they've had in the five games played so far. It might be a strain on our old bones, but we would hustle as long as we lasted, and one or two of us might be an inspiration to some of our young gents.

"After all, our only game was won by a 41 year old, tho I don't mean to criticize our other pitchers and how Ted Lyons had to battle to make the one run he got stand up for a 1 to 0 victory! We can't ask him or any of the other pitchers to execute a shutout every time. Right now it looks like that's the only way we can be sure of a tie, but I still don't demand shutouts of pitchers."

Wright May Play Today.

With all of Jimmy's intensity in the matter, it is not likely he'll be able to get himself and his three coaches on the active list in time for tomorrow's scheduled opener with the Tigers in Comiskey park. He does hope to have Taft Wright, the team's leading hitter in 1941, in action. Wright, suffering from an abdominal injury in the final road game of the exhibition season, did not make the trip to Cleveland, but before the team left Chicago he told Dykes he could be counted on to play against Detroit.

Johnny Rigney, supported in the season opener by three rousing singles and no runs, will go against the Tigers in Chicago tomorrow. Johnny Humphries, who was to have pitched tomorrow had Rigney worked today, will be ready for the Tuesday game with the Tigers.

They're Not This Bad

The White Sox, in their first five games, have made a grand total of 31 hits, including 10 which they made in the final of the set with the St. Louis Browns, a 13 to 3 St. Louis victory.

Every preseason dopester who has lauded the Sox pitching staff snickered at the hitting department. Still the boys aren't the cheese hitters they have looked. Take Luke Appling, for instance. Luke is a one time American league batting champion and almost always is well over .300. Thus far this season Luke has made one hit in 18 times at bat, swinging in the so-called cleanup spot. This gives him a batting average of .055 to date. Luke is almost sure to boost this average to .100 in a few weeks and after he passes the .100 mark anything can happen. A few dissenting votes to the contrary, we still think Appling is a great ball player and one not content to go along with a batting average of .055.

Moses Is Hustling.

There has been noted an atmosphere of complacency on the Sox elsewhere than among the pitchers. Here again it isn't to say that all the Sox are sluggards, just because they are not sluggers. Wally Moses, for instance, has been doing one of the finest jobs of hustling we've ever seen on a Sox team.

No, the Sox can't be as bad as they looked. We have hopes that things will get better before the fine pitchers become utterly discouraged and, much as we would like to see them prance, that Dykes, Ruel, Miller, and Haas won't have to go on the active list after all.

THREE STRAIGHT SINGLES SET UP VICTORY PUNCH

Cincinnati Makes 8 Errors.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Claude Passeau, ablest member of the Cubs' pitching staff, put in a request yesterday for membership in the no-hit performers' club, but Cincinnati's Reds rejected his bid in the eighth inning and went on to gain a 2 to 1 decision in a 14 inning battle before 11,230 customers in Wrigley field.

While the Reds were being held hitless the Cubs picked up a run off Paul Derringer, which would have been enough for Passeau if Len Merullo had not erred in the ninth. The misplay let in the tying run. Then Passeau held on grimly against a fresh opponent, Joe Beggs, but in the 14th three enemy hits suddenly loaded the bases with none out, and the decisive run followed.

In the meantime the Cubs themselves were so impotent with their bats that they accumulated only seven safe blows, four of them off Derringer. He was sidetracked for a pinch batter after Harry Craft had busted Passeau's no hit string with a fluke single after one was out in the eighth.

Joost Makes Four Errors.

The Reds' conduct in the field gave the Cubs scoring chances which they passed up. Eddie Joost blundered four times at shortstop. Chuck Aleno gave a sorry exhibition at third base with three misplays. Lon Frey helped out with one error. But despite these eight mistakes the Cubs could not promote more than one run all day. The Cubs slipped afield only once, but it was enough to fix up the enemy with that tying run in the ninth.

Bert Haas was responsible for starting Passeau on the slide in the 14th. He singled into right, and old Gerald Walker, irked because he had failed in two attempts to bunt, singled to center. Frank McCormick bunted and the ball got past Passeau, who in desperation tried a shovel pass to Stan Hack for a force at third. The scratch hit filled the bases. Aleno again assisted the Cubs by forcing Haas at the plate, but Craft sent a long fly to left and Walker hiked home.

Aleno Starts Error Parade.

The succession of futile batters, three to an inning, was broken after one was out in the Cub third, when Aleno picked up Merullo's grounder and threw wild to first. Passeau fanned, but Merullo stole second on the third strike. A moment later Joost fumbled Hack's grounder, but Merullo overran third and was nailed by Joost's throw to Aleno.

The Reds' carnival of errors continued in the fourth. With one out, Lou Novikoff grounded to Aleno, whose throw toward first barely missed going into the grandstand. This enabled Novikoff to reach second. Then Aleno dropped Bill Nicholson's popup. Babe Dahlgren grounded to Frey, who tossed to Joost for what should have been the start of a double play. Joost dropped the ball and the bases were filled. Dom Dallessandro was hustled forth to bat for Lou Stringer and slapped a liner to Joost. Clyde McCullough then bounced to F. McCormick.

Nicholson Starts Rally.

One was out in the fifth when Passeau lined a single over short for the first hit off Derringer. Phil Cavarretta singled to right center after two were out, but Novikoff flied to Walker.

Nicholson's single which started the Cubs toward their run in the sixth sailed straight into center. F. McCormick raced up anticipating a bunt from Dahlgren, but Babe crossed him up with a single over the first baseman's head, Nicholson taking third. Rip Russell, who had taken over the second base job, walked and the bases were jammed with none out. McCullough sent a fly to Craft, scoring Nicholson, but Dahlgren over-

JOE MAXIN GOES AFTER 14TH PRO VICTORY TONIGHT

Ohioan Battles Greene in Marigold Headliner.

Joe Maxin, 1940 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, who has won 13 of 15 professional fights since leaving the amateur ranks, tonight will meet Frank Greene, also a Golden Gloves alumnus, in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Loses Last Chicago Fight.

Maxin, whose real name is Giuseppe Berardinelli, lost an unpopular decision in 10 rounds to Booker Beckwith in the Coliseum on Jan. 16. This was his last Chicago appearance. The first black mark on the Cleveland youngster's record materialized in this city when he lost a split decision to Orlando Trotter nine months ago.

Maxin, who is only 20 years old, never received a chance to avenge this setback because Orlando soon after retired from the ring because of ill health. Joe received a measure of revenge, tho, in a subsequent match by beating Johnny Trotter, Orlando's brother, who is a middleweight.

Hard Man to Discourage.

The conquest of Johnny was one of nine straight victories Maxin scored before losing to Beckwith. To show this defeat did not discourage him, Joe came right back to hammer out a 10 round decision over Lou Brooks, competent heavyweight of Wilmington, Del., in Baltimore, Md., March 23. Joe carried 178¼ pounds on that occasion, five less than Greene is expected to weigh at the Illinois Athletic commission this afternoon. Supporting matches:

Ernie Pelaia, Beaver Falls, Pa., vs. Johnny Rozina, Milwaukee [8], 155.
Dickie Miller, Peoria, vs. Vito Rizzo, Chicago [4], 132.

Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer and Karol Krauser, heavyweight wrestlers, will meet in a boxing exhibition this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. . . . Wrestling bouts will bring together Jack Bloomfield and Ken Fenlon, Earl Malone and Pete Schu, and Denny Lentz and Jimmy Lee. . . . Another mat card will be held in Marigold Gardens tomorrow topped by George Macricostas and Rudy Strongberg. Supporting matches will involve Wladyslaw Talun and Jack Taylor, Einar Olsen and Joe Dorsetti, Al Keffner and John Bonica, and Art Von Saxon and Joe Rogaski.

Lou Woods, Detroit 150 pound boxer, and Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor, yesterday were matched to meet in a six round preliminary event in the Coliseum Friday. In his Chicago debut last Feb. 27, Woods scored a third round technical knockout over Johnny Como. He stopped Henry Claypool in Detroit on March 9. Sopko will be making his first start since being stopped by Willard [Big Boy] Hogue in the Coliseum on Oct. 24. It was Mike's first loss in five fights, he having previously knocked out George Silvasy, Joe Caputa, and Johnny O'Hara, and beaten Al Calpalby.

Johnny Colan and Altus Allen, principals in the 10 round Coliseum headliner, rested yesterday but will return to training chores in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon. Colan is scheduled to spar with Nate Bolden, Allen's partner will be Hubert Hood, 1942 Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight champion.

Loop ticket headquarters have been established at the hat store at Dearborn and Madison streets, Tip O'Neil, head box office man, said yesterday.

PAN-AMERICAN GAMES WILL BE HELD: ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 19 (AP).—A spokesman for the Argentine Olympic committee said today the Pan-American games would be held here this year despite the decision of the United States not to participate because of the war.

He said the committee still hoped that North American sports officials would change their minds, at least to the extent of sending a small delegation to the games. In any event, he said, plans to hold the tournament on schedule would continue.

Juan Carlos Palacios, chairman of the Argentine committee, was not available for comment on the announcement by Avery Brundage, president of the United States of America Sports Federation, who said yesterday the decision to withdraw the United States team was reached with great reluctance after consultation with government authorities of the United States.

JOLIET PRISON LOSES IN 10TH TO ILLINOIS TECH

Illinois Tech defeated the Joliet prison baseball team, 5 to 4, in a ten inning game in Joliet yesterday. It was the opening game of the year for the prison which last season won 21 out of 23. Illinois Tech made 14 hits off Pitcher Rumisheck of Joliet, who had won 30 straight games until stopped by Ted Lyons and a Chicago All-Star team in the final game last season.

Marion Silla hit a single, double, and triple and Will Hackbarth had two singles and a double to lead Tech's attack. Hackbarth scored the winning run on Ray LaGodney's single. Pitcher Dambros of Illinois Tech struck out eight, and McDonough fanned six in three innings. Score:

Milkman Wins Marathon

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Joe Smith, North Medford, Mass., milkman, crosses the finish line in the Boston A. A. marathon yesterday in record time in the 45th annual running of event. Smith's time was 2:26:51⅕, or a minute and 37⅖ seconds under the previous mark. More than 200,000 saw the race.

All events—O. Abramske, Waukesha.

WITH REGARDS' DRILL FOR DERBY IS DISAPPOINTING

Louisville, Ky., April 19 (AP).—With Regards, T. D. Grimes' Kentucky Derby candidate, turned in a disappointing workout today over the Churchill Downs oval.

With Regards, winner of the Arkansas Derby, went three-quarters of a mile in 1:16. He was clocked at the quarter in :25 1-5; the three-eighths in :36 4-5; the half in :49 and five-eighths in 1:02.

Last Wednesday the Arkansas Derby winner was clocked for the five-eighths in :59 3-5, within three-fifths of the track record.

The colt appeared to be sulking and Owner Grimes was obviously disappointed in the workout, but blamed much of the slow time on a strong head wind which was blowing down the stretch.

SLOVAKS DEFEAT SWEDES, 5-1, TO GAIN STATE FINAL

BY OFFSIDE.

The Chicago Slovaks soccer team spent a profitable afternoon yesterday in Sparta stadium. They whipped the Swedish-Americans, 5 to 1, to enter the State cup soccer finals. At the same time they utilized the contest as a warmup for their western amateur championship series in Chicago next Sunday with the Morgan Field club of Pittsburgh, Pa. The Morgans defeated the St. Clairs of Detroit yesterday to qualify as the Slovaks' opponents.

Meanwhile the Spartas, who will start their national open cup western two-game series with the Gallatin Sport club next Sunday in Donora, Pa., were held to a 2 to 2 deadlock yesterday by the Nickeloids in a major league battle in Dalzell, Ill. Last fall the two teams fought to a 2 to 2 draw. The Spartas' second title game with Gallatin will be played in Sparta stadium. Total goals in both contests will determine the winner.

Wait 27 Minutes to Score.

In their game with the Swedes, who were not at full strength, the Slovaks were held to a 1 to 1 tie in the first half and waited 27 minutes for their first score. Emil Tomecek and Smitty Tomecek, with brilliant play on the right side, sent Jerry Bohm heading into the net. A little later the Swedes scored their lone goal after a penalty on Frank Tomacek, Johnny Kilgour taking the kick shot past Goalie Ted Dubek.

A Gift for Mizialko.

Early in the second period Smitty Tomecek slipped away from the Swedes' backs and tipped the ball into the net from close-in. During a scrimmage Emil Tomecek scored from 3 yards out. Marty Mizialko got a gift goal when his 30 yard shot went thru Goalie Holms' legs. Pete Matevich made a solo run of 40 yards, then kicked one past Holms 6 yards from the goal for the final score. Lineups:

MORAN TAKES 3D PLACE IN JUNIOR BOWLING MEET

Bernard Moran last night shot his way into third place in the Barney Hochstadter individual junior bowling tournament by knocking over 1,631 pins in eight games. This is 24 fewer than the leader, Joseph Epps, hit last week-end when the tournament opened.

The event will end next week-end. During the two weekly sessions 608 bowlers have competed. Three others won places yesterday among the first 10. These were Edward Rajca, who shot 1,587, and Edward McGroarty adn Anthony Frey, who brought down 1,584 pins. The high single game score shot over the week-end was Robert Golinick's 246. Week-end squad scores:

RAY RICHARDS TAKES 30 LAP MIDGET CAR RACE

Ray Richards of Highland Park won the 30 lap feature midget auto race in competition for the midwest season title in the International ampitheater last night, establishing a new record for the distance. Richards, who was timed in 4 minutes and 57.36 seconds, defeated Myron Fohr of Milwaukee by five car lengths.

Richards and Fohr were followed across the line in order by Red Duncan, Chicago; Bob Muhlke, Chicago, and Pete Nielsen, Los Angeles. These five drivers qualified for next Sunday's 50 lap final in which a field of 12 will compete.

Fohr also captured a 15 lap handicap race in 2:31.21 with Richards second. Ray Dittmer of Chicago won the 15 lap consolation in 2:53.30.

Four elimination races at 15 laps were won by Ted Hartley, Roanoke, Ind., Tony Bettenhausen, Chicago, and Duncan and Murlke.

Monarchs Fail to Break Into ABC Leaders

Columbus, O., April 19 [Special].—Members of the Monarch Beer team, 1940 champions, who hit 2,940 in the American Bowling Congress tournament Saturday, failed to disturb the high 10 leaders during today's singles and doubles competition. Three of the Chicago Classic leaguers tallied above 1,800 in the all-events.

Bill Flesch, who scored 613 in the team event, gave Harry Ledene Jr., a sizeable 682 series in the doubles, finishing with a 253 game, but Ledene, who hit only 538 in the team event and 483 singles, rolled only 509, as the pair totaled 1,191. Flesch followed in singles with 589 for an 1,884 all-events—an average of 209.3 for his nine games.

Herbie Lange, who had averaged 200.47 for 18 tournaments, including five 1,900 series, dropped off the pace with 1,670. Lange paired with Leo Faetz to top the Chicago double teams with 1,211, Faetz hit 640.

Boedecker Gets 649 in Singles.

Other high singles totals by Chicagoans included: Al Kunnes, 614; George Williams, 605, and Leo Keely, 600.

Lincoln Square Recreations paced the five Chicago teams on the first squad with 2,779. Frankie Kartheiser, former national match champion settled for only 494 as the Schamberger Schlitz team of the North End Traveling league counted 2,698.

SCHLITZ WIDENS CLASSIC LEAGUE LEAD TO 4 GAMES

The Schlitz bowlers increased their Wednesday division lead in the classic league to four games last night by sweeping three games from the Koenig Braus on the Gateway Recreation alleys. Pabst, the runner-up dropped a game to Monarch. Ambrosia blanked Blatz and National whipped Washington Shirts. Only 12 games remain on the schedule. Scores:

FENWICK EASILY WINS CATHOLIC PREP SWIM TITLE

Table of Points

Fenwick	51½	Leo	9
Loyola	28½	St. Ignatius	6

Fenwick High, for the ninth time in 10 years, won the Catholic league swimming championship yesterday by scoring 51½ points in the Fenwick pool. The Oak Parkers' closest rival was Loyola with a total of 28½. Leo was third with 9, while St. Ignatius was fourth with 6.

Hoelzer Leads Champions.

Dick Hoelzer, a junior on the winning squad, had a busy afternoon setting a new mark in the 50 yard breast stroke, topping three other finalists in the 100 yard free style event, and helping Fenwick win the 150 yard medley relay race.

In the preliminaries of the 50 yard breast stroke Saturday night he clipped six-tenths of a second off the old mark of :31.8. In the finals yesterday he covered the distance in :31, knocking eight-tenths of a second off the record made by McClellan of Fenwick in 1939. Hoelzer also tied the pool mark made by Heidke of Lane in 1940.

Coached by Thompson.

200 YARD RELAY—Won by Fenwick [Venn, H. Tom Venn, Cotter, Braue]; Loyola, second; St. Ignatius, third; Leo, fourth. Time—1:51.2.

The Poet's Spring.

Between the showers of April rain,
Sun spilling thru a window pane,
Birds singing down a friendly lane.

A couple strolling here and there,
A conscious urge to do and dare,
All faces showing less of care;
A song, a smile, a frequent prayer.

A lassie's curls combed by a breeze
Which lately brushed the hair of trees,
Boys playing marbles on their knees,

If other souls would stop to look
As Springtime opens up her book,
They'd be so thankful that they took
The time—for God's in every nook!

—Nicholas Lloyd Ingraham.

NewsomeStopsChampions on Eight Hits.

New York, April 19 (AP).—The Yankees went down to their second straight defeat today as Heber Newsome pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 5 to 2 victory for his second triumph of the season. A crowd of 51,522 saw Newsome limit the Yankees to eight hits.

The Red Sox made only five hits in eight innings off Marvin Breuer, but they combined three of them with a pair of walks to score four runs in the fourth inning. They added a run in the following inning, just as they did yesterday when they scored four in the third and one in the fourth to whip the Yanks, 5 to 1.

Breuer stopped Ted Williams. Dom DiMaggio's double, the only extra base hit of the game, led to the final Boston run. Joe DiMaggio, after three hitless games, singled Phil Rizzuto home with the first Yankee run in the opening inning. Joe Gordon drove Tommy Henrich across in the third. Score:

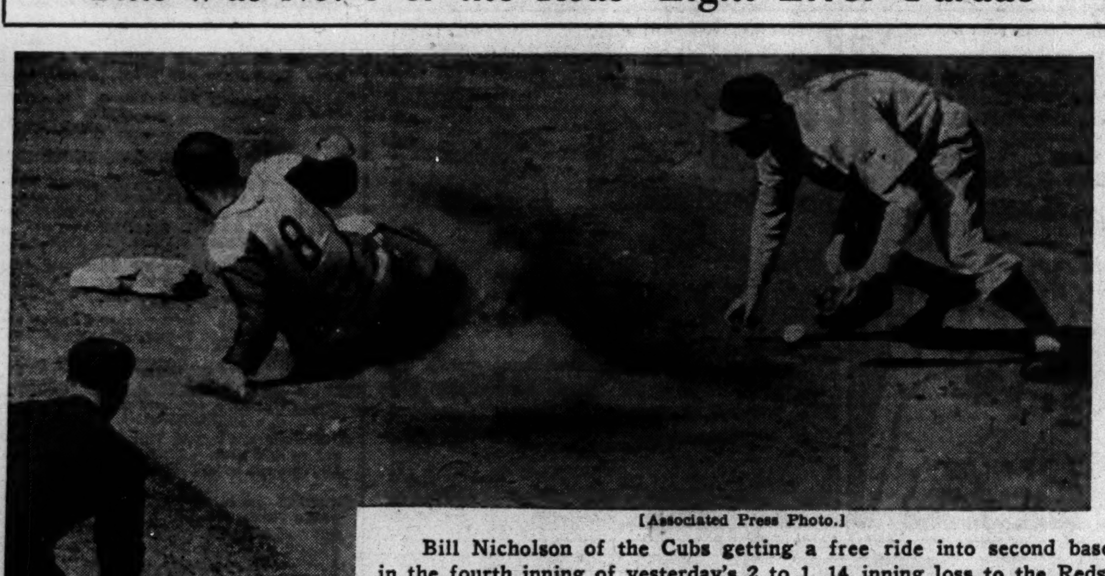
This Was No. 5 of the Reds' Eight Error Parade



[Associated Press Photo.]

Bill Nicholson of the Cubs getting a free ride into second base in the fourth inning of yesterday's 2 to 1, 14 inning loss to the Reds. Shortstop Eddie Joost had just made one of his four errors by dropping the ball thrown by Second Baseman Lon Frey on Babe Dahlgren's roller. The umpire is Al Barlick. Nicholson had reached first on Chuck Aleno's error. The Reds made eight fielding fumbles in all.

slid third and was doubled, Craft to Rollie Hemsley to Aleno.

Passeau's no hitter went away with one out in the eighth when Craft dropped his single between Nicholson, Dahlgren, and Russell in short right. Passeau had no trouble with the next two men nor with Joost, who opened the ninth. Then things happened swiftly. Frey singled to right and with a chance for a double play on Haas' grounder, Merullo committed his costly blunder. Walker nudged a slow grounder past Hack and Merullo picked up the ball but it went for a hit, filling the bases. F. McCormick slapped a fly to left and Frey carried in the tying run, after which Hack tossed out Aleno.

2 SECOND PLACE SHIFTS OCCUR IN STATE PIN MEET

Leaders remained unchanged, but two new second place occupants appeared yesterday in the Illinois state bowling tournament on the Sylvandell alleys in Aurora.

Myron and Charles Sauer of Chicago, father and son, rolled 1,198 to land only 12 pins behind the two-man leaders, Harvey Newquist and Eli Panttila of De Kalb. Charles, 20 years old, shot a 667 series.

Mike Thurnau of Bartlett, Ill., shot 655 for second place in the singles, two pins behind Art Link of Chicago. Both Thurnau and young Sauer got good starts toward the all events title, the former getting 607 in the doubles for 1,262, and Sauer adding a 597 singles to his 667 for 1,264.

Thurnau also moved into fifth in the doubles with Dick Gehrung, also of Bartlett, the pair totaling 1,166. Al Greenspahn and Sam Block of Chicago landed ahead of them in fourth place with 1,189.

In the five-man event, top series of the day was a 2,711 by the Brown Owl Tavern of East Moline.

MICHIGAN CITY PREP NINE TO OPEN TITLE DEFENSE

South Bend, Ind., April 19 [Special].—Eastern division baseball clubs of the Northern Indiana High School conference will open championship play Friday and continue meeting in league games each Tuesday and Friday thereafter until May 22. Michigan City is the defending champion, having supplanted South Bend Washington, which had won titles in 1939 and 1940.

Allerdice Breaks Leg in Princeton Practice

Princeton, N. J., April 19 (AP).—Sophomore John R. Allerdice of Indianapolis, brother of Dave Allerdice, Princeton university's passing star of two seasons ago, suffered a broken right leg in spring football scrimmage yesterday. Allerdice was a star half back on the freshman eleven last fall and also played on the freshman basketball team.

CURT DAVIS AND DODGERS DEFEAT PHILLIES, 6 TO 2

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 19 (AP).—Curt Davis turned in his second pitching victory of the season today as the Dodgers captured the odd contest of the three game series with the Philadelphia Phils, 6 to 2. Dixie Walker drove in four runs with three hits, one of them his second homer of the year.

Davis yielded only five hits. Three of them came in the sixth inning when the Phils pushed across both their runs. Score:

CARDS, 3; PIRATES, 2.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 19 [Special].—Johnny Beazley, New Orleans rookie, stopped the Pirates on four hits for eight innings this afternoon as the St. Louis Cardinals won their only victory of the three game series, 3 to 2.

Beazley worked smoothly until the ninth when the Pirates twice loaded the bases on three walks, two errors and a wild pitch. Harry Gumbert replaced Beazley after Eddie Stewart and Frank Gustine walked. Jimmy Brown fumbled Pinch Hitter Cully Rikard's roller and Stewart scored. Gumbert got Maurice Van Robays on an easy fly but unloosed a wild pitch, enabling Gustine and Rikard to advance. Another short fly eased the pressure, but Gumbert filled the bases by walking Johnny Barrett. Ken Sanders dropped Frank Crespi's throw on Bob Elliott's grounder, Gustine scoring. Then Vince DiMaggio flied out.

Stan Musial's single, a sacrifice, and Enos Slaughter's double gave St. Louis its first run in the fourth. Singles by Terry Moore, Slaughter, and Brown, interspersed with a long fly by Russ Sanders, accounted for the Cards' runs in the sixth. Score:

MacMitchell and Kane to Resume Feud

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19 (AP).—Two great track stars—Les MacMitchell of New York university and Campbell Kane of Indiana — will renew their spirited competition in the 48th annual Penn relays in Franklin field on Friday and Saturday.

MacMitchell and Kane clashed in five relay races in the 1941 carnival and are slated to match strides in four events this coming week-end.

Their personal duels are expected to be a standout of the ambitious 76 event two day program in which close to 3,000 athletes, including boys from the army, navy, and marine corps, will complete.

A List of Favorites.

Entries have been received from approximately 500 colleges from the midwest, middle Atlantic states, south, and New England. Individuals include such cinder path celebrities as Barney Ewell of Penn State, Al Blozis of Georgetown, John Campbell of Fordham, Harold Stickel of Pittsburgh, Dick Norcom of New Hampshire, Moffat Storer of Duke, Leroy Schwartzkopf of Yale, and James Delaney, Notre Dame.

MacMitchell, who finished ahead of Kane in three of their five 1941 relay meetings, is pitted against the Hoosier this season in the spring and distance medley relays as well as the two and four mile relays. Each will run anchor.

Both Get Poor Draws.

Neither MacMitchell or Kane fared well in the draw. The New Yorker will start from 11th position in the two mile, 4th in the four mile, 12th in the sprint medley and 6th in the distance medley. Kane will run from 3d position in the two mile, 12th in the four mile, 10th in the sprint medley, and 11th in the distance medley.

New York university is defending champion in the four mile, distance, and sprint medley while Indiana will attempt to retain its laurels in the mile and two mile relays.

FELLER MAKES A WAR SPEECH IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., April 19 (AP).—Bob Feller tonight told an athletic association of Warner & Swasey company he had seen some of the company's machine tools in action and declared:

"Your job of supplying us with the best possible equipment is just as important as ours in making use of it."

The former Cleveland pitcher, now in the navy's physical fitness division at the Norfolk Naval Training station, said the station is not over emphasizing its baseball team, on which he pitches.

The players contribute their own time to baseball and have less than an hour and a half daily for practice, he said.

Men in the armed forces have the utmost confidence in the men supplying the fighting equipment. "In return you can expect us to use this equipment to the best of our ability in bringing victory to America," Feller said.

PEARSON ASKS REDS TO RETIRE HIM FOR SEASON

FRESNO, Cal., April 19 (AP).—Monte Pearson, former New York Yankee pitching star and a four game world series winner, has decided to quit baseball for the season. Pearson, who came up thru the local baseball ranks, said he has asked officials of the Cincinnati National league baseball club, to which he now belongs, to place him on the voluntarily retired list.

"I am going to give my arm a thoro rest and if it comes around I'll try to make a comeback," Pearson said.

Mooty to Pitch Today for Cubs in Pittsburgh

The Cubs left for Pittsburgh last night to open a three game series with Frankie Frisch's Pirates today. The Cubs will be back on their own field along with the Cardinals Thursday and Friday. Jake Mooty will work today in Pittsburgh against Max Butcher.

After exhaustive examination, physicians have decided that Ival Goodman, the Reds' regular right fielder, wasn't damaged as the result of being hit on the right elbow by a ball thrown by Stan Hack during Friday's pre-game practice. Goodman expects to be back on the job tomorrow in St. Louis.

A delegation from Naperville, Ill., stepped to the plate before yesterday's game and presented a traveling bag to a fellow citizen, Bert Haas of the Reds. Haas was transferred from third base to left field by Manager Bill McKechnie in an effort to improve the club's hitting.

IOWA VICTORIES OVER NOTRE DAME SQUARE SERIES

Iowa City, Ia., April 19 [Special].—Iowa's double victory over Notre Dame Wednesday and Thursday squared the 17 year old baseball rivalry between the two schools.

FACE WIND, SAND, HUNGER FOR PEEK AT WEE TITMOUSE

BY WARD WALKER.

Undaunted by a crisp wind and miles of sand ridges more or less covered by trees, 14 members of the Chicago Ornithological society struck out across the Indiana dunes yesterday.

One of the guiding lights was Mrs. Amy Baldwin, a nurse, who had been up all night on a case at Michael Reese hospital. Despite her graying hair, she hasn't missed one of the bird hikes in years.

"We'll leave our lunches here [the Friends of Nature cottage]," Mrs. Baldwin said, "swing down around to the lake and be back by noon." She was a good three hours too optimistic, events proved.

Draw Bead with Binoculars.

But thru the sand the group plowed, stopping only to draw a bead with binoculars on some feathered friends.

"You've seen these birds before, haven't you?" a visitor asked Larry Turner, 26 years old, 6543 University avenue, a school teacher who enters the army this week and regarded the hike as his "last fling."

"Yes," he answered.

"They haven't learned any new tricks, have they?"

"No."

"Then why do you go to all this trouble?"

Keep Score Cards.

"O, we keep our own score cards on the number of birds we see during the season," he explained. "The more we know about their habits, the more we see. It's an exciting game. And isn't the fresh air wonderful?"

By then the alert eyes of the group had spotted at least one cardinal, red-wing blackbird, sora, flicker, red-headed woodpecker, tufted titmouse, purple martin, and bluejay.

Hawk Gives Up.

The rough and tumble battle lasted but a minute. Bested, the hawk fled. The crows wheeled victoriously, then went about their business. One bird lover explained the fight:

"That hawk tried to cut in on the crows' territory. They muscled him out and clouted him good so he'd remember. Just like gangsters."

Two more hawks, the marsh and the rough legged, were seen; then a great blue heron, a tree swallow, a yellow bellied sapsucker, a black-capped chickadee, a brown creeper, a cardinal, a red-eyed towhee, several varieties of sparrows, and an eastern mourning dove.

Finally Reach Lake.

Across several more ridges, the bird hunters finally reached the lake. The hikers spotted a horned grebe and both the American and the red-breasted merganser.

Several hours later the band found its way back to the lunches.

Halfway up the last steep dune, one of the elderly ladies was heard to mutter. The visitor stepped near to offer assistance.

"That pesky merganser!" she was saying. "Pesky fellow. Got away before I spotted the red breast. Darn him! But I'll get him next week."

WARNS VICTORY MUST PRECEDE PEACE THOUGHT

Dr. Jan Masaryk, vice premier and foreign minister of the Czecho-Slovakian government in London, warned the united nations yesterday against letting thought of peace after the war interfere with making a victorious war. Dr. Masaryk took part in a discussion on the Northwestern Reviewing stand program on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Dr. Masaryk counseled the United States and Great Britain against being too critical of one another. The important thing now, he said, is to show the smaller nations of the world that each believes in democracy. He said failures of the past have shaken the faith of the smaller nations and that after the war they will expect fulfillment of promises made now.

Dr. Masaryk spoke from New York. Franklin Scott and John Eberhart, Northwestern university professors, took part in the discussion.

CYCLE'S REALLY BACK NOW; 400 RIDERS CONVENE

Parade Marks First Parley Since 1900.

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

Time slowed up a half century yesterday and the bicycle, once the forerunner of the automobile, became its official successor.

For you can mark off yesterday as the day the bicycle made its formal, altho somewhat bashful, comeback to the American scene. At least, so say 400 members of the League of American Wheelmen, who held their first national convention since 1900.

The whole thing began with a parade of men and women cyclists who rode as proudly as any conquering army from Soldiers' field down Michigan avenue to Washington boulevard and then west to Garfield park for the final session of their two day convention.

Easy on Eardrums.

It was probably the most silent parade in the history of Chicago. Their chromium wheels sparkling, the cyclists pedaled slowly and with dignity past hundreds of pedestrians. Here and there they broke the Sunday morning stillness with an indignant tinkling of handlebar bells as some hapless pedestrian, more accustomed to dodging trucks and cars, became trapped between the long lines of cyclists.

Leading the parade were two hardy cyclists on 50 year old high wheeled bikes. They admitted when the parade was over that "you sure appreciate the regulation models when you've ridden these babies."

Then came girls in pretty ski suits riding 1942 models, followed by their boy friends on racers. Some of the older women, wearing bright blue and red slacks, said they had been riding for several years; had, in fact, taken up cycling to reduce, and kept on because it was fun.

73 Year Old Champs.

In the center of the parade rode the two champions of the day, Tom Brown, 73 years old, and Louis Pierron, 73, both of whom on Saturday had pedaled from Milwaukee to the convention. Pierron, riding a conventional bicycle which, he said, had been built in 1898, has been cycling since 1879. He has pedaled 260,000 miles in that time, he estimates.

His friend, Brown, a sprightly, white haired little man in shorts and green sports jacket, sniffed at the short distance of the parade. He is not only a cyclist, but also a walker. "I took a 10 mile walk this morning before breakfast," he told reporters. "Why, I used to think nothing of walking from Milwaukee to Chicago. Once I made it in 28 hours. But now I bicycle down—guess I'm getting old."

Victor Broome, 44 years old, who pedaled to the convention from his home in Fond du Lac, Wis., was elected president of the league at the closing session. Herbert Specht, 5949 Magnolia avenue, and Eugene Wilson of San Francisco, Cal., were chosen vice presidents. Other officers are to be appointed by the president.

Archbishop Stritch Helps Dedicate Church, School

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch yesterday presided at the dedication of Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic church and school, Commercial avenue and 91st street. The Most Rev. William D. O'Brien celebrated the mass. Services yesterday opened three day observances which will include a children's mass this morning with the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, celebrant, and a pontifical mass tomorrow with Archbishop Moses J. Kiley of Milwaukee, celebrant.

Canada Leader Impressed by Talk with Roosevelt

OTTAWA, Ont., April 19 (AP).—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King said today on his return from Washington, D. BOAT CAPSIZES; YOUTH DROWNS IN WISCONSIN LAKE

A week end party of Illinois Tool company employés and their families ended sadly yesterday when the 21 who attended returned with the body of Irving Porcher, 16 years old. Porcher, a Foreman High school sophomore living at 5409 Eddy street, was drowned Saturday at Puckaway lake in Green Lake county, Wis.

He and his cousin, Louis Herwy, 19, of 5411 Eddy street, were a mile from shore when their outboard motorboat overturned. They clung to the boat until Porcher lost his grip and slipped into the water.

Herwy placed an inflated pillow under him and was swimming to shore with him when they were picked up by another boat. Efforts to revive Porcher failed. He was the son of Joseph Porcher, an employé of the tool company.

DETOURS SLATED FOR NORTHBOUND DREXEL TRAFFIC

The 90 day job of repaving the east drive of Drexel boulevard from Hyde Park boulevard to Oakwood boulevard will begin Wednesday morning, Chicago park district officials announced yesterday.

At the beginning, Drexel boulevard will be closed from Hyde Park boulevard to 47th street. Northbound traffic from Hyde Park boulevard will be detoured to Ellis avenue, north to 47th street, west to Drexel boulevard, then north.

As the work moves north, northbound traffic from Hyde Park boulevard will be detoured north at Ellis avenue to 43d street, west to Drexel boulevard and then north. As the work moves into its final phase, northbound traffic from Hyde Park boulevard will be detoured to Ellis avenue, north to Oakwood boulevard, and then either east or west.

CAPT. WM. M'CAW STRICKEN, DIES AT RADIO FORUM

Bloomington, Ind., April 19 [Special].—Capt. William C. McCaw, 41 years old, military instructor at Indiana university, and several years ago a star guard on the university's football team, died of a heart attack today while participating in a radio round table discussion on the relationship of the ROTC to the war.

Capt. McCaw collapsed after completing his speaking part in the program. He was carried from the studio while Maj. F. T. Reed wound up the program. The radio audience was unaware of the tragedy.

A Chicagoan, Capt. McCaw served as athletic director and coach at a Kenosha High school after his graduation. He became an executive of the Wisconsin Power and Light company and returned to the university as an instructor last April.

U. OF C. TO OFFER TRAINING COURSE IN FEDERAL JOBS

Plans for a six month course of training to prepare men and women for junior administrative positions in the federal service were announced by the University of Chicago yesterday. Leonard D. White, professor of public administration and former United States civil service commissioner, will be in charge. The course will begin with the summer quarter. Two years of college work will be required for admission. Women will be given preference. Men who do not have deferred military status will be advised not to enroll.

Donations to Blood Bank Reach Total of 605 Pints

Urbana, Ill., April 19 [Special].—Residents of Champaign county and students and faculty members of the University of Illinois have donated 605 pints of blood to the state's blood bank, it was announced today. The mobile unit of the Illinois department of health, which is taking the donations, will go to Peoria Friday.

WILLIAM J. DAVERN, RETIRED LIEUTENANT OF POLICE HERE, DIES

William J. Davern, a retired Chicago police lieutenant, died of heart disease yesterday in his home at 5924 Race avenue. He was 65 years old and was retired from his last assignment in the Jefferson Park station in 1932.

William J. Davern.

Lieut. Davern joined the police force Nov. 7, 1906, and served as a patrolman until Dec. 24, 1927, when he was promoted to sergeant. He became a lieutenant two years later. Lieut. Davern was assigned to the state's attorney's office for eight years and in that period took part in the Loeb-Leopold case. He later was head of the pawnshop detail at the detective bureau.

Lieut. Davern is survived by his widow, Anne, manager of The Chicago Tribune's telephone system, and a daughter, Mrs. Nell Amberson, 6050 North Claremont avenue. Funeral services will be at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday to St. Lucy's church, Lake street and Mayfield avenue. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

CHICAGO STARTS PAYING 8C FOR TROLLEY RIDES

Chicagoans began paying 8 cents each for their street car rides at midnight last night, on authority of the Illinois Commerce commission.

Attorney General George F. Barrett, who lost his plea for a temporary injunction against the fare boost Saturday, said he will go before the commerce commission and ask that it suspend its ruling and grant a rehearing.

Barrett also said he would take an appeal from the refusal of Judge John F. Bolton in Superior court to enjoin the Chicago Surface lines from raising fares. This would be heard before the Illinois Appellate court. Judge Bolton intimated Saturday he might entertain a plea for a permanent injunction.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT KILLS CAMPER, 18, NEAR KANKAKEE

Donald Nolan, 18 years old, 7948 Wood street, was killed yesterday when a gun was discharged accidentally at Rock Creek camp, on the Kankakee river, nine miles north of Kankakee.

Nolan and David Newhouse, 17, of 8533 Peoria street, left the camp shortly after noon. Each carried a rifle. Half a mile from the camp, Newhouse, who was walking 10 feet behind Nolan, fell, his rifle striking a rock. The gun discharged, the bullet hitting Nolan in the head.

Nolan was taken to St. Mary's hospital in Kankakee where he died.

NORSE OFFICER TAKES 5 MONTHS TO REACH RUSSIA

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 19 (AP).—It took Maj. Gen. William Steffens five months to travel from San Francisco to Kuibyshev, but he finally arrived at his post as Norwegian military attaché in Russia after crossing the path of the Japanese fleet in the Pacific.

The gray haired, ruddy cheeked general, who had been organizing Norwegian forces in Canada, said today that he left San Francisco Nov. 27 and was off Wake Island when the Japanese launched their war in the Pacific.

His ship sighted planes in the sky but was undetected as it cut between the Caroline and Marshall Islands to Port Moresby and then Australia, where he saw the first United States convoy of warships and transports arrive. He continued by ship across the Indian ocean to Iran and came here by plane.

GIRL WHO LOST LEGS TO WALK, PHYSICIAN SAYS

Miss Agnes Cimbalista, 18 years old, whose hobby was roller skating, will walk again, but probably will do no more skating, her physician said yesterday. The girl, who lives at 2400 South Hamlin avenue, lost both legs when she was struck Saturday by an auto at 24th street and Pulaski road. She was given a blood transfusion late Saturday by her brother.

Dr. W. H. Bradley of St Anthony's hospital, who did the amputation, said yesterday that artificial limbs are entirely practicable because the amputations were both below the knee.

Harry Michalek, 28, of 1521 South Kenneth avenue, the driver of the automobile, which killed another woman in the accident, will be arraigned in Felony court today on charges of manslaughter and reckless driving.

MRS. FRANKLIN DIES; HUSBAND'S RETURN AWAITED

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Grace Ross Evans Franklin, wife of the Rev. George De Haven Franklin, last night were awaiting the return of her husband, now the pastor of Trinity church at Daytona Beach, Fla. Mrs. Franklin lived at 1420 Lake Shore drive, and died Friday night in Passavant hospital. She was the widow of Albert T. Evans, prominent in the lumber business until his death 12 years ago. She was married to the Rev. Mr. Franklin in 1939 after meeting the young Episcopal clergyman while on a world cruise.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

CHARGE 2 STEEL FIRMS VIOLATE PRIORITY RULES

Name Carnegie and Jones & Laughlin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—Charging the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, two of the biggest steel makers in the nation, with "repeated, deliberate violations of priorities regulations," the War Production board tonight turned over bills of complaint to the justice department for "appropriate action."

H. E. Lewis, president of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation.

According to the WPB complaints, the alleged violations resulted in diversion of large quantities of critically needed iron and steel to private customers of the companies, at the expense of the needs of the armed forces and the maritime commission.

Asks Permanent Injunction.

It requested from the justice department permanent injunctions against continuance of the alleged illegal practices and decrees directing them to comply with all lawful regulations of the WPB in the future.

This was the first action of its kind by the WPB since it undertook an industry-wide survey, thru the compliance branch, of conformance with priorities regulations.

Carnegie-Illinois, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, is the largest producer of steel in the United States, with 20 plants and 16 district sales offices. It produces more than 25 per cent of the nation's steel supply.

Charges Made by WPB.

"The principal charges against the two concerns," said the WPB's announcement, "are based upon their acceptance and production of lower rated and civilian orders, while refusing to accept or make delivery under high-rated military orders."

"1. Publication and distribution to its officers and employés of a manual setting up production and delivery schedules which gave first preference to customers of its choice, without regard for priority ratings.

"2. Postponement of production and deliveries ordered by the OPM and WPB, in favor of civilian customers.

"3. Use of facilities and materials to fill unrated orders at a time when rated orders were being deferred.

"4. That these and other violations operated to prevent maximum efficiency in the prosecution of the war, and that unless the company's violations are terminated its competitors will feel themselves compelled by economic necessity also to refuse to comply with WPB regulations, and that as a result the declared policy of congress would be defeated."

Among the charges against Jones and Laughlin were:

"1. That from Jan. 1 to March 15, 1942, Jones and Laughlin made large deliveries of steel products on orders bearing preference ratings of A-9 or lower, while it deferred orders with high preference ratings.

"2. That on Feb. 21, Jones and Laughlin received a telegram from the director of industry operations directing that no 'oil country' casing, tubing, or drill pipe be shipped on or after March 14, except on orders bearing a preference rating of A-9, or higher. That the company immediately put large quantities of high quality steel into pipe production, of which only 12 per cent was delivered on rated orders, the remainder being manufactured on orders for civilian use bearing no preference ratings."

SURPRISE TO LEWIS

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 19 [Special].—H. E. Lewis, president of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation said tonight that he was surprised by the WPB's priorities charges.

"In March, 1942, priority shipments of our corporation were 94.8 per cent, and in April, 1942, to date priority shipments were 99.8 per cent of our total shipments, most of which represent the requirements of the army, navy, maritime commission, and lend-lease customers," he explained.

Tells of WPB Praise.

"The company's record breaking production of high rated tonnages of steel have been the means of accelerating the program of the army, navy, maritime commission, and lend-lease, and have received favorable comment from these sources and from WPB itself," he said.

"The fixed purpose of this company has been one of literal compliance with allocations, priority orders and special directive.

"The best interest of the country has been and is the sole motive governing Carnegie Illinois Steel corporation. To name this company as giving preference to customers of its choice without regard to war needs or preference rating is a statement absolutely without foundation.

"This company has a record second to none in fulfilling this country's war needs and has borne the major burden of supplying ingots and semifinished steel to Great Britain under the government lend-lease program."

Day by Day on the Farm, by BOB BECKER

Air Battle at Farm.

April 19, 1942.

The men thought they had tossed their martin house project on the Wheaton farm just about right this spring. They no sooner had it in position than a pair of purple martins moved in.

Despite the fact that these migrants were on hand or in the vicinity when all the nesting houses were put up, the troublesome English sparrows also quickly discovered the new apartment building. They have been trying to take over some of the individual compartments not occupied by the martins, so the battle is on. It's the type of bird conflict that occurs every spring with the martins battling not only sparrows but the starlings, too.

Flock Has Spring Fever.

Spring fever has struck in the barnyard. You have only to look at the big white turkeys and the ducks to see that they are affected by the new season.

When we visited the barnyard the other morning one bold turkey hen was using a straw nest just outside the door of one of the farm cottages. Last fall the flockmaster put up a wooden framework around the cottage and filled it with straw as insulation around the foundation. Before the straw could be removed this spring the turkey hen decided that this spring [it stands about a foot above the ground] would make a perfect nesting site. She has been laying eggs in this nest, which gives her the privacy of a gold fish bowl. There is traffic going past her most of the day, but she doesn't mind a bit.

Community Nesting Project.

Three other turkey hens have a community nest in one of the small barnyard buildings. They have been laying eggs, too.

The flockmaster's wife walked thru the barnyard yesterday morning and found three of the chummy turkeys sitting side by side. Later she went out and picked up three freshly laid eggs. We have seen two farm turkeys work out a schedule for the use of one egg laying spot, but this trio of hens sets a new record in cooperation.

The spring chicks which have been in the farm brooder house since the first week of March are rapidly looking like "grownups." They were fuzzy little yellow chicks about six weeks ago. After being crammed with food and vitamins they have grown so large that the flockmaster had to move them to other quarters to avoid over-crowding the brooder.

HIGHEST ON RECORD.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Have operations of the Giddings & Lewis Machine Tool company benefited from the importance of the industry in war production? How many shares are outstanding? Are they listed on an exchange?—C. H. T.

Answer: The Giddings & Lewis Machine Tool company's 1941 output was by far the largest in the company's 82 year history, the company reported to its stockholders. Sales were 108 per cent higher and net income increased 31 per cent over 1940.

The company manufactures precision boring, drilling, and milling machines for the Diesel and gasoline engine, railroad, marine, automotive, aviation, and other industries active in war production. A new 1 million dollar "emergency plant facilities" unit was opened in August last year at Fond du Lac, Wis.

The company's only capitalization is 300,000 shares of $2 par common stock outstanding. The stock is traded "over the counter." An increase from 100,000 to 400,000 shares was authorized in November, 1940. Of the increased number 100,000 shares were issued as a stock dividend and 100,000 shares were sold publicly.

Financial operations were:

MAIL ORDER REFUND.

Did shortages in merchandise have a material effect on the mail order volume of Sears, Roebuck?—T. Y.

Answer: Sears, Roebuck & Co. refunded more than 30 million dollars, or about 11 per cent of its mail orders, during the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1942, because of merchandise shortages, according to the company's annual report.

DECCA LISTING.

When was Decca Records stock admitted to trading on the New York Stock exchange? What is the par value of the stock?—G. F.

Answer: Decca Records, Inc., $1 par value capital stock was admitted to trading on the New York Stock exchange Jan. 5 this year.

CARS OF EXPORT FREIGHT RISE IN FIRST QUARTER

New York, April 19 [Special].—Cars of export freight, other than grain and coal unloaded at Atlantic, gulf, and Pacific ports in the first three months of this year numbered 190,356, compared with 134,812 cars a year earlier, the Association of American Railroads reported today. In March this traffic amounted to 68,419 cars, against 46,729 in March, 1941.

Cars of grain for export unloaded in the first quarter at these ports were 9,623, compared with 8,505 in the similar period of 1941. In March, 2,708 cars of export grain were unloaded, against 5,237 in March, last year.

CONGRESS NEAR SHOWDOWN ON INFLATION CURB

Members Impatient with F.D.R. Tactics.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—With administration leaders admitting failure of their anti-inflation program, a showdown on an integrated policy for ceilings on wages, prices, and profits is approaching.

Congress has indicated growing impatience with the stand taken by President Roosevelt over further steps to curb inflation, such as freezing of salaries and overall price ceilings.

Mr. Roosevelt has promised a statement, possibly this week, on a new anti-inflation program in response to these demands and to forestall legislation to ban strikes, eliminate overtime, and freeze wages.

Baruch Advice Ignored.

Altho the administration has endeavored to separate labor legislation from other measures to curb inflation, experts believe that the two subjects are too closely related to be so segregated. Ignoring the advice of Bernard M. Baruch, who was chairman of the war industries board during the World war, the administration last January put thru congress a price control law which exempted wages from ceiling control and allowed farm prices to rise an estimated 11 per cent over prices of foodstuffs, which already were inflated.

Under this law, Price Administrator Leon Henderson has pursued what has been looked upon as a hit and miss policy of fixing prices for commodities and industrial products. The result has been described as about the same as trying to stop leaks in a sieve. Even Henderson is foremost among administration officials now asking action to prevent an expected increase in prices that would impose hardships on civilians and boost war costs by 100 billion dollars.

Favors Freezing Wages.

Henderson now favors freezing of wages and price ceilings as of a certain date—similar to the Canadian system—more drastic taxes, and a compulsory savings system to force individuals to invest in war stamps and bonds. The taxes and forced savings are intended to sop up an estimated "excess" purchasing power up to 20 billion dollars in the year beginning July 1.

Other New Dealers, including Vice President Wallace and Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, are said to be pretty much in agreement with Henderson on this program, which would be coupled with additional strict rationing of consumers' goods.

Some New Dealers, visualizing the rapid growth of inflation, even predict an explosive inflation within the next two months as more curbs are imposed on production of consumers' goods while income continues to rise.

War Expenditures Rise.

War expenditures by the government are increasing sharply, reaching nearly 3 billion dollars in March, with more and more money going into the hands of war workers, for whom the labor unions are demanding wage increases, and continuance of time and a half for overtime beyond a 40 hour week.

Henderson has warned that the nation is in the "early station of a serious inflationary spiral" which can be stopped only by "an effective, wide scale government program to stabilize prices." He has estimated that the cost of living has risen 15 per cent since the war began in September, 1939, and will increase to 23 per cent by next September unless checked.

Other experts, noting how sharply prices have risen within the last year, predict a further jump of 10 to 20 per cent this year. Wholesale commodity prices are at the highest level since 1928.

Based on British Plan.

The present price control system was modeled after the pattern followed in England, but even there the system has failed. It is said clothing prices have risen 93 per cent in England since the war started and that other items have risen to 30 and 50 per cent in cost.

There is a split within the administration on the anti-inflation program, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau opposing Henderson, Eccles, and other New Dealers on the question of increased taxes and compulsory savings.

The President meanwhile has opposed eliminating overtime beyond the 40 hour week and other wage restricting measures. He is said to have sided with Morgenthau in the latter's objections to increasing the tax program beyond the 7.2 billions in new taxes, plus about 2 billions additional in social security levies, already outlined to congress by the treasury.

Not Quite Clear, Says F. D. R.

The only statement on inflation recently from the President was his remark at a press conference that he was not quite clear what the word "inflation" meant and wished other people wouldn't use it.

Morgenthau plans an intensified drive to increase purchases of war bonds and stamps, which have been declining since the new year began, bond purchases dropping from 1 billion dollars in January to about 550 million dollars in March. Morgenthau said the treasury would rather ring doorbells once a month than resort to compulsory purchases of bonds.

Tonight the treasury announced that under its new voluntary war savings program quotas will be established for every state and county in the nation, beginning May 1. In this campaign war savings committees in 3,070 counties will urge more than 50 million people to pledge an average of at least 10 per cent of their incomes for purchase of bonds and stamps.

Unofficially it is said the aim is to sell 2 billions monthly in bonds this year and 3 billions monthly next year. War bond purchases have exceeded 5 billion dollars to date.

With both the CIO and the AFL opposing proposals to freeze wages and the status of closed shops, observers said the President can be expected to softpedal this issue, or at least make only modified proposals, such as the operation of a board to arbitrate wage increases on the basis of increased living costs. Such machinery exists in the War Labor board, but Mr. Roosevelt hasn't directed it to curb wage increases.

PROPOSALS FOR GRADING AND DRAINAGE—U. S. Engineer Office, P. O. Box 97, Memphis, Tenn.—Sealed proposals will be received here until 11:00 A. M., Central War Time, April 23, 1942, and then publicly opened for site grading and drainage of Basic Flying School, Dyersburg, Tenn. The work is in four divisions aggregating approximately 4,880,000 cubic yards excavation, 850 acres seeding and sodding and 26,100 linear feet of tile drain. $15.00 deposit required on plans. Information on application.

Stanley Plan Output Guide Sent to 600 Manufacturers

The first issue of a directory of contract opportunities, a medium under the so-called Stanley plan for bringing together prime contractors and potential subcontractors on war production work, is being distributed today in the Chicago area.

Joseph L. Overlock, director of the War Production board's contract distribution branch in Illinois, announced that the directory had been sent to 600 potential subcontractors and would list 92 offerings of contract parts. Overlock is supervising the test of the plan in this area.

Types of Work Available.

The offerings from 19 prime contractors cover a wide variance in dollar volume, ranging from as low as $500 up to $100,000. Types of contract work available include ordnance parts for anti-aircraft guns, tanks, gun carriages, recoil mechanisms, gears and shafts, chemical processing equipment, bits and pieces, spare parts boxes, brass tubing, aluminum rods, and many small items.

"The principal items are of metal, varying from little metal caps machined on bench lathes to an 11,000 pound casting," Overlock explained. "However, there are wood items to be offered to subcontractors which should result in utilization of facilities not heretofore in war production."

Generally, the types of machines to be required in the initial offerings, he said, include shapers, gear cutting facilities, slotters, lathes, and boring, drilling, and milling machines.

Manufacturers May Apply.

Manufacturers, other than the 600 potential subcontractors receiving the first issue of the directory, who have machinery to qualify for the available work, may apply at a special office of the WPB contract distribution branch on the 36th floor of the Civic Opera building. Twice each day in this office, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., lectures are given explaining correct use of the directory and describing the method for subcontractors to follow in coding machine tools, so that they can make effective use of future issues of the contract listings. A directory will be issued each Monday.

Potential subcontractors are urged to attend the lectures for complete information, rather than to make telephone inquiries at either the War Production board's office or of prime contractors.

People and Events

More than 500 La Salle street securities men will "go back to school" today and tomorrow for instruction on teaching 100,000 amateurs to sell war bonds, the Illinois committee of the Securities Industry for War Financing announced yesterday. Today and tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. the securities men will meet at the Commonwealth Edison assembly hall in the Marquette building, 140 South Dearborn street, for lectures and demonstrations by the Northwestern university school of commerce.

Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, will head the bank division in the navy relief fund campaign which is being conducted by the Chicago Citizens' committee. W. H. Miller, vice president of the same bank, will solicit the outlying banks. Solicitations in the sporting goods industry will be conducted by L. B. Iceley, president of the Wilson Sporting Goods company. K. G. Ammerman of the Borg-Warner corporation will head the automotive parts team.

Members of the Chicago Alumni club of Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, will hear Charles K. Morris of the Investment Bankers Association of America discuss "Financing Victory" at a meeting tomorrow evening in the Northwestern university chapter house, 42 East Cedar street.

WPB STARTS NEW STUDY OF METAL USES AND NEEDS

Washington, D. C., April 19 (AP).—The War Production board announced today it was sending questionnaires to all American users of metal in raw or semifabricated form to obtain "a complete picture of United States metal use and requirements."

The new questionnaire supplements one sent to 11,000 metal users last Jan. 30, and in addition will also cover mines, railroads, shipyards, utilities, construction jobs, the petroleum industry and an expanded list of manufacturers including military and naval contractors.

WPB officials said the questionnaire is to be filled out and returned to the bureau of census not later than May 15.

Greyhound Bus Workers Get 12 Per Cent Pay Hike

Cleveland, O., April 19 (AP).—A 12 per cent wage increase for approximately 1,700 bus drivers, maintenance and terminal employés of Central, New England, and Illinois Greyhound lines has been granted by an arbitration board, Thomas C. Ott, president of a local AFL union, announced tonight.

AUTO PLANT WAR OUTPUT IN MONTH 27% OF 1941 TOTAL

Detroit, Mich., April 19 (AP).—Despite the difficulties of conversion to war production, the automobile industry, after automobile output had been halted, turned out military equipment in February equaling 27 per cent of its entire 1941 war production, Ernest Kanzler, chief of the automotive branch of the War Production board, said today. Production amounted to $266,000,000, far below the rate of 1941's peak auto month—$800,000,000, Kanzler said.

Kanzler announced, in disclosing the industry's start on its 14 billion dollar a year goal, that an overall statistical report would be issued monthly. The March report will be ready soon.

The February report, he said, was based on figures supplied by seven automobile manufacturers, 25 truck manufacturers, and 148 parts makers, together comprising 85 per cent of the industry.

SUGGESTS CLOSE BARGAINING ON WAR CONTRACTS

Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, suggested close government bargaining on war contracts as a means of minimizing excessive war profits in a University of Chicago Round Table broadcast yesterday.

"Excess profits legislation discriminates against the small business which lacks the bookkeeping techniques for stabilizing profits," Arnold said. "The solution may be found in close bargaining on the part of the government, permitting differentiation between one business and another in the letting of war contracts."

Leo M. Cherne, of the Georgetown university school of foreign service, differed with Arnold on the grounds that "both government and the corporations will be dealing with materials and conditions which neither understand."

CORN PRODUCTS' NET PROFIT CUT BY LARGER TAX

Operating profits of the Corn Products Refining company and its subsidiary sales companies increased to $8,765,291 in the first quarter of this year from $3,974,245 in the corresponding period a year ago, the company reported yesterday.

Provision of $6,135,000 for excess profits and normal income taxes reduced the net income to $2,151,344, equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to 68 cents a share on common stock. Net income was $2,496,983, or 81 cents a share, in the March quarter of 1941 when tax charges totaled $1,525,171.

Business Loans on a Personal Basis

The experience of this bank—the former Personal Loan & Savings Bank—has peculiarly qualified it to treat with small commercial and business concerns—individuals, partnerships, corporations—where credit accommodation may be determined upon personal and other intangible considerations.

We invite inquiries from what are popularly referred to as "the small business man," who may need lines of credit to enable him to take his vital part in the all out war effort.

WHEAT PRICES LOWEST SINCE LAST NOVEMBER

Supplies Are Vast, Says Government.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Wheat prices sank to the lowest levels since late November in Chicago last week under pressure of favorable crop prospects and depressing war and diplomatic developments. A report from the department of agriculture on wheat and the war told yesterday of the crop outlook and how markets would be confronted with unwieldy supplies.

"We have enough wheat on hand to take care of all conceivable domestic requirements," agricultural officials said. "In fact, our supply on July 1, 1942, will be large enough to take care of expected demands over a two year period.

"Forecasts for 1942 indicate that our wheat crop will exceed domestic consumption by over 100 million bushels—a production that will be added to our already tremendous reserve. This would result in an estimated carryover of 753 million bushels on July 1, 1943, a carryover bigger than many annual harvests.

Sees No Export Outlet.

"Export outlets of any quantity are not in sight, so the possibility of whittling our reserves thru foreign trade is extremely limited. Even with a sudden end to the war and a restoration of normal shipping—an unforeseen eventuality—our reserves are big enough to fill all likely demands until future crops are harvested."

The department said the 1942 outlook for the production of wheat, utilization, and supplies compares with the two preceding years as follows [last six ciphers omitted]:

Carryover, July 1	282	385	630
Production	815	946	793
Total supply	1,097	1,331	1,423
Domestic disappearance	675	680	670
Exports	37	21	..
Total utilization	712	701	670
Carryover, July 1	385	630	†753

Asserts Control Is Essential.

"The table shows the gigantic size of our wheat supply," the department said. "It is essential that wheat be kept under control. Otherwise, it could disrupt transportation and storage and leave our wheat producing structure in a weakened position for the duration of the war and after.

"Nearly 80 per cent of the wheat produced in the United States enters channels of trade. Of the remaining 20 per cent, less than 13 per cent is fed by producers. The remaining amount is used for seed and ground into flour for home use."

Corn and oats continued to resist the declines in other grains. Soy beans dropped to mid-January levels.

STEEL SCARCER, BUILDERS TURN TO LUMBER USE

Cleveland, O., April 19 (AP).—Difficulty in obtaining structural steel without long delay is causing numerous projects to be redesigned for reinforced concrete and timber construction, the magazine Steel reported today.

"The latter offers best results as reinforcing bars also are difficult to obtain without considerable delay and require a high priority rating," the review said. "Some projects for which timber construction is not feasible are being abandoned or deferred until conditions are better."

9 ADVANTAGES
of Getting YOUR LOAN from 'PERSONAL'

1. Loans made to all employed men and women whether single or married.
2. Business women and those working in defense plants—borrow here "on your own."
3. A special plan provides loans for defense workers and others on a new job or who have just moved into the community.
4. Between pay-day loans for small amounts and short periods made as readily as other loans.
5. Loans made for purchase of tools, uniforms, car or home repairs, medical or dental attention, payment of old bills, etc.
6. Your account here establishes NATION-WIDE Cash Credit at any of more than 400 "Personal" offices.
7. Monthly payments arranged that you can comfortably afford. Take a year or more to repay.
8. Complete privacy. Loans made on signature, furniture or auto. No wage assignments. Outsiders not involved.
9. Quick, friendly service. No waiting for a "Board" or committee to pass on your loan.

More people from coast-to-coast borrow from "Personal" than from any other similar company. If you need $10 to $250 or more, phone or come to our nearest office today.

FURNITURE LOANS
At Commonwealth you may take your choice of several loan plans. Actually, however, a furniture loan is by far the most popular. The requirements are so simple that nearly any one keeping house can qualify. The payments, too, can usually be adjusted to fit even the most modest income. If you need money, investigate the various loan plans COMMONWEALTH has to offer. STOP IN, WRITE, or PHONE for full details.

Farm Boy Admits Killing Illinois Couple Who Had Given Him Home—Yanks Raid Luzon Outposts

General view of farm near Shannon, Ill., on which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Krugjohann were slain by William Geiseman, 12 years old, whom they had befriended. Captions indicate the boy's action during shooting spree that he said had been caused by brooding over a whipping administered to him by the couple last September.
